Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 26 USC 7805 Internal Revenue Code of 1954; 26 USC 7872 Internal Revenue Code of 1954

CFR Citation: 26 CFR 1

The reason for the revisions is to implement new regulatory authorities set forth in PL 96-515, and to improve the efficiency of the historic preservation review process. The alternative to revision of the regulations is to leave them as they are, which would not achieve the goals the Council seeks. The revisions are expected to reduce the cost of complying with the regulations.

Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: EPA revises the Regulatory Agenda semiannually and it appears in the Federal Register each April and October. It provides specific information on the status of regulations that are under development, revision, and review at the Agency. The Agenda is published to keep interested parties informed of the progress of EPA regulations.

ADDRESSES: For specific information on any item in the Agenda, please contact the person listed with each entry.

If you have any suggestions for improving this publication, or need general information about the Agenda, please call or write to Angela Tyler, Regulation Management Staff, Environmental Protection Agency, PM-223, Washington, D.C. 20460, (202) 382-7205.

If you want to be on the mailing list for future Agendas, please call or write to Penelope Parker, Regulation and Information Management Division, Environmental Protection Agency, PM-223, Washington, D.C. 20460, (202) 382-5480.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Organization of the Agenda

The Agenda is organized by statutory area -- generally by the titles of the major legislation authorizing EPA's pollution control programs. In a few cases, the Agenda combines regulations with differing statutory authorities that have closely-related subject matter. For example, the Fuel Economy Data regulation under the Energy Policy and Conservation Act appears together with mobile source regulations under the Clean Air Act.

The statutory areas appear in the following order:

Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA)
Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetics Act (FFDCA)
Toxic Substances Control Act (TSCA)
Clean Water Act (CWA)
Marine, Protection, Research, and Sanctuaries Act (MPRSA)
Atomic Energy Act (AEA)
Safe Drinking Water Act (SDWA)
Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA)
Hazardous and Solid Waste Management Act (HSWA)
Clean Air Act (CAA)
Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation, and Liability Act (CERCLA)
General -- Other Acts (including general grant and procurement regulations and regulations that cut across several program areas)

Within each statutory area the entries are divided into four categories: (1) Prerulemakings; (2) proposed rules; (3) final rules; and (4) regulations that EPA is deleting from the Agenda because the Agency has completed, withdrawn, or postponed them indefinitely. Detailed information on each of these sections is presented below.

Appendix A includes a list of abbreviations of terms used in this document.

I. Prerulemakings

Prerulemaking actions are those activities underway at EPA that are intended to determine whether, or how, to initiate rulemaking. These activities would occur prior to proposed rulemaking, and includes anything that influences or leads to rulemaking. These activities include advance notices of proposed rulemaking; significant studies or analyses of the possible need for regulatory action; requests for public comment on the need for regulatory action; or important regulatory policy proposals.

This section also includes existing EPA regulations: (1) that are now under review, or (2) whose review will begin before EPA publishes the next Agenda. The purpose of such reviews is to determine whether the Agency should revise the rule, rescind it, or leave it unchanged. When finished, these reviews will appear in the completed section of the Agenda. If EPA decides to review or rescind the regulation, the action will appear in the following Agenda with an entry in the proposed rule section, and will state the timetable for completing the revision or rescission.

For each regulation under review, the Agenda provides the title, a short abstract, legal authority, CFR reference, any analysis EPA is preparing, contact person, and the schedule for completing the review. It also indicates the "review authority," which in many cases is different from the regulation's statutory authority. EPA reviews regulations under various mandates, and some reviews satisfy more than one of these mandates. The principal mandates are:

Executive Order 12498 is intended to establish annually the Administration's Regulatory Program. It defines priority activities that the Agency will work on during the upcoming year. Its purpose is to minimize duplication and conflict among regulatory activities across different agencies and enhance public understanding of the Administration's regulatory objectives.

Executive Order 12291 establishes the general policy that EPA should review its regulations to ensure that the costs of these regulations are justified by their benefits.

The Regulatory Flexibility Act requires that EPA review existing regulations that have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities, including small businesses, small organizations, and small governments, at least once every ten years. EPA invites public comment on the need to revise the list of regulations EPA is reviewing under the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

Reviews under the RFA are identified by a "Yes" in the "small entity" category. When the Agency completes reviews of regulations with a significant impact on small entities, the Agenda entry includes an abstract that announces the Agency's decision of whether to revise, rescind, or leave the regulation unchanged. This announcement complies with the RFA and EPA's July 16, 1981 plan (46 FR 36930) for reviewing regulations under the Act.

The Paperwork Reduction Act requires EPA to review its information collection activities to determine that the Agency needs and will actually use all of the information that will be collected. The Agency should make sure that it will manage the information as efficiently as possible. EPA must also ensure that the information to be collected is of high quality, appropriate for its intended use, and does not already exist at EPA or at some other Federal agency. In addition, the Act requires EPA to review the cost of collecting the information, so that it will be held to a minimum for both the respondent and EPA.

EPA

Proposed and Final Rules

Regulations are generally listed in the Agenda once they are within a year of scheduled publication as a notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM) or final action. Very important regulations under development will usually appear even if the scheduled publication dates are more than a year away.

Proposed and final rules appear as: (a) Actions that will create new CFR parts, subparts, or subsections; or (b) actions that revise or amend already existing CFR parts, subparts, or subsections. The word "revision" will appear in parentheses after the title of each regulation undergoing revision. All regulations appearing in the Agenda for the first time are marked with bullets (●).

The regulations are ordered numerically, by section number of the authorizing legislation. For example, all air regulations under section 109 of the Clean Air Act will appear before those under section 111.

This section includes all "significant" EPA regulations. Some are top priority regulations under development that:

- Are subject to Executive Order 12498; or
- The Agency has designated for priority development or revision.

However, the listings exclude: (a) Specialized categories of actions (such as EPA approvals of state plans and other actions that do not apply nationally); and (b) routine actions (such as pesticide tolerances and minor amendments to existing rules).

For each proposed and final regulation, the Agenda includes:

- The title
- The priority classification (if applicable)
- The legal authority
- The CFR reference
- A short abstract
- An analysis section (if the Agency is preparing a Regulatory Impact Analysis [RIA] and/or a Regulatory Flexibility Analysis [RFA])
- A timetable of existing and scheduled actions
- A reference to small entity impacts
- An Agency contact, and
- An additional information section

The additional information section includes the FTS phone number for the Agency contact. It also includes the Start Action Request (SAR) number, which is assigned to the regulation for internal tracking purposes.

III. Completed Actions

These are actions that appeared in the last Agenda, but which EPA is deleting because they are completed or are no longer under consideration. The information given on these regulations and reviews of regulations is less detailed than for those that are still under consideration. Generally, entries include: (1) The date and Federal Register citation, if any, of the last action on the regulation, and (2) an explanation of why the Agency is deleting the regulation from the Agenda.

DATED: March 13, 1986.

John M. Campbell,

Deputy Assistant Administrator for Policy, Planning, and Evaluation.

ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY (EPA)—Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA)

Proposed Rule Stage

2594. ● TOXICOLOGY DATA REQUIREMENTS FOR ANTIMICROBIAL PESTICIDES

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136 /FIFRA 3

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 158

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA will propose a policy to require toxicology data requirements for certain antimicrobial pesticide products. At present, virtually all antimicrobials are registered by EPA on the basis of only acute toxicity data because exposure is not considered to be repeated or long term. The only exception is the category of swimming pool chemicals because exposure of swimmers is whether exposure to additional antimicrobial pesticides is significant and/or repeated and whether expanded toxicology data, as described in Part 158, the Data Requirements for Pesticide Registration, should be required for certain antimicrobials.

2595. ● RESTRICTED USE CLASSIFICATION FOR CERTAIN ACTIVE INGREDIENTS USED IN TERMITICIDES

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136 /FIFRA 3

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 162.31

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: FIFRA requires that pesticides be classified for either general use or restricted to trained, certified pesticide applicators. This rule would classify certain active ingredients in termiticides for restricted use based on criteria concerning toxicity, persistency and quantity used per application. Classification for restricted use permits the continued use of certain pesticides which, if used without restrictions, may have adverse effects on human health and the environment.

2596. ● SALE OF RESTRICTED USE PESTICIDES TO NONCERTIFIED APPLICATORS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 136 /FIFRA 4, 12

CFR Citation: 40 CFR Not applicable

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action is intended to develop regulations to allow the sale of restricted use pesticides to persons who are not certified under special circumstances as set forth by Congress in 1978. Regulatory development will be coordinated with the review of state plans FIFRA Section 4 to determine both need and compatibility with State authorities and programs.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136 /FIFRA 12, 18

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 153.12; 40 CFR 166.7

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA is proposing to treat as unlawful under FIFRA section 12 or restrict the advertising of certain uses of pesticides authorized for experimental use, emergency use, and special local needs. The proposed policy will also address advertising of other unregistered pesticides and pesticide use patterns. This policy is intended to prevent misuse of pesticides which could cause unreasonable adverse effects on humans or the environment.

Abstract: EPA's Office of Pesticide Programs is updating the Guidelines on Disposal and Storage of Pesticides to make them consistent with current regulations and technology. The Office of Pesticide Programs is also adding interpretive guidance on compliance with RCRA regulations on hazardous waste as they may apply to the disposal and storage of pesticides. These guidelines serve as guidance only and compliance is completely voluntary.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136 / FIFRA 25

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 31 USC 9701 /Idependent Offices Appropriation Act of 1952

CFR Citation: 40 CFR Not applicable

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under the authority of the Independent Offices Appropriation Act (IOAA) of 1952, the Agency is proposing to establish user fees for processing pesticide registration actions which constitute special services to registrants. The Agency is also considering establishing fees for other special services such as re-registration. The proposed registration fee system would place all or part of the burden of payment for the Agency's services on those who benefit from the service rather than on the Agency.

2601. RESTRICTED USE CLASSIFICATION FOR CERTAIN ACTIVE INGREDIENTS USED IN FUMIGANTS

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136 / FIFRA 3

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 162.31

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: FIFRA requires that pesticides be classified for either general use or restricted to trained, certified pesticide applicators, or people under their direct supervision. This rule would classify certain active ingredients in grain fumigants for restricted use based on an evaluation of the incremental risks and benefits of unrestricted use. Classification for restricted use permits the continued use of certain pesticides which, if used without restrictions may have unreasonable adverse effects on the environment. Issuance of a final rule by EPA has been deferred pending completion of a comprehensive review of all grain fumigants used as substitutes to EDB(ethylene dibromide).

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136(a) / FIFRA 3

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 162

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: These regulations will revise procedures and requirements for the registration, reregistration and classification of pesticide products as restricted use. Abstract: EPA is proposing to amend its regulations on the use of child resistant packaging for pesticide products to provide for exemptions for certain products based on the size of the package in which the product is distributed. CFR Citation: 40 CFR 172; 40 CFR 162

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: New microorganisms developed through advanced techniques of genetic engineering and used for FIFRA commercial purposes will be subject to EPA requirements. OPTS is now developing a policy for handling genetically engineered pesticides, and strategies for conducting risk assessments of these organisms. A proposed policy was published in December 1984. Comments were due on April 1, 1985. The policy will be revised, as appropriate, and a final statement will be prepared. In addition, OPTS is participating in an inter-Agency Working Group on Biotechnology to ensure that the overall Federal approach is integrated and consistent.

2606. ● REPORTING REQUIREMENTS FOR RISK/BENEFITS INFORMATION

Legal Authority: 7 USC 136 /FIFRA 6

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 153

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: FIFRA Section 6(a)(2) requires that registrants report to EPA additional factual information regarding unreasonable adverse effects of their products. In September 1985, EPA revised its 1979 section 6 (a)(2) enforcement policy by publishing a notice which expanded upon the types of factual information which must be reported and established uniform timeframes for compliance. In response to comments received on this notice, the Agency is revising it to clarify the types of information which registrants must report to EPA.

2608. ● RESTRICTED USE CLASSIFICATION FOR CERTAIN ACTIVE INGREDIENTS USED IN GRANULAR INSECTICIDES

Legal Authority: 42 USC 136 /FIFRA 3

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 162.31

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: FIFRA requires that pesticides be classified either for general use, or restricted to trained, certified pesticide applicators or people under their direct supervision. In August 1979, EPA proposed to classify as restricted use several pesticide active ingredients used in granular insecticide formulations. Since then the granular formulations of all of these pesticides, except fenamiphos, have been reclassified through Registration Standard review. Since a Registration Standard review of fenamiphos is not expected to be completed in 1986, EPA is making final its proposal to restrict the use of fenamiphos in granular formulations. Classification for Restricted use permits the continued use of certain pesticides which, if used without restrictions, may have adverse effects on human health or the environment.

Abstract: The following table lists chemicals for which EPA will initiate rulemaking to require testing or publish a notice which provides the reasons for not doing so. The list includes chemicals which have been designated for priority testing consideration by the Interagency Testing Committee as well as those chemicals (i.e., recommended and non-designated chemicals) for which the 12 month statutory requirement does not apply. The list also includes chemicals or categories of chemicals which have been identified for testing consideration by other EPA program offices and through TSCA review processors.

Abstract: EPA is currently evaluating the utility of a categorical approach to regulating new and existing chemicals.

VOL 51 ISS 76 AP 21 1986 UMI

A categorical approach would permit EPA to put new and existing chemical categories of interest on a more equal footing. The actions considered for the categories include requirements for testing under Section 4 of TSCA, requirements to provide more information on the manufacture and use of the chemicals under Section 8, requirements to limit some aspect of the manufacture or use of a chemical under Section 5, and potential action under Section 6 or 9 to limit the manufacture or use of the chemicals. Consideration will also be given to voluntary approaches to the development of data and the control of category members. Outputs of this action calls for specific categories; those rules are separately in the Regulatory Agenda once a decision has been made to develop a specific rule.

Abstract: EPA has instituted a program to follow the commercial development of selected new chemicals that have completed premanufacture notice review. EPA will issue rules on new chemicals of concern as they are identified to require follow-up reporting under TSCA Section 5 or 8, by the manufacturers and processors of the chemicals. Individual proposed and final rules will be published at different times throughout the period of April 1986 to April 1987.

2620. CHEMICAL SPECIFIC SIGNIFICANT NEW USE RULES TO EXTEND PROVISIONS OF SECTION 5(E) ORDERS

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2604 /TSCA 5

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 721

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: When the Agency determines that in the absence of adequate safety data, the uncontrolled manufacture, distribution, use or disposal of a PMN substance may present an unreasonable risk, it may issue a proposed order under section 5(e) to limit the aforementioned activities. However, section 5(e) orders apply only to the PMN submitter. Once the substance is placed on the TSCA chemical inventory, other persons are free to manufacture or process the substance without controls. Therefore EPA, by rule, designates manufacture or processing of the substances for use without the specified controls as a significant new use. These SNURs ensure that the original submitter is not at a competitive disadvantage and that no uncontrolled activities will occur without an opportunity for prior Agency review.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2694 /TSCA Section 5

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 721

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The generic acrylate significant new use rule may require any person who proposes to manufacture, import, or process an acrylate/methacrylate subject to the category definition contained within the proposed rule to notify EPA at least 90 days in advance of the initiation of a significant new use. The significant new use rule will apply to a subset of acrylates and methacrylates added to the inventory after the effective date, it will no longer be necessary to issue routine 5(e) orders or chemical specific SNURs for those acrylates covered by the rule.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2604 /TSCA Section 5

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 721

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA believes that if a microorganism subject to TSCA is a pathogen or contains genetic material from a pathogen(s), then any new environmental use of the microorganism should be considered a "significant new use" and a significant new use notification should be required. EPA will propose a rule consistent with this policy under TSCA section 5(b). EPA will try to exclude unaltered pathogens used on fewer than 10 acres from this SNUR. EPA will consider whether it should include provisions to review all nonindigenous pathogens. EPA will announce in an FR notice its expectation that anyone using such products will report to EPA between now and the time that the pathogen SNUR is final.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Abstract: EPA believes that living microorganisms used in small scale field tests are not "small quantities for research and development" and are therefore not exempt from PMB reporting under section 5(h)(4). EPA will amend the PMN rule to clarify this. Under the amended rule, persons wishing to field test "new" microorganisms have to submit a PMN prior to field testing.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2605 / TSCA 6

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 747

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The formulation of water-based metalworking fluids with nitrite in combination with alkanolamines may present an unreasonable risk to machinists due to the formulation of nitrosamines, particularly in n-nitrosodiethanolamine (NDELA). Recent studies indicate that NDELA is a potent animal carcinogen. EPA may propose to prohibit the intentional addition of inorganic nitrites to water- containing metalworking fluids that contain amines.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2605 / TSCA 6; 15 USC 2608 / TSCA 9

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 765

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: As described in the Federal Register on May 23, 1984, the Agency has been investigating regulatory options for the reduction of three categories of exposure to formaldehyde: 1) residents exposed to formaldehyde emissions from wood products used in the construction of mobile homes: 2) similarly exposed residents of conventional homes: 3) apparel manufacture employees exposed to formaldehyde released from treated fabrics. Because OSHA proposed a standard in December 1985 that applies to all occupational exposure, EPA has terminated its investigation with respect to apparel manufacturing employees. Investigation is being conducted in consultation with HUD and CPSC. This investigation may lead to the initiation of various control alternatives, including section 9 referral to other agencies and/or section 6 regulations.

2627. ASBESTOS ABATEMENT BUILDING OCCUPANT PROTECTION RULE

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2605/TSCA 6

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 764

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rulemaking may set standards to ensure that building occupants and visitors are protected during asbestos abatement. Approaches being considered include (1) a rule requiring that asbestos abatement contractors undergo certain training in order to ensure that they are competent to conduct asbestos abatement work, and (2) non-regulatory approaches based on programs EPA has started or is expanding that would assist States in establishing programs that ensure persons performing abatement work are "certified" as competent to perform such work.

In addition, OSHA is now revising its asbestos rule and intends to issue new asbestos standards for the construction industry in the near future. These OSHA standards may contain a provision requiring employers to institute a training program for employees. Such a provision could obviate the need for all or part of this rule, although amendments to the EPA worker protection rule would be necessary.

Abstract: Under EPA's regulations on the disposal of PCBs, spills, leaks and other uncontrolled discharges of PCBs constitute the illegal disposal of PCBs. Because such discharges of PCBs are considered to be violations of the PCB disposal regulations, EPA requires the cleanup of contamination resulting from such discharges. This action is directed toward establishing nationwide standards under TSCA for the cleanup of PCB spills. Abstract: This rule adds chemicals to the list of chemicals and designated mixtures subject to the requirements of the TSCA Section 8(a) Preliminary Assessment Information Rule - (40 CFR Part 712). Chemicals not designated by the Interagency Testing Committee (ITC) for test rules, and not subject to EPA's one year priority consideration are also included for reporting under Section 8(a). These include chemicals identified by OTS; other EPA offices and other Agencies. Manufacturers and importers are required to submit exposure-related data (EPA Form No. 7710-35) on the chemicals. These data will be used to monitor the levels of production, import and/or processing of these substances and the avenues of human and environmental exposure to these substances. Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2625 /TSCA 26(B)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 720

Abstract: Section 26(b) of TSCA authorizes EPA, by rule, to require the payment of a fee from any persons required to submit data under sections 4 or 5 of TSCA. The fee may not exceed $2,500 or, in the case of a small business, $100. EPA intends to propose a rule under this authority to require fees for premanufacture notices (PMNs) on new chemical substances. EPA is also considering whether fees should be required for test marketing exemption notices on polymers and low-volume chemicals, and whether fees required for PMNs should be reduced if the submitter provides test data on the new chemical substance.

A proposed policy was published in December 1984. Comments were due on April 1, 1985. The policy will be revised, as appropriate, and final statement will be prepared. In addition, OPTS is participating in an inter-Agency Working Group on Biotechnology to ensure that the overall Federal approach is integrated and consistent.

Abstract: Section 6(e)(3)(b) of TSCA provides that the Administrator may grant, by rule, exemptions from the prohibitions on the manufacture, processing and distribution in commerce of PCBs upon finding (1) that granting the exemption will not pose an unreasonable risk of injury to health or the environment, and (2) that good faith efforts have been made to develop a PCB substitute which does not pose an unreasonable risk of injury to health or the environment.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2605 / TSCA 6

Abstract: Asbestos is a known human carcinogen. Persons are exposed to asbestos from releases to the environment during all phases of the lifecycle of asbestos products. Because of the serious risk presented to many people from exposure to asbestos during the lifecycle of asbestos products, EPA has proposed a rule under Section 6 of TSCA to ban certain asbestos products for which substitutes are currently available and to phase out all or most asbestos mining and importation over 10 years.

2645. PARTIAL UPDATING OF CERTAIN TSCA INVENTORY DATA

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2607 / TSCA 8(a)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 710, Subpart b

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule would update, under the authority of section 8(a) of TSCA, the production volume and plant site data for certain substances reported for the TSCA Chemical Substances Inventory. The information is needed by EPA to perform a number of activities associated with the implementation of TSCA. The current Inventory data base was compiled in 1979, based on 1977 data. The obsolescence of the Inventory data base and the lack of an alternative source that can fully satisfy EPA's requirements have formed the basis for the proposed action. EPA has proposed that certain manufacturers/importers of certain substances report current production volume, plant site location, and site-limited status. After the initial reporting, follow-up reporting will be required on a regular basis.

Legal Deadline: Statutory, August 1987. Eighteen months after submission to Congress of the Domestic Sewage Study required by RCRA Sec. 3018(a). Submitted 2/8/86.

Abstract: Regulations are to be promulgated to ensure that hazardous wastes discharged to publicly owned treatment works are adequately controlled to protect human health and the environment. The ANPRM will present a spectrum of possible approaches and solicit the best ways to implement the recommendations of the Congressionally-mandated study of the RCRA domestic sewage exclusion. 2654. GUIDELINES FOR CLASSIFYING GROUNDWATER UNDER THE EPA GROUNDWATER PROTECTION STRATEGY

CFR Citation: Not applicable

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: In August 1984, EPA issued Groundwater Protection Strategy to provide clear objectives to guide the Agency's efforts to protect groundwater. The strategy incorporated views of State and local governments, industry, a broad-cross section of public-interest groups, and other Federal agencies who had been invited to comment on the development of the strategy. One of the major factors toward the development of the strategy was the need to achieve greater consistency among the many EPA programs in protecting groundwater and the need to take into account its value and vulnerability in developing protection and cleanup approaches. Some EPA programs tended to factor in groundwater considerations to a greater extent than other programs. These differences were creating confusion among those subject to these regulations, and among State and local officials who were implementing EPA programs. Now EPA is looking at a rational basis for decisionmaking through these guidelines. The Agency plans to publish both draft and final guidelines.

Abstract: The Agency promulgated BPT, BAT, and BCT limitations, and NSPS for the plastics and molding and forming industry on December 17, 1984, with the exception of three phthalates in two subcategories. Limitations were reserved for the phthalates because the Agency does not have treatability data for the technology identified to control those pollutants (i.e., activated carbon absorption). The Agency plans to obtain those data through a treatability study and then to propose and promulgate limitations for phthalates, if appropriate. The phthalates are: 1) bis(2-ethylhexyl) phthalate, 2) di-n-butyl phthalate, and 3) dimethyl phthalate. The Agency is planning to withdraw the phthalates portion of the rule under paragraph 8 of the NRDC consent decree.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Costle decision (629 F. 2d 118), which involved dredged material issues. These regulations will involve multi-media issues, such as how to compare impacts of ocean disposal and land-based alternatives. Abstract: In response to the need to provide for the safe disposal of hazardous wastes, the Agency has proposed regulations governing at-sea incineration of hazardous wastes (50 FR 8222, February 28, 1985). Incineration of liquid wastes at-sea is a potential method to help solve the nation's hazardous waste problem. Designation of sites for incineration-at-sea is a necessary step in making this technique for waste disposal available. An incineration-at-sea site for the Gulf of Mexico was designated in 1976 and redesignated in 1982. The Agency is planning to designate additional sites in the North Atlantic and Pacific.

2667. NPDES NEW SOURCE AND SHORT APPLICATION FORMS (REVISION)

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1311 / CWA 301

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 122

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action will develop an NPDES application form for new manufacturing, commercial, mining, and silvicultural operations. Besides obtaining information necessary for setting effluent discharge limitations, it will also help permit writers to determine whether the facility is a new source. This action will also develop a short, two-page application form for use by non-process wastewater dischargers. These dischargers usually contain only materials such as sanitary wastes and non-contact cooling water.

Some data obtained from the Organic Chemicals/Plastics and Synthetics Fibers project will be examined for technology transfer opportunities. Lead limits for three subcategories were studied and revisions to these limits will be made. Rubber reclaimers covered by subparts H and I have been re-examined for BCT, BAT, and NSPS regulations. National regulations will not be issued for two rubber reclaimed subcategories.

Abstract: EPA promulgated effluent limitations and standards for BPT, BAT, NSPS, PSNS and PSES for the Pulp, Paper and Paperboard and the Builders' Paper and Board Mills point source category. BCT limitation will not be established until promulgation of the general methodology for BCT. The Agency proposed BAT and NSPS regulations that would limit the discharge of polychlorinated biphenyls (PCBs) into waters of the United States from mills in this industry where fine and tissue papers are made from deinked wastepaper. In response to a court remand of the final 1977 BPT regulation, EPA has also proposed a revised BPT limitation for BOD5 in acetate grade production in the dissolving sulfite pulp subcategory. The Agency intends to promulgate BCT limitations, PCB regulations and the BOD5 limitation for acetate grade production in the dissolving sulfite pulp subcategory.

Abstract: EPA is revising the cost reasonableness test for BCT effluent guidelines. EPA is making these revisions in response to a 1981 court decision. EPA proposed a revised BCT methodology and new BCT limitations on October 29, 1982 for 16 industries, including pulp and paper, inorganic chemicals, metal finishing, seafood processing, and meat products. EPA issued a notice of data availability on September 20, 1984, requesting comment on new information that is being considered for use in the final BCT methodology. Following analysis of the comments on this notice, EPA will publish a final BCT methodology and BCT effluent guidelines for certain industries identified in the CFR citations listed.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 300 / SDWA 1412

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 141

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA has promulgated Recommended Maximum Contaminant Levels (RMCLS) and proposed Primary Drinking Water Regulations for certain volatile synthetic organic compounds (VOCs), (including monitoring and reporting requirements for these VOCs as well as other unregulated VOCs.) These VOCs have been most commonly found in drinking water drawn from groundwater sources. These chemicals include such compounds as trichloroethylene, tetrachloroethylene, and vinyl chloride. Aeration and granular activated carbon (GAC) systems are treatment technologies that can reduce these contaminants to a low level. Preliminary estimates show that average residential monthly bills for affected systems could rise from $1-$14 depending on the size of the drinking water system and the type of technology selected.

If a waste is listed as hazardous it will be subject to those requirements contained in 40 CFR Parts 262-266 and Parts 270, 271 and 124. A listing decision is an internal determination which is based on extensive waste characterization studies and toxicological evaluations. As a result of this determination, a regulatory package is prepared which then goes through Agency regulatory review procedures. The Agency can decide either to list or not to list and will justify this decision in the rulemaking package.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6924 / RCRA 3004, 3005

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 264

Legal Deadline: Statutory, November 8, 1988

Abstract: Burning of hazardous waste in boilers for the purpose of heat recovery is currently exempt from regulation under RCRA. The Hazardous and Solid Waste Amendments of 1984 require the Agency to develop technical standards for the burning of hazardous waste fuels. This regulation will establish acceptable situations for use of hazardous waste fuel in industrial boilers and certain industrial furnaces. It will also establish prohibitions, operating parameters, and permit procedures.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6924 / RCRA 3004; 42 USC 6925 / RCRA 3005

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 264; 40 CFR 265

Abstract: These amendments to the Agency's interim status and permitting rules may include requirements pertaining to double liner and leachate collection systems for certain units which are currently singularly lined, leak detection systems, leak response and repair construction quality assurance plans, removable coupons and leachate level monitoring. These amendments are considered to assure better design, construction, and operation of hazardous waste land disposal facilities and, thus, enhance protection of human health and the environment.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6901 /RCRA 3004, HSWA 206

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 264

Legal Deadline: Statutory, November 8, 1985

Abstract: The current RCRA regulations require owners/operators of hazardous waste management facilities to demonstrate financial responsibility for the costs of closure and post closure (if applicable) activities. The HSWA require that owners/operators seeking a RCRA permit also demonstrate financial responsibility for completing corrective actions for prior releases. EPA plans to write implementing regulations using the financial instruments in the current hazardous waste regulations.

Abstract: The Appendix VIII of 40 CFR Part 261 is a list of hazardous constituents presently referenced in 40 CFR Part 264 for use in groundwater monitoring. Legal Authority: 42 USC 6924 / RCRA 3004 /HSWA 208

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 264H; 40 CFR 265H

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule would require owners and operators of hazardous waste disposal facilities to demonstrate financial responsibility for corrective action. Failures to undertake corrective action by owners or operators will result in increasing degradation of groundwater resources and increased clean-up costs to the public. Firms with low net worth may not be able to obtain or afford other financial assurance mechanisms as they are currently structured in 40 CFR Part 264, Subpart H. The Agency is examining the effects of a national fund and restructured financial assurance instruments.

CFR Citation: 40 CFR Not yet determined

Legal Deadline: Statutory. 02/08/87, 08/08/87, 08/08/88

Abstract: This regulation will establish, under Subtitle I of RCRA, requirements for leak detection, prevention, and closure of all underground storage tanks holding petroleum and other regulated substances. Because of the large size of the regulated community, this rule could impact a significant number of small business entities and a Regulatory Flexibility Analysis would be conducted by EPA. Promulgation of this rule, will, for the first time, establish national requirements for the storage of regulated substances, including, petroleum products in underground tanks. It will not apply to underground tanks storing hazardous wastes, which are currently regulated under Subtitle C of RCRA. These regulations will also include performance standards for new tanks; addressing the design, construction, installation, compatibility and leak detection.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6924 / RCRA 3004

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 264; 40 CFR 265

Legal Deadline: Judicial, June 30, 1986

Abstract: The storage or treatment of hazardous waste in tanks systems raises considerable concern regarding potential risk to health or the environment posed by migration of the waste. The purpose of this action is to develop a more comprehensive regulatory strategy for the proper management of tank systems for storing or treating hazardous waste.

Abstract: The Agency proposed revisions to the existing Subpart G and H regulations in accordance with the terms of the American Iron and Steel Institute (AISI) litigation. In addition, the revisions will clarify ambiguous language in the current regulations. Failure to promulgate these revisions directly violates the AISI settlement agreement. Under the AISI settlement agreement, failure to promulgate these revisions may lead to a direct legal challenge of the existing Subpart G and H regulations. Failure to clarify ambiguous language will create problems as the Agency implements those closure and post closure requirements.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6924 /RCRA 3004

Abstract: Alternative concentration limits (ACLs) provide a variance for RCRA permits that allows for some leakage of hazardous constituents. The present regulations do not allow for the use of man-made hydrogeologic barriers as part of an ACL demonstration. This regulatory amendment would explicitly allow such use. This action will also evaluate parameters and statistics for detecting ground-water contamination, and other ground- water monitoring and standards issues. Legal Authority: 42 USC 6901 / RCRA 3004

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 264; 40 CFR 265

Abstract: The Agency is considering whether to revise the financial responsibility requirements in 40 CFR Parts 264(i) and (j) and 265. The Agency will request comments on the availability of insurance to satisfy the existing liability coverage requirements for owners and operators of hazardous waste facilities and on methods for the Agency to address potential restrictions in the availability of coverage. EPA is considering whether any revisions to 40 CFR Parts 264 and 265 are necessary in light of the current state of the insurance market. The Agency intends to promulgate regulations allowing the corporate guarantee to be used for third party liabilities and it intends to propose indemnity agreements and letters of credit.

Abstract: Existing regulations allow EPA to make specified minor modification to existing RCRA permits without going through the draft permit and public participation procedures required to make more substantial changes to permits. 2765. NSPS: SOCMI REACTOR PROCESSES

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7411 / CAA 111

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 60

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The scope of the SOCMI reactor processes NSPS includes all reactor processes (other than air oxidation reactor processes) used to manufacture 173 synthetic organic chemicals produced in quantities of at least 100 million lb/yr. These large-volume chemicals account for about 90 percent of the total domestic chemical production from the SOCMI. Furthermore, production of these large-volume chemicals is expected to have the greatest impact on nationwide VOC emissions, since the magnitude of emissions from reactor process units are generally proportional to chemical production rates.

2776. SMALL-VOLUME MANUFACTURERS CERTIFICATION PROCEDURE (REVISION)

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7401 / CAA 206

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 86

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action will result in rules to provide for certification of emissions compliance for commercial importers and individuals importing vehicles into the United States. By a separate action, the Manufacturers Operations Division is revising its rules for individual vehicle importation. This action is necessary to provide an appropriate mechanism to import vehicles into the United States under certification regulations and assure their compliance with the exhaust emission standards. Current rules for small-volume manufacturers were not intended to apply to conversion of previously manufactured but uncertified configurations. However, increasingly large numbers of manufacturers who import vehicles for resale have applied for EPA certification as an alternative to individual vehicle importation. This will primarily impact small business organizations involved in importing motor vehicles. The likely impact of these changes will be increased costs to these organizations.

Abstract: In-use motor vehicle evaporative hydrocarbon emissions greatly exceed their applicable EPA emissions standards. The primary reason is that the volatility of commercial gasoline is substantially greater than that of the certification test fuel specified by EPA. This rule will consider options to deal with this problem including control of commercial fuel volatility and a change to certification test fuel volatibility.

Abstract: This action will revise Part 58 to clarify and incorporate changes to the regulations deemed appropriate as a result of the past four years of experience. One of the principal revisions will propose allowing 120 days after the end of each quarter instead of the current 90 days for the submittal of National Air Monitoring System (NAMS) air quality and precision data to EPA. Abstract: EPA is developing standards under Section 112 of the CAA to control emissions of Radon-222 from uranium mill tailings during the period of mill operation prior to closure. Other radioactive releases during operation and all releases after closure are controlled by other EPA standards. Information was solicited through an ANPRM on October 31, 1984. 2807. "GUIDELINE ON AIR QUALITY MODELS" (REVISION)

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: CAA 165(e)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 51.24(l); 40 CFR 52.21(m)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action proposes to revise the "Guideline on Air Quality Models" (issued in April 1978) to reflect changes to the state-of-the-science of modeling and changes to current practice and policies. Revisions to the Guideline were developed in 1980 and public hearings were held. Based on public comments, EPA has conducted studies to resolve some issues. Additional evaluation studies of models, suggested by commenters and performed in accordance with the recommendations of the American Meteorological Society, are underway. Early results of both are now available and should become part of EPA's guidance. The revised guideline should greatly reduce inconsistencies in the development and revision of emission limitations and in the determination of PSD increment consumption. New modeling procedures allow potentially greater accuracy in modeling results and the attainment of clean air goals at less cost.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 7522 / CAA 203

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 85

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: EPA is considering various options for improving the effectiveness and Administration of EPA's present regulation assessing the importation of nonconforming vehicles. Nonconforming vehicles are ones which have not been demonstrated to conform with Federal emission requirements. The regulatory revision options range from requiring that only certificate holders may import the vehicles (such entitles to bear responsibility for their emission performance) to continuing the approach in the current regulation with various improvements, to elimination of importation of such vehicles (with any minor exceptions). EPA is also considering elimination of any personal use exceptions.

Abstract: EPA will propose these amendments to require the use of unleaded gasoline in all emissions and fuel economy testing of gasoline fueled light-duty vehicles, light-duty trucks, motorcycles and heavy-duty engines. EPA believes that leaded fuel is no longer needed for new gasoline fueled vehicles or engines. The proposal is consistent with EPA's desire to eliminate the use of leaded fuel in motor vehicles.

Abstract: Section 102 of CERCLA establishes a statutory reportable quantity (RQ) for all designated hazardous substances and directs the EPA Administrator to promulgate regulations establishing RQ's adjusted from the statutory quantity if appropriate. Radionuclides are hazardous substances under CERCLA because they are designated as a hazardous air pollutant under section 112 of the Clean Air Act. Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1321 / CWA 311; 42 USC 9605 / CERCLA 105

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 300.61

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The National Contingency Plan (NCP) is the primary regulation directing government and responsible party response to and cleanup of discharges of oil, and releases of hazardous substances, pollutants and contaminants. EPA anticipates that reauthorization of Superfund, currently being debated in a Congressional Conference Committee, will necessitate further revisions to the NCP. Because of the great differences between the Senate and the House bills, it is inappropriate at this time to speculate upon specific revisions that may be required.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: 33 USC 1344 /CWA 404(c)

CFR Citation: 40 CFR 231

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This action will revise EPA's existing 404(c) regulations, in effect since October 9, 1979. It will establish the procedures to be used when EPA is considering the use of Section 404(c) of the CWA to prevent the discharge of dredged or fill material into a defined area of the waters of the United States. Section 404(c) gives the Administrator authority to prohibit or withdraw the specification of a site as a disposal site or to deny or restrict use of a disposal site. Prior to 1983, we have taken only one 404(c) action. Since that time, we have initiated nine such actions. In the preamble to the 404(c) regulations, we indicated that we would do an evaluation of these regulations within four years of the effective date. We delayed this evaluation in order to carefully consider our recent experiences with these regulations. This review is completed, and we plan to revise the regulations to reflect our findings.

Abstract: On March 15, 1983, the Commission voted to review the recordkeeping portions of the Guidelines. During that review process, several questions arose which pertained to the substantive, non-recordkeeping provisions of the Guidelines. Consequently, the Commission decided to review the substantive portions of the Guidelines. The major substantive areas under review are: 1) the purpose of the Guidelines and whether there is still a need for the Guidelines; 2) the theory of adverse impact and the method of determining when such impact is significant; and 3) how to establish test validity. When the review is completed, the Commission will decide whether any regulatory revisions are needed.

Legal Authority: 29 USC 628 Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 1625.13; 29 CFR 1625.21

Abstract: The Department of Labor on January 9, 1969, published an interpretative guideline which provided that apprenticeship programs were not covered by the ADEA. On July 1, 1979, the Commission assumed responsibility and authority for enforcement of the ADEA. On September 29, 1981, the Commission republished the Department of Labor's guideline, 29 CFR 1625.13. After an exhaustive review of the ADEA and its legislative history, the Commission proposes to rescind 29 CFR 1625.13, as it presently exists, and promulgate a substantive rule providing that apprenticeship programs are covered by the ADEA. The extension of ADEA coverage to apprenticeship programs is consistent with the purpose of the Act. It will allow those forty years of age and older the same opportunities to participate in apprenticeship programs as are currently enjoyed by younger individuals.

2892. DISASTER ASSISTANCE: THE DECLARATION PROCESS

CFR Citation: 44 CFR 205, Subpart C

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This document describes several proposed regulation changes, most of which are intended to implement the requirement in the Disaster Relief Act of 1974 that Federal disaster assistance be supplemental to the efforts and resources of State and local governments. The policy would require that for each major disaster and emergency the Governor of the affected State make a commitment, on behalf of the State and local governmental and eligible private nonprofit entities to assume a portion of otherwise eligible "public assistance" costs as a part of the non-Federal effort to respond to Presidentially-declared major disasters or emergencies. This proposed rule change includes the establishment of a declaration decision-making system that would incorporate the use of "capability indicators" upon which a public assistance recommendation for a declaration could be made. This proposed rule also includes changes to the current FEMA regulations relating to FEMA policy on preliminary damage assessments, the Consolidated List of Debarred, Suspended, and Ineligible contractors, and the FEMA-State Agreement with regard to certain Indian tribes and Alaskan Native villages.

2911. FEDERAL PROPERTY MANAGEMENT REGULATIONS; REVISES THE REPORTING REQUIREMENTS FOR REAL PROPERTY

Legal Authority: EO 12411

CFR Citation: 41 CFR 101-3

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This regulation revises FPMR 101-3 with changes and additions to the data elements currently collected as part of the World-Wide Real Property Inventory System. It also displays the revised forms to be used when supplying this information. These changes are necessary to monitor government-wide space reduction initiatives mandated by Executive Order 12411 - Government Work Space Management Reforms and Temporary Regulation D-70-Work Space Management Plans.

The General Services Administration has determined this is not a major rule for the purposes of Executive Order 12291 of February 17, 1981, because it is not likely to result in an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more; a major increase in costs to consumers or others; or significant adverse effects. Therefore, a Regulatory Impact Analysis has not been prepared. GSA has based all administrative decisions underlying this rule on adequate information concerning the need for, and the consequence of this rule; has determined that the potential benefits to society from this rule outweigh the potential (cont)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule updates GSA's policies and procedures concerning the Federal surplus personal property donation program. It would: (1) prescribe new and revised definitions; (2) implement Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972; (3) change procedures for donating aircraft, drugs, biologicals, and reagents; (4) clarify cannibalization procedures; (5) add additional terms to the State agency distribution documents; (6) clarify that conditional title, not unrestricted title, passes to a donee at the time it takes possession of the property; (7) prohibit reimbursement to State agencies for certain sales expenses; (8) change reporting requirements; (9) establish an informal appeals procedure; and (10) revise eligibility criteria for educational activities. This amendment is necessary to comply with the provisions of Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, section 502(a) of Public Law 94-241, and the Congressional Reports Elimination Act of 1980 (Public Law 96-470). Its intent is to increase the efficiency and effectiveness of the donation program. There should be no significant costs to the public as a result of this regulatory action. It has been determined that potential benefits to (cont)

Legal Authority: 26 USC 5688(a)

CFR Citation: 41 CFR 101-48.2

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule would emphasize that all forfeited distilled spirits, wine, or malt beverages donated to eleemosynary institutions are to be used only by their inpatients for medicinal purposes. Allegations of misuse of these donated spirits have created a need for this regulation. There should be no significant costs to the public as a result of this rule. It has been determined that potential benefits to society from this rule will outweigh potential costs.

3035. ADEQUATE AND PROPER DOCUMENTATION

Legal Authority: 44 USC 2104(a) as added by Sec. 102 of PL 98-497; 44 USC 2901 to 2909; 44 USC 3101; 44 USC 3102; 44 USC 3105; 44 USC 3106

CFR Citation: 44 CFR 101-11.202; 36 CFR 1220.20

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The head of each Federal agency is required to make and preserve records containing adequate and proper documentation of the organization, functions, policies, decisions, procedures, and essential transactions of the agency. The introduction of modern technology into Federal records systems presents problems in meeting this requirement because of the erasable storage media and complex storage formats. The Archivist of the United States is required to provide guidance and standards to agencies. Thus, the National Archives and Records Administration is reviewing the regulations regarding proper and adequate documentation to determine if they are sufficient to insure proper retention and retrievability of the information until its authorized disposition under an approved records control schedule. If this review determines agencies need different or new guidance, consideration is being given to providing such information through the Bulletin structure.

3065. PATENTS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 1870(a) The Natl. Sci. Found. Act of 1950, as amended; 35 USC 200 et seq The Bayh-Dole Act, as amended

CFR Citation: 45 CFR 650

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Bayh-Dole Act (34 USC 200 et seq) was amended by title V of PL 98-620 (98 Stat. 3364, 3368). The Department of Commerce is preparing a Government-wide implementing regulation. When that regulation is completed, the Foundation's Patents regulation (45 CFR 650) will be conformed to it. Because the revision to the NSF Patents regulation will merely echo a Government-wide regulation on which the public will have had an opportunity to comment, the Foundation expects that the revision will be published as a final rule. No additional costs will be imposed on the public as a result of the revision.

Timetable:

Action	Date	FR Cite
Final Action	00/00/00

Small Entity: No

Additional Information: The notable changes to be made in the revision of the NSF Patents regulation will be: elimination of restrictions on the licensing of NSF-supported inventions by nonprofit organizations, including universities; modification of the criteria and procedures for determining that "exceptional circumstances" warrant restricting a grantee's right to retain principal patent rights to its employees' NSF-supported inventions; and elimination of the Foundation's authority to waive the Government license and "march-in" rights in awards not subject to the Bayh-Dole Act. All these changes are required by amendments to the Bayh-Dole Act.

Abstract: OMB Circular A-21 establishes Governmentwide accounting principles for the direct and indirect (allocated overhead) costs of Federal grants and contracts with colleges and universities. The Circular divides allocated overhead costs into seven "cost pools" that form the basis of a university's indirect cost rate. Four of these pools are for administrative costs. In Fiscal Year (FY) 1984 estimated Federal payments for university overhead were about $1.7 billion or 46% of an estimated $3.7 billion for direct scientific research. The problem of rising overhead costs has been the subject of continuing and extensive debate. A fixed rate for administrative costs will go a long way towards solving the problem of rising indirect costs and at the same time reduce paperwork for the institutions.

3094. PROTECTION OF PRIVACY AND PERSONNEL RECORDS

Legal Authority: 5 USC 552a

CFR Citation: 5 CFR 297

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Privacy Act (5 U.S.C. 552a) requires agencies to issue regulations to implement the Act. OPM's regulations also require that agencies follow OPM's rule for those records maintained by them that are under OPM's control. These regulations have remained unchanged since 1979 and thus need revision to reflect any changes resulting from case law or OPM policy and to remove unnecessary material.

Legal Authority: 5 USC 3301; 5 USC 3302; 5 USC 3304

CFR Citation: 5 CFR 300

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Clarification of the policy and appeal procedures used in developing and implementing employment practices in the recruitment, measurement and selection of individuals for appointments and promotion within the competitive service. The proposed amendments would remove a non-statutory appeal procedure which was created to provide a simple, streamlined administrative review procedure but which has, instead, become a time-consuming, convoluted process. Additionally, the proposed changes would avoid a duplicative enforcement procedure currently subject to review by OPM and MSPB, which is, more properly, within the sole jurisdiction of the EEOC.

3110. PAY UNDER THE GENERAL SCHEDULE; DETERMINING RATE OF BASIC PAY

Legal Authority: 5 USC 5305(a); 5 USC 5334(a); 5 USC 5336; EO 11721

CFR Citation: 5 CFR 531, Subpart B

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under current regulations, agencies may use an employee's highest previous rate as a Federal employee, updated to account for intervening pay adjustments, as the basis for paying a higher rate than otherwise would be required by law or regulation upon promotion, demotion, reassignment, transfer, or reemployment -- without regard to the recency of the employee's previous Federal work experience. Proposed regulations would limit the use of an employee's highest previous rate by establishing a reasonable relationship between the recency of an employee's previous work experience and the current employment situation. In addition, proposed regulations would revise the current regulations to conform to the principles of the Performance Based Incentive System and correct certain longstanding basic pay administration problems. Revision may also include technical and conforming changes in 5 CFR Parts 530 and 536.

Legal Authority: 5 USC 5334(a); 5 USC 5338; 5 USC 5365

CFR Citation: 5 CFR 531; 5 CFR 536

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under current regulations, numerous pay administration problems exist in movements between Federal pay systems. For example, the method of determining entitlement to grade retention in movements between pay systems results in unnecessary expenditures of Federal funds and false expectations for affected employees. Proposed regulations would revise definitions of "promotion" and "demotion" to improve pay administration and minimize the number of employees entitled to grade retention in movements between pay systems. Revisions may also include technical and conforming changes in 5 CFR Parts 210 and 532.

3173. ABSENCE AND LEAVE; RECREDIT OF LEAVE

Legal Authority: 5 USC 6311

CFR Citation: 5 CFR 630, Subpart E

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Proposed regulations to extend the 3-year limitation on recrediting sick leave for dependents of civilian and military personnel who leave Federal employment to accompany their sponsors on overseas assignments. This amendment would alleviate the hardship and inequity many career employees suffer because of the limited number of Federal positions that are available to dependents overseas. This change would complement E.O. 12362, which authorizes certain placement benefits for dependents when they return from overseas.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulation, and the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601, et seq. require that executive agencies publish in the Federal Register a semiannual notice of regulations which are under development or review or for which action has been completed. The Panama Canal Commission agenda contains certain regulations which are limited in public impact, but they are included to increase public awareness of Commission activities and to allow for increased public participation in the agency's regulatory review and development process. 3204. ● PILOTAGE

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 22 USC 3811; EO 12215

CFR Citation: 35 CFR 105.2

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Panama Amendments Act of 1985 added a subsection to section 1411 regarding injuries to a vessel or its cargo when the navigation or movement of the vessel is not under the control of a Panama Canal pilot. A distinction needs to be made between a canal pilot and a transit advisor who might be put aboard the vessel. No additional costs to the agency will result from this regulation, but the statute sets a ceiling of $50,000 on claims where there is not a pilot on board, and does not provide for judicial review. Thus, the definition is critical for the agency's administrative process in adjudicating claims and assessing possible lawsuits.

Accordingly, no Regulatory Analysis is required under 5 U.S.C. 602.

Agenda of Regulations Under Development

AGENCY: Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation.

ACTION: Agenda of regulations.

SUMMARY: This document sets forth the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation's regulatory agenda issued under Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act. The agenda lists regulations that are currently under development or that PBGC expects to have under development during the next twelve months and regulations that are currently under review for possible amendment. The effect of this agenda is to advise the public of PBGC's current and future regulatory activities.

ADDRESS: Corporate Policy and Regulations Department, Code 35100, Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation, 2020 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20006.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information on the agenda in general, contact Renae R. Hubbard, Special Counsel, Corporate Policy and Regulations Department, 202-956-5050. For information about a specific regulation project listed on the agenda, contact the person designated in the agenda for that regulation.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Under the President's Order on Federal Regulation, Executive Order 12291, 46 FR 13193, each agency is required to publish in April and October an agenda of regulations currently or soon to be under development. The Executive Order requires that the agenda also include those currently effective regulations that are being reviewed by the agency pursuant to the Executive Order. The Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601, Pub. L. 96-354, 94 Stat. 1164, has a similar agenda requirement. Under that law, the agenda must list any regulation that is likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

The Office of Management and Budget has issued guidelines (OMB Bulletin No. 86-4) prescribing the form and content of the regulatory agenda. Under those guidelines, the agenda must list all regulatory activities being conducted or reviewed in the next twelve months and provide certain specified information on each regulation. Most of the items on this agenda are current or projected rulemakings. One item is an existing regulation currently under review pursuant to the Executive Order.

The guidelines also require an indication of whether or not an item is included in the Administration's Regulatory Program for 1985 and, if not, whether the agency considers it a priority item. The PBGC believes that each of the regulatory activities listed in this agenda is necessary to the effective implementation of the insurance program. However, the PBGC has determined that certain of the items have priority status and has designated them as such. None of the items is included in the Administration's Regulatory Program for 1986.

Finally, the guidelines require a description of the potential costs and benefits of each regulation: The regulations listed on the agenda fall into three general categories. Some lessen statutory requirements, thereby lowering costs to the public and minimizing burden on plans and plan sponsors. Others simply implement statutory requirements and, although costs may be imposed because of these statutory requirements, the public is benefited by clear and unambiguous rules that lessen the probability of disputes, litigation and public confusion. Others of the regulations in the agenda reallocate costs necessarily imposed by the statute so that, although certain contributing employers may experience greater costs, others will experience an equivalent reduction in costs resulting in a net effect of zero. Where applicable, additional costs and benefits are stated separately in the item relating to the particular regulation.

Unless otherwise indicated, all citations in the agenda are to sections of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, Pub. L. No. 93-406, 88 Stat. 829, as amended by the Multiemployer Pension Plan Amendments Act of 1980 ("the Multiemployer Act"), Pub. L. No. 96-364, 94 Stat. 1208 ("ERISA"), 29 U.S.C. 1001 et seq. (1982).

Abstract: The PBGC's regulation on Employer Liability prescribes rules for the determination and payment of employer liability that is due under ERISA if a plan lacks sufficient assets to pay for guaranteed benefits. Employer liability is due as of the date of plan termination, but often is not paid in a timely fashion. The PBGC has initiated a review of this regulation in order to determine what, if any, amendments could be adopted to provide employers with greater incentive to make timely payments of employer liability owed to the PBGC.

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2675

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 4041A of ERISA provides rules with respect to the termination of multiemployer plans and the payment of benefits under those plans. Under section 4041A(f)(2), PBGC is authorized to prescribe rules for the administration of those plans that are appropriate to protect the interests of plan participants and beneficiaries or to prevent unreasonable loss to the insurance system. Under section 4281(b), the plan sponsor of a plan that has terminated by mass withdrawal is required annually to determine the value of the plan's nonforfeitable benefits and assets. If the value of the benefits exceeds the value of the assets, the sponsor must amend the plan to eliminate benefits not eligible for PBGC's guarantee under section 4022A(b), to the extent necessary to insure that the plan assets are sufficient to pay all nonforfeitable benefits. This determination of sufficiency is to be made in accordance with rules prescribed by PBGC. This regulation would establish the rules for administering plans that have terminated by mass withdrawal, including the rules for determining sufficiency in the circumstances described above. By thus helping to preserve plan assets, these rules will, in the first instance, benefit plan participants and beneficiaries and secondarily, the multiemployer insurance system and premium payers. PBGC lacks adequate data to be able to quantify these benefits.

Abstract: Sections 4232 and 4234 of ERISA prescribe rules governing the transfer of liabilities and assets from a multiemployer plan to a single-employer plan and prohibit certain transfers unless approved by PBGC. The regulation will establish procedures for requesting and criteria for PBGC approval of transfers which require approval and guidelines for satisfying the statutory requirements pertaining to other transfers. The regulation will also establish standards for the PBGC's waiver of a multiemployer plan's contingent liability arising from the transfer of unfunded vested benefits to a single-employer plan.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b) (3); 29 USC 1388(e) (3)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2646

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 4208 of ERISA provides for the reduction or elimination under certain circumstances of an employer's partial withdrawal liability arising from a 70 percent reduction in contribution base units. That section also authorizes the PBGC to prescribe rules for the reduction or elimination of partial withdrawal liability under other conditions. The regulation will provide for the abatement of partial withdrawal arising from the cessation of the obligation to contribute under a collective bargaining agreement or with respect to a facility. Section 4208 also requires the PBGC to issue a regulation under which a multiemployer plan may adopt rules for the reduction or elimination of partial withdrawal liability. This regulation will allow plans to ease the statutory partial withdrawal liability rules where, for example, the rules are harmful to the plan because they discourage an employer from increasing its participation under the plan, or where the statutory rules create administrative burdens which outweigh the protections afforded by the rules.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1386(b)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2649

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under section 4208(b) of ERISA, if an employer partially or completely withdraws from a multiemployer plan subsequent to an earlier partial withdrawal from that plan, the employer's liability for the second withdrawal must be reduced by the amount of its liability for the earlier partial withdrawal. The purpose of this credit is to avoid plans double-charging employers for the same unfunded liabilities. Section 4208(b) also requires the PBGC to prescribe regulations adjusting this credit to ensure that the employer's liability for its second withdrawal properly reflects the employer's share of liability with respect to the plan.

The need for this adjustment to the credit can be seen from the following example. In a plan that uses the rolling-5 allocation method, an employer's withdrawal liability is based on its last five years' participation in the plan. If an employer's second withdrawal occurs more than five years after its partial withdrawal, the liability for the second withdrawal is based solely on plan participation subsequent to the partial (cont)

Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: withdrawal. Thus, there is no double-charging with respect to the old liabilities and no reason to give the employer a credit against its liability for the second withdrawal. However, without this regulation, the employer would get that credit under the statute. There are many other possible situations in which the employer's credit should similarly be reduced in order to ensure equitable treatment of the withdrawing employer vis-a-vis the other employers still contributing to the plan.

This regulation will result in some shifting of liabilities among employers contributing to a multiemployer plan. An employer that has another withdrawal following a partial withdrawal may incur greater liability for the second withdrawal because of the reduction in the credit for the prior partial withdrawal. However, this increase in liability would reduce the unfunded vested benefits allocable to other employers that withdraw thereafter. In the aggregate, the regulation will impose no new costs.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1387(b)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2647, (Amendment)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Under section 4207(a) of ERISA, the PBGC is required to issue a regulation providing for the reduction or waiver of an employer's liability for a complete withdrawal upon the employer's resumption of participation under the plan from which it withdrew. (The PBGC expects this regulation to be issued shortly.) The statute also requires the PBGC to prescribe procedures and standards under which multiemployer plans may adopt their own rules abating complete withdrawal liability upon an employer's return to the plan (section 4207(b)).

The purpose of letting plans adopt their own abatement rules is obvious: a specific rule adopted by a plan may well work better under the facts and circumstances of that particular plan than the broad rules adopted by the PBGC. This regulation will permit a plan to fashion the rules it needs to encourage the return of withdrawn employers, while at the same time protecting the plan from the loss of withdrawal liability payments without a compensating resumption of contributions to the plan by a formerly withdrawn employer. The PBGC is unable to (cont)

3224. ● DETERMINATION OF WITHDRAWAL LIABILITY FOLLOWING A MERGER

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3); 29 USC 1391(f)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2642, (Amendment)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The merger of two multiemployer plans creates a problem as to how the successor plan's unfunded vested benefits are to be allocated in order to determine withdrawal liability for post-merger withdrawals. Frequently, the two plans will have been using different allocation methods prior to the merger. Even if they were using the same method, if they had different plan years, that would create different allocations.

For this reason, section 4211(c) of ERISA requires the PBGC to issue regulations prescribing rules for the post-merger allocation of unfunded vested benefits. The PBGC proposes to establish rules that parallel the statutory allocation methods: i.e., there would be a presumptive allocation method that would apply to plans unless they chose otherwise, and plans would be permitted to adopt certain modifications to this presumptive method without the PBGC's approval and other more significant modifications with the PBGC's approval. Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: This regulation will remove a significant impediment to multiemployer plan mergers by eliminating employers' concern and confusion over how their withdrawal liability would be calculated after a merger. Plan mergers are generally to be encouraged since a larger plan is typically a stronger plan because of its broader contribution base, and because portability of benefits is increased. This regulation will impose no new costs.

3225. VALUATION OF PLAN BENEFITS IN NON-MULTIEMPLOYER PLANS

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302; 29 USC 1341; 29 USC 1344; 29 USC 1362

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2619

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This rule would amend PBGC's regulation on Valuation of Plan Benefits in Non-Multiemployer Plans, 29 CFR Part 2619. That regulation sets forth the rules for valuing benefits in terminating plans that are covered by the insurance program under ERISA, which valuation is needed to determine if plan assets are sufficient to provide for plan benefits and to properly allocate assets to those benefits. After review of this regulation pursuant to Executive Order 12291, the PBGC is amending the rules for valuing benefits payable as lump sums upon termination. The effect of this amendment is to prescribe the range of interest rates that may be used to value lump sums that are paid in lieu of annuities. The amendment, in the form of an interim final rule, is needed to protect recipients of lump sum distributions from loss of benefit value resulting from the use of inappropriate interest rates to compute the lump sum amounts.

Abstract: On May 23, 1984, the PBGC announced that it, along with the Treasury Department and the Department of Labor, had adopted implementation guidelines for processing defined benefit pension plan terminations involving asset reversions to the plan sponsor. This regulation will implement those principles and provide more detailed rules concerning the requirements that certain types of transactions must satisfy in order to be recognized as valid terminations under Title IV of ERISA. The regulation also will detail rules concerning the use of participating annuity contracts to close out a plan that has residual assets at the time of its termination, and the circumstances under which a plan is a "successor" to a terminated plan.

Abstract: The PBGC's regulation on Valuation of Plan Benefits in Non-Multiemployer Plans, 29 CFR Part 2619, prescribes actuarial assumptions and methods to be used in valuing benefits in terminated single-employer pension plans. The PBGC intends to amend this regulation to adopt the approach to valuation employed in proposed regulation on valuation of benefits in multiemployer plans terminated by mass withdrawal, 29 CFR Part 2676 that was published on February 19, 1985 (50 FR 6956), in order to conform more precisely to generally accepted actuarial practice. The proposed amendment would enable PBGC valuations to more accurately reflect interest and other assumptions that underlie the insurance annuity market place.

Abstract: Title IV of ERISA established rules for the allocation and distribution of plan assets to provide benefits in a terminating pension plan. Those rules are interpreted in the PBGC's regulations on Guaranteed Benefits, 29 CFR Part 2613, Determination of Plan Sufficiency and Termination of Sufficient Plans, 29 CFR Part 2617, and Allocation of Assets in Non-Multiemployer Plans, 29 CFR Part 2618. The Retirement Equity Act of 1984 ("REA") provides that certain early retirement benefits or retirement-type subsidies, or optional benefit forms, will be treated as accrued benefits, and that their elimination will be treated as an impermissible reduction in accrued benefits under certain circumstances. REA also revised the rules governing mandatory distributions from pension plans. These amendments will conform PBGC's regulations to the provisions of REA. The amendments will impose no new costs on plans and may alleviate administrative burdens by providing definitive rules.

Abstract: On January 19, 1981, PBGC issued an interim regulation dealing with alternative methods for allocating unfunded vested benefits in multiemployer pension plans. PBGC now plans to re-promulgate that regulation in order to correct ambiguities that have arisen under it, to conform the procedures contained in it to other PBGC regulations, and to reduce the information reporting requirements in the regulation. The regulation will impose no new costs on the public and may reduce costs for plans adopting certain alternative allocation rules by reducing the reporting requirements.

Abstract: This amendment to the existing PBGC regulation on valuing plan assets, 29 CFR Part 2620, will set forth rules for valuing group insurance contracts as plan assets. This regulation applies to single-employer plans. This rule is necessary to provide uniform standards for plan administrators and employers to use in valuing insurance contracts. The rule will enable plans which are funded through insurance contracts to have clear guidance on how this asset should be treated in the plan termination context, and alleviate time-consuming costly delays due to uncertainty on how this commonly used plan funding vehicle should be valued.

3232. REDUCTION OR WAIVER OF COMPLETE WITHDRAWAL LIABILITY

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3) ERISA; 29 USC 1387(a) ERISA

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2647

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Section 4207(a) of ERISA requires the PBGC to establish rules for reducing or waiving the liability of an employer who has completely withdrawn from a multiemployer plan and subsequently resumes covered operations or renews the obligation to contribute under the plan. This regulation will prescribe the circumstances under which an employer's liability will be reduced or waived and the rules for computing the employer's liability for a complete or partial withdrawal after it has reentered the plan. This regulation will benefit multiemployer plans by encouraging some employers who have withdrawn from these plans to renew their participation in the plans. By the same token these employers will benefit by having some or all of their withdrawal liability waived. While the plans will incur the cost of foregoing collection of some of the withdrawal liability owed them, the assumption underlying this statutory provision is that these costs will be offset by the contributions employers will make to the plans after their reentry. PBGC is unable to quantify these benefits and costs, because it cannot predict the number of employers who will avail themselves of this rule.

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2648

Abstract: The rules for determining an employer's withdrawal liability do not necessarily allocate a plan's total unfunded vested benefits because of the rules reducing or eliminating withdrawal liability, such as the de minimis rule. Therefore, if all or substantially all the employers in a plan withdraw, there may be large unallocated amounts that would constitute a potential claim on the insurance system. In order to avoid this result, section 4219(c)(1)(D) requires the determination or redetermination of withdrawal liability, in order to fully allocate a plan's unfunded vested benefits, upon either the termination of the plan through the withdrawal of every employer, or the withdrawal of substantially all the employers pursuant to an agreement or arrangement to withdraw. This regulation will set forth rules implementing this requirement. This regulation primarily benefits the multiemployer insurance program and the plans that are required to pay premiums under it, by insuring that in the event of a mass withdrawal (or the withdrawal of substantially all the employers pursuant to an agreement to withdraw), the liability for all unfunded vested benefits is allocated to the (cont)

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b)(3) ERISA; 29 USC 1441(b) ERISA

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2676

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: A plan that has terminated by mass withdrawal is required under section 4281(b) of ERISA to perform an annual valuation of the plan's nonforfeitable benefits and assets (including outstanding claims for withdrawal liability). This valuation is to be done in accordance with PBGC regulations. In addition, when a plan experiences a mass withdrawal, section 4219(c)(1)(D) requires the plan sponsor to allocate fully the plan's unfunded vested benefits to all withdrawing employers. In order to do this allocation, the plan sponsor must first value the plan's benefits and assets. This regulation will prescribe the rules for these valuations. The regulation on valuing outstanding claims for withdrawal liability listed on previous PBGC agendas (RIN 1212-AA17) has been merged into this regulation.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 29 USC 1302(b) (3); 29 USC 1391(c) (5) (B)

CFR Citation: 29 CFR 2642

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This regulation will set forth alternative approaches that multiemployer plans may use in reallocating otherwise nonassessable withdrawal liability to employers in the plan. Plans currently using the presumptive method or the modified presumptive method must reallocate certain of these amounts because of the provisions in the Deficit Reduction Act of 1984 (DEFRA) concerning retroactive withdrawal liability. Under this regulation, a plan using the presumptive method will be permitted to adopt an amendment either to allocate, in the plan year in which DEFRA was effective, the unamortized balance of amounts otherwise allocable to employers that withdrew before DEFRA, or to treat the last plan year ending before DEFRA's effective date as the initial year for purposes of computing annual changes. The regulation also will permit a plan using the modified presumptive method to adopt an amendment that maintains the allocation fraction that the plan used before DEFRA. This regulation is intended to ease the administrative costs that the recomputations required by DEFRA would otherwise impose on affected multiemployer plans.

Abstract: On May 23, 1984, the PBGC announced that it, along with the Treasury Department and the Department of Labor, had adopted implementation guidelines for processing defined benefit pension plan terminations involving asset reversions to the plan sponsor. The PBGC has initiated a review of its regulations on Guaranteed Benefits (formerly RIN 1212-AA28), 29 CFR Part 2613, Allocation of Assets in Non-Multiemployer Plans, 29 CFR Part 2618, Determination of Plan Sufficiency and Termination of Sufficient Plans, 29 CFR Part 2617, and Limitation on Guaranteed Benefits, 29 CFR Part 2621, in order to determine what amendments may be needed to reflect the conclusions of the May 23, 1984 guidelines concerning the legal effect of certain transactions that result in reversions of pension plan assets to the sponsors of terminated plans. The review also covers the types of annuity contract that may be purchased to close out a plan that has residual assets at the time of its termination.

Improving Government Regulations; Semiannual Agenda

AGENCY: Small Business Administration.

ACTION: Publication of the semiannual agenda of regulations under review or development by the Small Business Administration.

SUMMARY: This is SBA's 14th semiannual agenda of regulations. Although not a regulatory Agency, SBA has attempted to draft agendas that met both the criteria and the spirit of the regulatory review process. This agenda is published pursuant to Executive Order 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq., Pub. L. 96-354, effective January 1, 1981.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information on agenda items, the public is encouraged to contact the individual Agency official listed for the particular item.

For information concerning SBA overall Regulatory Review and Development Program or general semiannual agenda questions, contact Martin D. Teckler, Deputy General Counsel, Small Business Administration, 1441 L Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20416, 202/653-6642.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The SBA agenda will contain many regulations which are limited in public impact, but they are included to increase public knowledge of all SBA regulatory activities and allow for increased public participation in the review and development process.

Public comments on SBA's previous agendas have been general, and all were positive. None were directed at specific contents, nor were any changes suggested or recommended.

The agenda format has four parts. Part I, Pre-Rulemakings, includes investigations and reviews to be conducted prior to deciding whether or not to propose a rule or rule change. Part II, Proposed Rules, includes rulemaking which will be proposed during the six-month period covered by the agenda. Part III, Final Rules, includes proposed rules which will be finalized during the period covered by the agenda. Part IV, Completed Actions, includes regulations completed or withdrawn, and reviews completed since the preceding agenda.

Publication of this agenda does not impose any binding obligation on SBA with regard to any specific item in the agenda. Additional regulatory action not listed on the agenda is not precluded.

DATED: February 5, 1986.

Administrator.

38 CFR Ch. I

Agenda of Federal Regulations

AGENCY: Veterans Administration.

ACTION: Publication of agenda of regulations.

SUMMARY: This agenda announces the regulations that the Veterans Administration will have under review, development or revision during the 12 month period from April 1986 to April 1987. The purpose in publishing this Agency's regulatory development activities is to allow all interested persons the opportunity to participate in the rulemaking process.

ADDRESSES: Interested persons are invited to comment on the regulations listed in the agenda by contacting the individual agency contact listed for each regulation, or by writing to: Paperwork Management and Regulations Service (731), Veterans Administration, 810 Vermont Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20420.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Celia Winter (202) 389-2340.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulation, and the Regulatory Flexibility Act (Pub. L. 96-354) require that executive agencies publish in the Federal Register in April and October of each year, an agenda of regulations under development and review.

The Veterans Administration has no regulations considered major under the terms of Executive Order 12291; however all of this agency's proposed rules and current rules under review except those considered to be internal agency policy management or routine regulations have been listed in accordance with section 5.(a) of the Executive Order. This agenda incorporates those categories of information required pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 602(a) and 610(c) (Regulatory Flexibility Act).

The Veterans Administration has found that all rules listed in this agenda, if promulgated, will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities as they are defined in 5 U.S.C. 601-612.

The agenda has been prepared in accordance with OMB Bulletin 86-4.

DATED: February 14, 1986.

Everett Alvarez, Jr.

Acting Administrator.

Legal Authority: 38 USC 3305; 38 USC 4151; 38 USC 4152

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 17, (Revision)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Final regulations implementing 38 USC 3305 were made effective Oct. 22, 1982. Those regulations govern the VA's QA (quality assurance) program activities and records and documents which are made confidential and privileged. Sec. 3305 prohibits the VA from designating any QA program activity, for the purpose of confidentiality, unless such activity has been specified in regulation. PL 99-166 amends 38 USC 4151 and 4152 to require that QA program activities include an evaluation of the quality of surgical care in DM&S, as evidenced by outcome measures of mortality and morbidity; a report to Congress indicating deficiencies in the quality of care is required. 38 USC 3305 was amended to clarify that aggregate statistical data is not to be made confidential provided individuals are not identified. The definitions and descriptions of the QA program are outdated; unreflective of a systems' approach, and too restrictive to accommodate periodic policy developments or redirections within DM&S. No alternatives are being considered. There are no potential costs to the action. The benefits would be in the form of programmatic improvements.

Abstract: The law provides a few veterans with the opportunity to choose between receiving benefits under the Vietnam Era G.I. Bill or VEAP. Once such a veteran begins receiving benefits under the Vietnam Era G.I. Bill, he or she may never receive benefits under VEAP. Current regulations do not provide for a refund of the veteran's contributions to the VEAP fund when this situation occurs unless the veteran asks for a refund. Legal Authority: 38 USC 210(c); 38 USC 1803(c)(1)

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 36

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: Public Law 97-253, the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1982 (38 U.S.C. 1829) establishes that a funding fee will be collected on VA loans but the law does not establish any time limits within which it must be paid to the VA. Current VA Loan Guaranty procedures allow lenders up to 60 days from the loan closing date to remit loan funding fees and this delay in their collection and deposit has resulted in a significant amount of potential interest lost to the Federal government. The proposed regulation would require lenders to submit the fees to the VA within a 15 day period from the loan closing date and would implement penalty charges and interest assessments on delinquent submissions. Adoption of this regulation should improve collection timeliness and result in the collection of the interest income that is currently being lost as well as income from interest and penalty charges.

Abstract: The Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1981 provided that people eligible for educational assistance under VEAP could not enroll in flight training for the first time after Sept. 30, 1981. Those people who enrolled in flight training during September 1981 could receive educational assistance only during that month. A person who enrolled in flight training before September 1, 1981 could receive educational assistance only if the continuity of his or her enrollment was not broken. No one has received educational assistance for flight training under VEAP during fiscal year 1985. Consequently, the continuity of everyone's enrollment has been broken. Educational assistance may no longer be paid for flight training under VEAP. This proposal eliminates all reference to flight training under VEAP.

Abstract: OMB Circular A-129 requires agencies managing Federal credit programs to obtain credit reports for all new applicants, when refinancing, and when loans are rescheduled in order to verify the information presented in the application. The circular further provides that rescheduling or reamortization shall be permitted only when it is in the best interest of the Government and where the agency has determined that recovery of all or a portion of the amount owed is reasonably assured. Credit reports must also be required in connection with claims on defaulted guaranteed loans to facilitate agency determinations of the next collection steps to be pursued. These revisions will enable VA to better determine whether a proposed loan reamortization is in the best interest of the government and will facilitate improvements in debt collection practices.

Abstract: To incorporate a reference to the Uniform Federal Accessibility Standards (UFAS) and update the list of Federal financial assistance programs administered by the VA. The existing regulations require that new construction and alteration of facilities be made in an accessible manner. The regulations provide that new construction or alteration of facilities in conformance with the American National Standard Specifications for Making Building and Facilities Accessible to, and Usable by, the Physically Handicapped (ANSI A117.1-1961 (B 1971)) shall constitute compliance with the accessibility requirements for new construction and alteration of facilities. The proposed revision will replace the current standard with the UFAS, published under the Architectural Barriers Act of 1968. Because some facilities subject to the accessibility requirements of section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 are also subject to the accessibility requirements of the Architectural Barriers Act, this proposal would eliminate any potential conflict between standards enforced under the two statutes.

Significance: Regulatory Program

Legal Authority: PL 98-543, Sec 111

CFR Citation: 38 CFR 21.6500, series (new)

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The pilot program is directed at evaluating the effectiveness of a program of employment and/or vocational rehabilitation services in enabling veterans in receipt of disability ratings by virtue of individual unemployability to become employed. During the period from February 1, 1985, through January 31, 1989, the veteran with a total disability rating due to IU (Individual Unemployability) who wishes to return to work will be protected for 12 consecutive months of employment. The VA will provide vocational rehabilitation and/or employment services to assist veterans to train for or to secure employment. A veteran with an IU rating prior to February 1, 1985, may choose to use these employment services or be considered for training under the VA vocational rehabilitation program. In either case, the veteran's IU rating remains protected for 12 months if he or she secures employment. For veterans receiving an IU rating from February 1, 1985, and through January 31, 1989, an evaluation to determine if a vocational goal is feasible is required, and if it is, lack of participation will be considered in the veteran's next review of eligibility.

Abstract: The law forbids payment of GI Bill benefits to veterans who are not in a program of education. For several years the VA has had rules for determining whether or not veterans are in a program of education if they are planning on taking courses at two colleges or universities sequentially, but have not matriculated at either one. Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations

AGENCIES: Department of Defense (DOD), General Services Administration (GSA), and National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

ACTION: Semiannual agenda.

SUMMARY: This agenda provides summary descriptions of regulations being developed by the Civilian Agency Acquisition Council and the Defense Acquisition Regulatory Council, in compliance with Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulation. This agenda is being published to allow interested persons an opportunity to participate in the rulemaking process.

The FAR Secretariat has attempted to list all regulations pending at the time of publication, except for minor and routine or repetitive actions, however, unanticipated requirements may result in the issuance of regulations that are not included in this agenda. There is no legal significance to the omission of an item from this listing. Also, the dates shown for the steps of each action are estimated and are not commitments to act on or by the dates shown.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Margaret A. Willis, FAR Secretariat, (202) 523-4755.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: DOD, GSA, and NASA, under their several statutory authorities, jointly issue and maintain the Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) and prescribe the FAR system. Revisions to the FAR are made through periodic issuance of Federal Acquisition Circulars (FAC's). None of the regulations listed in this agenda are considered major under Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulation.

DATED: March 6, 1986.

Commodity Futures Trading Commission

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

VOL 51 ISS 76 AP 21 1986 UMI

CFTC

17 CFR Ch. I

Regulatory Flexibility Agenda

AGENCY: Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

ACTION: Publication of regulatory flexibility agenda.

SUMMARY: The Commodity Futures Trading Commission, in accordance with the requirements of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, is publishing a semiannual agenda of significant rules which the Commission expects to propose or promulgate over the next year. The Commission welcomes comments from small entities and others upon the subject area of the agenda.

ADDRESS: Comments should be sent to: Commodity Futures Trading Commission, 2033 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20581, Attention: Secretariat.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Harold L. Hardman, Esquire, Office of the General Counsel, Commodity Futures Trading Commission, 2033 K Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20581 (202) 254-9880.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601, et seq. ("RFA"), sets forth a number of requirements for agency rulemaking. Among other things, the RFA requires that:

(a) During the months of October and April of each year, each agency shall publish in the Federal Register a regulatory flexibility agenda which shall contain:

(1) A brief description of the subject area of any rule which the agency expects to propose or promulgate which is likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities;

(2) A summary of the nature of any such rule under consideration for each subject area listed in the agenda pursuant to paragraph (1), the objectives and legal basis for the issuance of the rule, and an approximate schedule for completing action on any rule for which the agency has issued a general notice of proposed rulemaking; and

(3) The name and telephone number of an agency official knowledgeable concerning the items listed in paragraph (1).

5 U.S.C. 602(a). Accordingly, the Commission has prepared an agenda of significant rules which it presently expects may be considered during the course of the next year. The agenda lists all significant rules which may be considered by the Commission within the next year, irrespective of their potential impact on small entities.[1]

The Commission's agenda represents its best estimate at this time of significant rules which will be considered sometime over the next twelve months.[2] In this regard, section 602(d) of the RFA, 5 U.S.C. 602(d), provides: "Nothing in [section 602] precludes an agency from considering or acting on any matter not included in a regulatory flexibility agenda, or requires an agency to consider or act on any matter listed in such agenda."

The Commission is publishing its April 1986 Regulatory Flexibility Agenda as part of the April 1986 "Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations." The "Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations" is coordinated by the Office of Management and Budget pursuant to Executive Order 12291. While participation by executive agencies in the Agenda is mandatory, independent agencies, such as the Commission, participate in the Unified Agenda on a voluntary basis.

The Commission's April 1986 Regulatory Flexibility Agenda is set forth below.

Issued in Washington, D.C., on March 6, 1986, by the Commission.

Jean A. Webb,

Secretary of the Commission.

Proposed Rule Stage

Sequence Number	Title	Regulation Identifier Number
3475	Regulations Governing the Offer and Sale of Foreign Futures and Option Contracts in the United States	3038-AA33
3476	Review of Exchange Disciplinary Actions	3038-AA49

[1] The Commission has published its definitions of small entity to be used by the Commission in connection with rulemaking proceedings. 47 FR 18618 (Apr. 30, 1982). Pursuant to those definitions, the Commission is not required to list many of the agenda items contained in this regulatory flexibility agenda. See 5 U.S.C. 602(a)(1). Moreover, the Commission has previously certified, pursuant to section 605 of the RFA, 5 U.S.C. 605, that certain items contained in this agenda will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Accordingly, listing of an event in this regulatory flexibility agenda should not, in any event, be taken as a determination that a rule, when proposed or promulgated, will in fact require a regulatory flexibility analysis. However, the Commission hopes that the publication of an agenda which includes significant rules, regardless of their potential impact on small entities, may serve the public generally by providing an early and meaningful opportunity to participate in and comment on the formulation of new or revised regulations.

[2] In addition to publishing the regulatory flexibility agenda, the Commission also makes available to the public, on a monthly basis, a calendar listing rules that the Commission intends to consider that month.

3477. REGULATIONS PERMITTING THE GRANT, OFFER AND SALE OF OPTIONS ON PHYSICAL COMMODITIES (DEALER OPTIONS)

Legal Authority: 7 USC 6c(b) Commodity Exchange Act, Sec 4c(b); 7 USC 6c(d) Commodity Exchange Act, Sec 4c(d); 7 USC 12a(5) Commodity Exchange Act, Sec 8a(5)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 1; 17 CFR 3; 17 CFR 32

Abstract: Congress has directed the Commission to issue regulations permitting grantors and futures commission merchants to grant, offer and sell so-called "dealer options" on certain physical commodities subject to certain conditions specified by statute and such other uniform and reasonable requirements as the Commission may prescribe. At present, the only persons who may lawfully grant dealer options are United States domiciles who, on May 1, 1978, were in the business of buying, selling, producing or otherwise using that commodity. The Commission has reproposed rules, principally concerning registration of dealer option grantors, requirements for the segregation of customer funds, disclosure to customers and prospective customers, and minimum financial requirements. The Commission intends to re-evaluate the proposed rules in light of regulatory changes that have occurred since 1980.

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 1; 17 CFR 33

Abstract: The Commission is proposing to amend Commission regulation 33.4(a)(2), which currently provides that a contract market applying for designation to trade commodity option contracts must require full payment of option premiums by the contract market's clearing organization. Under the proposed rule amendment, a contract market could choose instead to adopt rules permitting its members to make a deposit with respect to the option premium, subject to certain proposed requirements. In addition, the Commission is proposing to amend regulations 1.3, 1.12 and 1.17 to reflect in its minimum financial requirements for futures commission merchants the margin treatment which may be accorded option positions under proposed amendments to regulation 33.4(a)(2).

Abstract: The Commission has requested comment on whether it should propose rules requiring each contract market and its related clearing association to adopt regulations governing the procedure pursuant to which the open commodity contracts carried by a clearing member futures commission merchant ("FCM") which has defaulted on a margin obligation are transferred or liquidated. The Commission also has requested comment on whether it should amend its rules relating to liquidation of open positions in the event of a commodity broker bankruptcy. Comments will assist the Commission in determining whether it should propose rules which would provide express general guidelines to contract markets and their related clearing organizations for addressing similar default situations and thereby eliminate ad hoc procedures.

Legal Authority: 7 USC 2; 7 USC 6c(a); 7 USC 6c(c); 7 USC 12a

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 33.4

Abstract: On January 17, 1984, the Commission adopted rules establishing a three year pilot program for the trading of options on futures contracts in domestic agricultural commodities. 49 FR 2752 (Jan. 23, 1984). This pilot program provides that a board of trade may be designated as an option contract market on not more than two domestic agricultural futures contracts. In the spring of 1985, the Commission received two petitions to amend Commission rule 33.4(a)(6)(i) in order to expand the pilot program for options on futures contracts on domestic agricultural commodities from the current level of two per exchange to five per exchange. The Commission published for comment the substance of the rule suggested by the petitioner as a proposed rule amendment on April 15, 1985. 50 FR 14178. The Commission now is considering the comments received, and whether to adopt the proposed rules as final.

Options trading began on October 1, 1982 following the designation of the first option contract markets. That three-year period expired on October 1, 1985. The Commission is reevaluating the option rules, including whether to make permanent exchange trading of options on non-agricultural futures contracts or to retain the program's current pilot status.

3486. ● TRANSFER OF REGISTRATION PROCESSING FUNCTIONS

Legal Authority: 7 USC 12a(10); 7 USC 12a(5)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 3

Abstract: The Commission previously has issued Orders authorizing the National Futures Association ("NFA"), pursuant to section 8a(10) of the Commodity Exchange Act ("Act"), to perform various portions of the Commission's registration functions and responsibilities under the Act. 49 FR 39518 (Oct. 9, 1984), 50 FR 34885 (Aug. 28, 1985). The Division of Trading and Markets ("Division") now intends to develop a plan for the transfer of the Commission's registration processing functions with respect to floor brokers to one or more self-regulatory organizations in order to convert Commission registration activities in this regard to oversight and review of certain administrative actions. The Division has identified alternatives for the transfer of these registration processing functions to the National Futures Association and, in connection therewith, has forwarded to NFA a proposed plan for its consideration before seeking the views of the several contract markets. Upon approval of the transfer plan, the Division will proceed with its implementation.

VOL 51 ISS 76 AP 21 1986 UMI

CONSUMER PRODUCT SAFETY COMMISSION

16 CFR Ch. II

Regulatory Flexibility Act; Semiannual Regulatory Flexibility and Unified Agendas

AGENCY: Consumer Product Safety Commission.

ACTION: Publication of regulatory flexibility and unified agendas.

SUMMARY: The Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA) requires each Federal agency to publish twice each year a regulatory flexibility agenda listing for a 12-month period rules expected to be proposed or promulgated which may have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. In this document, the Commission publishes its eleventh semiannual regulatory flexibility agenda.

Additionally, although not required to do so, the Commission has elected to comply voluntarily with those provisions of Executive Order 12291 which require executive agencies to publish an agenda of regulatory actions under development or review during the succeeding 12 months by the agency and which further provide that such an agenda may be combined with an agency's regulatory flexibility agenda published in accordance with the RFA.

DATE: The Commission welcomes comments from small entities, including small businesses, small organizations, and small governmental units, upon each subject area of the agenda. Written comments concerning the agenda should be received in the Office of the Secretary by June 30, 1986.

ADDRESS: Comments on the regulatory flexibility agenda should be sent to the Office of the Secretary, Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, D.C. 20207, telephone (301) 492-6800, and should be titled "Regulatory Flexibility Agenda."

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information on the agenda in general, contact: Allen F. Brauninger, Office of the General Counsel, Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, D.C. 20207, telephone (301) 492-6980. All inquiries from the press and broadcast media should be directed to Lou Brott, Office of Public Affairs, Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, D.C. 20207, telephone (202) 634-7780. For further information regarding a particular item on the agenda, consult the individual listed in the column headed "Contact" for that particular item.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.), contains several provisions intended to reduce unnecessary and disproportionate regulatory requirements on small businesses, small governmental organizations, and other small entities. Section 602 of the Act (5 U.S.C. 602) requires each agency to publish twice each year a regulatory flexibility agenda containing a brief description of any rule expected to be proposed or promulgated which may have a "significant economic impact" on a "substantial number" of small entities. The agency must also provide a summary of the objectives and legal basis for each agenda item and a schedule for acting on each item, as well as the name and address of the agency official knowledgeable about the items listed. Further, agencies are required to provide notice of their agendas to small entities and solicit their comments by direct notification or by inclusion in publications likely to be obtained by such entities.

In addition, President Reagan's Executive Order 12291 requires executive agencies to publish, twice each year, a regulatory agenda of proposed regulations under development or review and further states that such an agenda may be combined with an agenda published under the RFA. While the Commission, as an independent regulatory agency, is not required to follow Executive Order 12291, the Commission is complying voluntarily with those provisions concerning publication of a regulatory agenda.

The eleventh semiannual regulatory flexibility agenda, published below, lists for a 12-month period anticipated regulatory activities under development or review. These include all such activities, not only those which may have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

The agenda contains a brief description and summary of each regulatory activity, including the objectives and legal basis for each; an approximate schedule of target dates, subject to revision, for the development or completion of each activity; and the name and telephone number of a knowledgeable agency official concerning particular items on the agenda. All agency contacts have the same address: Consumer Product Safety Commission, Washington, D.C. 20207.

The Commission received one comment in response to the regulatory agenda published in the Federal Register of October 29, 1985 (50 FR 44882). That comment concerned the review of a rule exempting certain toy caps from classification as "banned hazardous substances" under provisions of the Federal Hazardous Substances Act if specified conditions are met. The staff is preparing a briefing package on its review of this rule for consideration by the Commission, and will include this comment in the briefing package.

DATED: March 21, 1986.

Sadye E. Dunn,

Secretary, Consumer Product Safety Commission.

3491. UPHOLSTERED FURNITURE CIGARETTE FLAMMABILITY STANDARD

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1193 FFA; 15 USC 1194 FFA

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1633

Abstract: The Commission continued cooperative efforts with the upholstered furniture industry to improve the cigarette ignition resistance of upholstered furniture. In 1981, the Commission voted to defer mandatory regulatory action on upholstered furniture in order to work with manufacturers participating in the Voluntary Action Program (VAP) of the Upholstered Furniture Action Council (UFAC) on improvements in the cigarette ignition resistance of upholstered furniture. A 1984 evaluation of upholstered furniture produced by UFAC participating companies indicated that these changes can be expected to result in a significant improvement in the cigarette ignition resistance of upholstered furniture. These tests also indicated that furniture without box welts and furniture covered with predominantly cellulosic fabrics ignited relatively easily, and represented a continuing problem. A new fire retardant treatment for polyurethane foam currently under evaluation may provide the needed improvement.

Abstract: The Commission staff completed a study on consumer exposure to formaldehyde emissions from pressed-wood products in February 1986. The Commission will consider this study in determining whether any further action by the Commission is warranted to address any hazard to consumers which may be associated with exposure to formaldehyde from pressed-wood products. The Commission will also consider this study in deciding whether to grant or deny a petition from Consumer Federation of America requesting the Commission to issue a mandatory consumer product safety standard to limit the amount of formaldehyde which can be released from pressed-wood products made with urea-formaldehyde resin. A decision is anticipated in April 1986.

In June, 1985, the Commission staff completed testing to determine the feasibility of using some of the alternate procedures for evaluation of child resistant packaging described in the ANPR. The staff anticipates transmittal of a briefing package to the Commission in May, 1986, which will include an analysis of comments received in response to the ANPR and recommendations regarding revision of existing requirements for child resistant packaging.

Abstract: For more than ten years a regulation has existed under the Federal Hazardous Substances Act that was an "interim" regulation. Caps producing sound levels in the range of 138-158 decibels have been banned, but are exempt from the ban if they are properly labeled and if firms producing them report to the Commission on programs to reduce the sound levels. In the near future, the staff will send a memorandum to the Commission discussing whether the rule should be continued in its present form, modified, or revoked. The memorandum will also present the staff's recommendations for Commission action with regard to the rule.

Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2051 et seq CPSA; 15 USC 1262(f) FHSA

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Abstract: On May 31, 1985, the Commission published an advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPR) to announce its preliminary determination that an unreasonable risk of injury may be associated with all-terrain vehicles. An all-terrain vehicle (ATV) is a motorized machine intended to be ridden by one person and designed for off-road use for recreational and other purposes. ATVs are manufactured in three-wheel and four-wheel designs. The ANPR solicited written comments concerning risks of injury which may be associated with ATVs, rulemaking and other actions authorized by the Consumer Product Safety Act and the Federal Hazardous Substances Act to address such risks of injury; and alternatives to regulatory action, including voluntary standards. The ANPR also announced that the Commission would conduct public hearings to obtain information related to the safety of ATVs. Hearings were conducted in five cities during the months of May through October 1985. A sixth hearing is scheduled for March 25, 1986 in Anchorage, Alaska.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1471 et seq. PPPA

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1700.14(a)(1)(i)

Abstract: By letter dated March 25, 1985, Miles Laboratories, Inc. petitioned the Commission to amend existing provisions of 16 CFR 1700.14(a)(1)(i) which exempt certain effervescent tablets containing aspirin from requirements for child-resistant packaging. The amendment requested by this petition would increase the percentage of aspirin allowed in products eligible for the exemption from 10 per cent to 15 per cent and would specify the required carbon dioxide content in terms of the quantity per tablet rather than the quantity per grain of aspirin. The staff expects to transmit a briefing package concerning the petition to the Commission in April, 1986. If the Commission grants this petition, it will publish a proposed amendment in the Federal Register to solicit written comments from all interested parties.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1471 et seq. PPPA

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Abstract: On May 3, 1985, the Commission received a petition from Diane L. Denton, R.N., requesting the Commission to initiate a rulemaking proceeding to establish requirements applicable to disposable lighters to make those products child-resistant. Information available to the Commission staff indicates that a significant number of young children die each year from fires involving disposable lighters. However, this information is not adequate to determine what action, if any, could be taken to reduce this hazard. In February, 1986, the Commission directed the staff to acquire information about possible means of addressing risks of death and injury to young children associated with disposable lighters. When the staff obtains this information, the Commission will consider the petition.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1261(q)(1)(B) FHSA; 15 USC 1262(a) FHSA

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1500

Abstract: On September 3, 1985, the Consumer Federation of America (CFA) petitioned the Commission to begin a proceeding for issuance of a rule under provisions of section 3(a) of the Federal Hazardous Substances Act (FHSA) to declare that household products containing methylene chloride are hazardous substances. By letter dated December 20, 1985, CFA amended the petition to request initiation of a proceeding to declare household products containing methylene chloride to be "banned hazardous substances" under provisions of section 2(q)(1)(B) of the FHSA upon issuance of the rule to classify such products as hazardous substances. Methylene chloride is a solvent used in paint strippers, spray paints, and other consumer products. On February 27, 1986, the Commission voted to propose a rule to declare household products containing methylene chloride to be hazardous substances. This decision has the effect of granting CFA's request of September 3, 1985. If the Commission grants the remainder of the petition, it will publish an advance notice of proposed rulemaking under provisions of the FHSA.

Abstract: On April 26, 1984, the Commission published in the Federal Register a proposal to amend its regulations for classifying extremely flammable, flammable and combustible hazardous substances which release ignitible vapors. The staff has completed its analysis of issues raised by comments on the proposal and a briefing package for the Commission. The staff briefed the Commission and presented options for final action on April 3, 1986. If issued on a final basis, the proposed amendments would bring the Commission's test method and flammability classification procedures into general conformity with the practices of other federal agencies and voluntary standards setting organizations.

3507. FEDERAL HAZARDOUS SUBSTANCES ACT REGULATIONS FOR FIRST AID LABELING OF PRODUCTS CONTAINING MORE THAN 5 PERCENT OF BENZENE OR 10 PERCENT OF TOLUENE, XYLENE, OR PETROLEUM DISTILLATES

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1261(p)(1) FHSA

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1500.14(b)(3)

Abstract: On December 13, 1985, the Commission proposed a regulation to amend the FHSA regulations for first aid labeling of products containing more than 5 per cent of benzene or 10 per cent of toluene, xylene, or petroleum distillates by eliminating the current requirement that such labeling must contain the direction "if swallowed, do not induce vomiting." Current expert opinion is that the decision of whether to induce vomiting as a first aid treatment should be made on a case-by-case basis, depending on the toxicity of the individual product and the amount ingested. In May, 1986, the staff expects to send a briefing package to the Commission with an analysis of comments on the proposed amendment.

Abstract: On November 7, 1985, the Commission proposed a regulation to define the term "strong sensitizer" to supplement the the definition of that term set forth in the Federal Hazardous Substances Act. The supplemental definition explains how the statutory definition will be applied, and provides criteria to be used by the Commission in designating substances as "strong sensitizers" for purposes of the FHSA. The Commission received no comments on the proposed amendment. The staff anticipates that the draft of a final amendment will be transmitted to the Commission in April, 1986.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2064

Abstract: On December 28, 1984, the Commission published a notice in the Federal Register to invite written comments on a statement of enforcement policy concerning substantial product hazard reports which the Commission had published on April 6, 1984. The policy statement clarified the Commission's interpretation of requirements for reporting substantial product hazards established by section 15 of the Consumer Product Safety Act. The staff has completed an analysis of issues raised by the comments, and has drafted a Federal Register notice to respond to comments. In March 1986, the staff briefed the Commission on issues presented by the comments. Legal Authority: 15 USC 1261 FHSA; 15 USC 1262 FHSA

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 1500.12(a)(2)

Abstract: On February 27, 1986, the Commission decided to propose a rule declaring household products that contain methylene chloride to be hazardous substances under the Federal Hazardous Substances Act. These products include some paint strippers and spray paints. The Commission's concern arises from animal tests showing that methylene chloride is a carcinogen by inhalation, and studies indicating a significant human exposure as a result of reasonably foreseeable use of products containing methylene chloride. If issued on a final basis, this rule would resolve uncertainty about whether these products are hazardous substances. The Commission directed the staff to prepare a draft of a proposed rule for consideration by the Commission. The initiation of this rulemaking proceeding grants one part of a petition (HP 85-1) from the Consumer Federation of America. The Commission has not yet acted on a second part of that petition which requests a ban of household products containing methylene chloride. A rule declaring the products in question to be hazardous substances would have the effect of requiring cautionary labeling under provisions of the Federal (cont.)

FARM CREDIT ADMINISTRATION

Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations

AGENCY: Farm Credit Administration.

ACTION: Department Unified Agenda of Regulations and review list.

SUMMARY: The Farm Credit Administration, as an independent regulatory agency in voluntary compliance with Executive Order 12291, sets forth the following agenda of regulations which it will have under development and review during the period of April 1986 through October 1986.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Kenneth L. Peoples, Office of General Counsel, Farm Credit Administration, 1501 Farm Credit Drive, McLean, VA 22102-5090, (703-883-4020).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601, et seq.), contains several provisions intended to reduce unnecessary and disproportionate regulatory requirements on small entities. Farm Credit Administration ("FCA") regulations which apply to Farm Credit System banks and associations do not and will not have a substantial impact on small entities. None of the entities regulated by the FCA fall within the definition of small entities in the Regulatory Flexibility Act. While many associations through which banks lend are smaller in size than their banks, they are not independently operated, as they are closely supervised by the banks, which must approve most of their operating policies. The associations rely exclusively on their supervising banks for their source of funds. Furthermore, the associations do not compete with each other since, as with their supervising banks, each serves only a particular geographic area.

While FCA is an independent Agency exempt from Executive Order 12291, we believe that participating in this joint publication will further the public interest by including FCA in a single source of information concerning current and projected rulemaking and reviews of existing regulations.

On December 23, 1985, the President signed Pub. L. 99-205, the Farm Credit Amendments Act of 1985, which will require an extensive reorganization and rewriting of a major portion of the regulations of the FCA. The FCA is at the very beginning stages of this process. Therefore, many anticipated changes are not fully reflected in this submission but will be reflected in the October agenda.

DATED: March 13, 1986.

Donald E. Wilkinson,

Acting Chairman.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

47 CFR Ch. I

Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations; April 1986

AGENCY: Federal Communications Commission.

ACTION: Publication of the Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

SUMMARY: The Commission publishes in the "Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations" to provide the public with adequate notice of major and other significant proceedings under development or review. The agenda also provides the CFR Citations and Legal Authorities which govern these proceedings. Because we are in the process of developing a more efficient way of disseminating FCC agenda information to the public, we have reduced submission of the agenda to the Federal Register to include only those items that pertain to the Regulatory Flexibility Act, as amended by 94 Stat. 1167, 5 U.S.C. 605. We will shortly make a decision as how best to disseminate FCC agenda information other than that pertaining to the Regulatory Flexibility Act. Any information required on previously submitted items can be obtained by contacting Miss Claudette Pride on (202) 632-3906.

ADDRESS: Federal Communications Commission, 1919 M Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20554.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Claudette Pride, Management Planning and Program Evaluation Office, (202) 632-3906.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Unified Agenda of major and other significant proceedings

The Commission encourages public participation in the FCC rulemaking process. To help keep the public informed of significant rulemaking proceedings, the Commission has prepared an agenda of important proceedings now in progress. OMB will publish the Unified Agenda in the Federal Register in April and October of each year.

The following terms may be helpful in understanding the status of the proceedings included in this report:

A Docket Number - is assigned to a proceeding if the Commission has issued either a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking or a Notice of Inquiry in regard to the matter under consideration. Since January 1, 1978, the Commission has used docket numbers which consist of the last two digits of the calendar year in which the docket was established plus a sequential number which begins at 1 with the first docket initiated during a calendar year (e.g., Docket 80-1 or Docket 83-1). The abbreviation for the responsible Bureau usually precedes the docket number, as in "Docket 79-164." When a docket number consists of only five digits (e.g., Docket 29622), this indicates that the docket was established before January 1, 1978.

Notice of Inquiry (NOI) - issued by the Commission when it is seeking information on a broad subject or trying to generate ideas on a given topic. A comment period is specified during which all interested parties may submit comments.

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (NPRM) - issued by the Commission when it is proposing a specific change to the FCC Rules and Regulations. Before any changes are actually made, interested parties may submit written comments on the proposals.

Memorandum Opinion and Order (MO&O) - issued by the Commission to deny a petition for rulemaking, conclude an inquiry, modify a decision, or deny a petition for reconsideration of a decision.

Rulemaking (RM) Number - assigned to a proceeding after the appropriate Bureau/Office has reviewed a petition for rulemaking, but before the Commission has taken action on the petition.

Report & Order (R&O) - issued by the Commission to state a new or amended rule or state that the FCC Rules will not be changed.

William J. Tricarico,

Secretary, Federal Communications Commission.

Legal Authority: 29 USC 504 Rehabilitation Act of 1973; 12 USC 1819 Federal Deposit Insurance Act

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 352

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: This proposed regulation implements the spirit of section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, as amended, which prohibits discrimination on the basis of handicap, as it applies to the programs or activities conducted by various Executive agencies. Although the FDIC does not believe that Congress contemplated coverage of non-appropriated, independent regulatory agencies such as the FDIC, it has chosen to promulgate this proposed regulation to ensure that, to the extent practicable, handicapped persons are provided with equal access to FDIC programs and activities.

The FDIC gave notice on January 17, 1986 (51 FR 2519), that it was extending the period for publishing the final rule to March 31, 1986.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1816; 12 USC 1819; 12 USC 1828

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 353

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The FDIC is proposing to add Part 353 to its regulations to require insured nonmember banks to report, on a prescribed form, criminal violations of the United States Code that involve or affect such banks to the appropriate investigatory and prosecuting authorities, as well as to the FDIC. Robberies, burglaries and nonemployee larcenies, which are subject to the requirements of 12 CFR 326.5(c), are exempt from the requirements of the proposed rule. The central purpose of the report form requirement is to assure that the information needed by the investigators and prosecutors for effective law enforcement is provided in an orderly and timely fashion. Also, the FDIC, by receiving a copy of the reports, will be better able to monitor, and to act to reduce, losses to insured nonmember banks as a result of criminal activity. The proposed rule also requires,in the interest of reducing losses, that an insured nonmember bank notify the FDIC if its fidelity bond against defalcations and similar losses is cancelled or if the coverage is changed significantly.

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 330

Abstract: The FDIC is proposing to amend certain recordkeeping requirements affecting the manner in which insurance coverage on brokered deposits is determined. The amendments would require disclosure in the account records of the bank of the identity of each person having a beneficial ownership interest in such accounts in order for those persons to obtain insurance coverage. The primary purpose of the amendment is to enable the FDIC to determine quickly and efficiently the extent of insurance coverage on brokered deposits for supervisory and regulatory reasons and to make informed decisions regarding the costs of alternatives considered in handling insured banks which are failing.

Abstract: The FDIC has amended its Fair Housing regulation, 12 CFR 338, to revise the recordkeeping exemption threshold. The rule ended the log sheet requirement for log sheet banks that have $50 million or less in assets and have received fewer than 25 home loan applications in the prior calendar year. Raising the threshold improved the efficiency and effectiveness of consumer affairs examiners through more productive use of examination time and, additionally, reduced the recordkeeping burden on banks.

Legal Deadline: Statutory, June 1, 1986

Abstract: The Secretary of Energy proposed, under section 403 of the DOE Organization Act, that the Commission exercise its authority: 1. Under sections 104 and 106 of the NGPA, to establish just and reasonable prices for "flowing" old gas; and 2. Under section 107 of the NGPA, to establish incentive prices for certain categories of old gas.

Under the Secretary's proposal, the Commission would also act to eliminate vintaging and replace the different old gas ceiling prices with a single ceiling price. According to the Secretary, adoption of its proposal would establish incentive prices for certain categories of old gas, in order to increase significantly the production of old gas and to encourage long-term investment in natural gas exploration, development, and production. CFR Citation: 18 CFR 154

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Commission seeks additional comment on its block billing procedures. In the original notice, the Commission proposed: -A three-part gas rate for pipeline gas sales, to preserve the benefits of "old" gas for existing firm sales customers and to mitigate competitive distortions resulting from the lingering effects of existing wellhead price controls; -A first block containing "old gas" under sections 104, 106(a) and 109 of the NGPA; -That after a pipeline permitted its firm sales customers to reduce 100 percent of their contract demands and offered those customers non-discriminatory self-implementing transportation, then the sales price assigned to the second block was presumed to be just and reasonable. The revised proposal is as follows: -Eliminating "Block 3" with revisions to clarify that the "as-billed" principle continues to apply to fixed costs; -Extending the base period to include the period between December 1,

3620. ● VOLUNTARY SUPERVISORY CONVERSIONS AND MODIFIED CONVERSIONS

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1464(i) (1) to (2); 12 USC 1464(o); 12 USC 1464(p); 12 USC 1725(j); PL 99-120, Sec 6

Legal Deadline: None

Abstract: The Board proposes to adopt technical amendments to its regulations governing voluntary supervisory conversions and modified conversions of mutual insured institutions to stock form. The purposes of the proposed amendments are to clarify several of the policies and interpretations of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board relating to the voluntary supervisory conversion process, to expedite the processing of voluntary supervisory conversion and modified conversion applications, and to facilitate the voluntary supervisory conversion and modified conversion procedures and encourage their use by inaured institutions as capital-raising tools. In addition, the Board is proposing to remove the requirement that the offer and sale of capital stock in a voluntary supervisory conversion must constitute a non-public offering. The Board believes that by allowing insured institutions the option to publicly offer conversion stock, the use of the voluntary supervisory conversion procedure as a means of capitalizing and rehabilitating insolvent and financially troubled insured institutions will be encouraged.

Unified Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Federal Maritime Commission.

ACTION: Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

SUMMARY: Pursuant to section 5 of E.O. 12291 and the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601 et seq.) the Commission anticipates having under consideration during the period from April 1, 1986, to March 31, 1987, actions in the areas listed below.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information concerning Commission rulemaking proceedings or the status of any matter listed below, contact: John Robert Ewers, Secretary, 1100 L Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20573, (202) 523-5725.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Section 602 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 602) requires the publication of an agenda of items for which regulatory agencies may propose or promulgate a rule which is likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Section 5 of Executive Order 12291 also requires executive agencies to publish a regulatory agenda; the Commission voluntarily complies with this section. The agendas include information on regulatory activities being conducted or reviewed during the succeeding 12 months by the Commission.

The following is the Commission's Unified Regulatory Agenda. The agenda does not necessarily include petitions for rulemakings which are under staff review.

In addition, the Commission is publishing a compilation of the status of pending rulemaking proceedings and a listing of rules that have become final since the publication of the most recent regulatory agenda (October 29, 1985, 50 FR 44942). This list will be made available to the press and interested groups.

Proposed Rule Stage

3661. ● REGULATION: E - ELECTRONIC FUND TRANSFERS

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1693 et seq Electronic Fund Transfer Act

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 205

Abstract: The Board will consider issuing for comment proposed amendments to Regulation E to address issues that have arisen regarding the responsibilities of persons that issue access devices and provide electronic fund transfer services to consumers absent an agreement with the financial institution holding the consumers' accounts. The amendments would clarify the responsibilities of these service-providers and the institutions holding the consumer accounts with respect to electronic fund transfers initiated through the service-providers. The amendments may (1) eliminate the requirement that service-providers furnish periodic statements to consumers; (2) require service-providers to provide detailed transaction identification that would allow the account-holding institutions to comply with the periodic statements requirements of Regulation E; and (3) require account-holding institutions to identify electronic fund transfers initiated through the service-provider on periodic statements in accordance with Regulation E.

3662. ● REGULATION: H - MEMBERSHIP OF STATE BANKING INSTITUTIONS IN THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

Legal Authority: 42 USC 4001 et seq

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 208.8(e)

Abstract: The Board will consider issuing for comment two amendments to the flood insurance provisions of Regulation H. The proposals are designed to provide a decrease of 20,000 burden hours in paperwork, as required by OMB. The regulation would be amended to delete the requirements that: (1) state member banks maintain compliance records; and (2) a borrower acknowledge in writing receipt of the notification required to be made by state member banks under the flood insurance regulations. Banks, however, would continue to be required to make these notifications. This action would diminish burdens on all sizes of state member banks; therefore, it is not expected that the proposals would have a significant adverse effect on small banks.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1843 Bank Holding Company Act; 12 USC 1844(b) Bank Holding Company Act

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 225

Abstract: A provision of Regulation Y permits a state bank subsidiary of a bank holding company to engage through a nonbank subsidiary in any activity that is permissible under state law for the bank subsidiary itself, subject to the same limits as if the bank engages in the activity directly. (A similar rule applies to national bank subsidiaries regarding activities permissible for such banks under federal law.) The Board received comments on this provision in connection with its general request for comments in May 1983 regarding the proposed revision of Regulation Y. Some of the commenters challenged the Board's authority to issue this provision, although it has been part of Regulation Y since 1971. In taking final action on the revision of Regulation Y, the Board deferred consideration of the comments on this provision and allowed the existing rule to remain in effect in the interim (49 FR 794, January 5, 1984).

The Board plans to review this provision of the regulation in the near future. A determination to reverse the rule could have an adverse impact on many small banks that are subsidiaries of holding companies because they might be required to (cont)

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1841 Bank Holding Company Act; 12 USC 221 Federal Reserve Act; 12 USC 3901 International Lending Supervision Act of 1983

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 225

Abstract: In January 1985, the Board requested comment regarding whether, and to what extent, the Board should exercise its authority under the Bank Holding Company Act, the Federal Reserve Act, and the International Lending Supervision Act to authorize or limit the conduct of real estate investment activities by bank holding companies and their nonbank subsidiaries (50 FR 4519, January 31, 1985). The Board has not proposed a specific regulation at this time, and has only requested comment on the general question of whether, and in what direction Board regulation in this area is appropriate. If the Board determines to propose a regulation, the public will be invited to comment. Comment in this area was requested in response to enactment of a number of state laws that have recently authorized state banks to conduct a broad array of nonbanking activities that previously were not authorized for state banks or bank holding companies, including real estate investment activities. Until the Board reviews the comments, it is unclear whether the Board will act in this area or what specific action it may take. Therefore, the effect on small entities cannot be (cont)

3665. ● REGULATION: D - RESERVE REQUIREMENTS OF DEPOSITORY INSTITUTIONS

Legal Authority: 12 USC 248(k); 12 USC 461(a)

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 204

Abstract: In February 1986, the Board proposed to clarify the definition of "deposit" in Regulation D to include the interest or liability associated with a borrowing in the form of certain sales of assets and related transactions by a depository institution (FR cite unavailable). These transactions include a sale of assets that involves a full guarantee by the institution that, in effect, substitutes the institution's credit standing for that of the ultimate borrower and in which the institution retains the risk of borrower default after the asset is sold. Further, the regulation currently treats obligations of an affiliate as deposits of the depository institution to the extent the proceeds are provided to the depository institution. The Board proposes to exclude proceeds received from a sale of assets without recourse to the affiliate.

The proposal also would clarify the application of Regulation D to certain of these transactions involving organizations effectively controlled by the depository institution even though not formally affiliated. (cont)

Timetable:

Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: Finally, the proposal would clarify how the Board measures the "maturity" of an obligation for the purposes of Regulation D.

The proposal requests comment on any alternatives that the public believes may be preferable to the Board's proposed amendments. Suggested alternatives will be considered when comments are analyzed.

The proposed rule would apply to all depository institutions. It is not anticipated that the proposal will have a negative impact on the ability of small depository institutions to attract deposits.

The Board will review the comments and take further action within the next six months.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 371b; 12 USC 461(b)

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 204; 12 CFR 217

Abstract: On March 31, 1986, the authority transferred to the Depository Institutions Deregulation Committee expires, and interest paid on deposits will generally no longer be subject to regulation. The Board, therefore, in January 1986 proposed for comment amendments to its Regulations D and Q to reflect this expiration and to make other technical changes (51 FR 27, January 2, 1986). It is expected that any changes in the regulations will not have a significant adverse effect on small entities.

Abstract: In March 1986, the Board issued for public comment proposed amendments to Regulation J intended to clarify certain issues that have arisen regarding Federal Reserve payments mechanism activities (50 FR 12319, March 28, 1985). The proposed amendments include (1) permitting the owner or other subsequent holder injured by a Reserve Bank's alleged failure to exercise ordinary care in handling a check to bring suit against the Reserve Bank; (2) establishing a two-year limitation for actions against a Reserve Bank for alleged mishandling of the collection of checks or processing wire transfers and for actions against payor institutions for failure to follow the notification of nonpayment requirements; (3) permitting Reserve Banks to require any prior indorsee to defend a suit even if the Reserve Bank has not been sued directly; (4) authorizing depository institutions to deposit with Reserve Banks for collection checks drawn on institutions in foreign countries where Reserve Banks have made arrangements for their collection; (5) clarifying that Reserve Banks are not liable for consequential damages in handling wire transfers; (6) adding the northern Mariana Islands to the Twelfth (cont)

Abstract: In November 1985, the Board proposed several measures to reduce Federal Reserve float (50 FR 47752, November 20, 1985). The proposals would: (1) amend Subpart A of the Board's Regulation J which governs the collection of checks and other items, to require paying banks that close voluntarily on days that are banking days for their Reserve Banks to pay on such days for cash items that Reserve

Abstract: In August 1985, the Board published for comment proposed regulations that would restrict lending by an Edge Corporation to its affiliates where the Edge Corporation is not subject to the restrictions of section 23A of the Federal Reserve Act (12 USC 371c) because it is owned by a U.S. insured bank (50 FR 35238, August 30, 1985. In taking this action, the Board noted the increasing number of owners of Edge Corporations that are not subject to federal banking supervision and the potential adverse effects that might result from such affiliations, such as the impairment of the Edge's ability to act as an impartial arbiter of credit. The Board requested comment on the effect of the proposal on existing Edge Corporations, especially those owned by foreign banks and whether any exemptions from the restrictions are appropriate.

It is not expected that the proposal would have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small businesses, because it applies only to organizations involved in international banking.

Abstract: In January 1986, the Board issued for comment proposals to clarify, update, and simplify the advertising provisions of Regulation Q (51 FR 1379, January 13, 1986). The revisions incorporate and supersede the proposals of March 1984 concerning advertising of split-rate deposits and IRA/Keogh (HR 10) Plan accounts. The proposal is not expected to have a significant adverse effect on small banks.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1843(c)(8) Bank Holding Company Act

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 225

Abstract: In March 1984, the Board proposed for comment an amendment to Regulation Y that would list certain additional nonbanking activities as generally permissible for bank holding companies under section 4(c)(8) of the Bank Holding Company Act and in which they may seek Board approval to engage (49 FR 9215, March 12, 1984). The activities proposed to be included in Regulation Y for the first time include: (1) commodity trading advisory services; (2) check guaranty services; (3) consumer financial counseling; (4) armored car services; (5) tax planning and tax preparation; and (6) operating a credit agency and credit bureau.

Consumer financial counseling, check guaranty services and limited types of tax preparation have been permitted previously by Board order on individual applications.

In addition the Board has proposed to expand the activities of property appraisal and providing advice in connection with future commission merchant activities. These activities have been included previously in the list of permissible activities (cont)

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1843(c)(8) Bank Holding Company Act

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 225

Abstract: In November 1983, the Board published for comment a proposal to eliminate the requirement in Regulation Y that bank holding companies engaging in credit life and credit accident and health insurance underwriting provide rate reductions or increased policy benefits in order to engage in this activity (48 FR 53125, November 25, 1983). The Board took this action as a result of the suggestions of several commenters to the Board's recent revision of Regulation Y, who advocated elimination of the rate reduction requirement from the regulation because, in their view, the requirement puts bank holding companies at a competitive disadvantage with other providers of this service, and because the potential adverse effects on the public that prompted the Board to impose this requirement in 1972 have not been realized.

This proposal, if adopted, would relax the regulatory requirements on bank holding companies that engage in this activity.

The Board will review the comments and is expected to take further action within the next month.

Legal Authority: 12 USC 1841 et seq Bank Holding Company Act

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 225

Abstract: In January 1985, the Board requested comment as to whether it should permit bank holding companies that own nonbank banks to provide them with internal administrative services and to establish management interlocks with them (50 FR 2057, January 15, 1985). ("Nonbank banks" are institutions that are chartered as banks but either do not accept demand deposits or do not make commercial loans.) The Board took this action to resolve a number of questions that had been raised regarding the appropriate scope of relationships between nonbank banks and their affiliates. It is likely that any action the Board might take would primarily affect larger bank holding systems and would relax a requirement or prohibition. Therefore, it is expected that any Board action would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

In view of recent litigation involving the legality of nonbank banks, the Board has suspended further consideration of nonbank bank applications by bank holding companies pending a definitive resolution of the status of nonbank banks. Final action on the proposal for comment thus is not likely until this issue (cont)

Legal Authority: 12 USC 3907; 12 USC 3909 International Lending Supervision Act of 1983

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 225, Appendix A

Abstract: In November 1985, the Board proposed for comment an amendment to its Capital Guidelines that would define as primary capital perpetual debt securities issued by state member banks and bank holding companies (50 FR 47754, November 20, 1985). To qualify as primary capital, such perpetual debt securities would have to meet specific criteria intended to make perpetual debt the functional equivalent, for capital purposes, of preferred stock.

The Board also proposed to limit the amount of preferred stock, perpetual debt, and mandatory convertible securities that could qualify as primary capital to 33-1/3 percent of primary capital exclusive of such instruments.

The proposal is not expected to have a significant effect on small banking organizations that do not rely on preferred stock to any significant degree and that are not likely to issue perpetual debt.

The Board will review the comments and is expected to take further action within the next six months.

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 225, Appendix A

Abstract: In January 1986, the Board proposed for comment an amendment to its Capital Guidelines that would provide for a supplemental adjusted capital measure designed to be more systematically and explicitly sensitive to the risk exposure of individual banking organizations (51 FR 3976, January 31, 1986). This measure would be based on a ratio of primary capital to total assets adjusted to account for certain types of risks, including many kinds of off-balance-sheet risk. The Board is considering replacement of the total capital zones in its current Guidelines with zones based upon the proposed supplemental adjusted capital ratio.

These new zones would apply only to large banking organizations with assets in excess of $1 billion. Consequently the proposal is not likely to have a significant impact on smaller banking organizations.

The Board will review the comments and is expected to take further action within the next six months.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1604, as amended Truth in Lending Act

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 226

Abstract: Regulation Z currently requires that creditors provide information to consumers regarding variable rate features in credit transactions. Concern has been expressed in Congress and elsewhere as to whether Truth in Lending disclosures adequately convey to consumers the terms and potential costs of adjustable rate mortgages.

The Board has proposed that creditors make more extensive disclosure of the variable rate feature in transactions secured by the consumer's home (50 FR 20221, May 15, 1985). The proposal would amend the regulation to require that creditors make available to consumers general descriptive material about adjustable rate mortgages as well as provide a more detailed description of their variable rate feature along with an example showing the effect of a rate increase of two percentage points for each of the first three years of the transaction. Finally, the proposal would eliminate a provision of the regulation that currently permits creditors to substitute the disclosures required by other federal agencies for those required by Regulation Z. If the Board adopts this proposal, mortgage creditors, including small businesses engaged in mortgage lending, could incur some costs in revising and reprinting forms, and changing certain procedures to comply with the requirement. Before any final action, the Board would consider appropriate actions to minimize the burdens and costs of compliance.

The Federal Financial Institutions Examination Council (FFIEC) is considering the proposal in an effort to seek uniformity among the agencies' disclosure requirements. The Board is expected to take further action after the next meeting of the FFIEC in March.

3678. FURTHER PROPOSALS TO REDUCE RISKS ON LARGE-DOLLAR WIRE TRANSFER SYSTEMS (DOCKET NUMBER: R-0515A, R-0515B, R-0515C)

Legal Authority: 12 USC 221 et seq

CFR Citation: 00 CFR None

Abstract: In May 1985, the Board adopted a statement of its policy on reducing risks on large-dollar wire transfer systems (50 FR 21120, May 22, 1985). The Board determined, however, that certain aspects of this topic require further study and issued the following three requests for comments: (1) Book-entry securities transfer (R-0515A). In formulating its policy on risk reduction, the Board has been concerned about the impact that overdraft restrictions could have in the U.S. government securities market, which is vital to the conduct of monetary policy and the funding of the federal debt. Consequently, the Board has exempted daylight overdrafts resulting from the transfer of such securities from these restrictions. Instead, the Board is seeking comment on a proposal to reduce risks associated with transfers of book-entry securities that would require institutions to choose between treating book-entry related overdrafts the same as funds overdrafts or pledging collateral to secure book-entry overdrafts. (2) Automated Clearing Houses (R-0515B). The Board has previously regarded automatic clearing houses (ACHs) as low-dollar networks. Recently, however, ACHs have begun (cont)

Accordingly, the Board is requesting comment on risks associated with ACH payments and how such risks can be controlled. (3) Net Settlement Arrangements (R-0515C). The Board did not consider risks associated with the many net settlement services offered by the Federal Reserve (ATM, POS, check, and credit cards). The Board has determined to consider these risks, and requested comment on various aspects of these services, and the risks they entail, to aid it in its study.

It is not expected that these proposals, if adopted, would have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities, because small entities do not usually participate in large-dollar wire transfer systems.

The Board will review the comments and take further action within the next six months.

3679. REGULATION: B - EQUAL CREDIT OPPORTUNITY (DOCKET NUMBER: R-0541)

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1691b Equal Credit Opportunity Act

CFR Citation: 12 CFR 202

Abstract: In March 1985, the Board published for comment proposed revisions to Regulation B (50 FR 10890, March 18, 1985). The proposal stems from the Board's commitment to review its regulations every five years. The review of Regulation B focussed on how the regulation could be clarified, and whether any burdens on creditors could be reduced without diminishing consumer protections.

After considering the comments, the Board adopted the proposal with some changes (50 FR 48018, November 20, 1985). The final revisions include a streamlined procedure dealing with incomplete applications and a broader selection of sample forms for informing applicants of the reasons for credit denial. The revisions also change the data notation requirements applicable to residential mortgage transactions and revise the definition of "applicant" to give a guarantor (who already has certain protections under Regulations B) legal standing in the courts when there is an alleged violation of the regulation. The Board also published an official staff commentary that replaces existing staff and Board interpretations. (cont)

The revisions apply to all creditors equally. Abstract: In the October Agenda the Board indicated that it might review a proposal submitted by a bank calling for an amendment to Regulation U that would permit banks to extend credit for options transactions in the same manner permitted brokers-dealers under Regulation T (Credit by Brokers and Dealers). The proposal was viewed as tentative because of litigation involving Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) Rule 3b-9 (17 CFR 240.3b-9), which would require banks to conduct the activities involved through a broker-dealer subject to Regulation T. The courts allowed the SEC Rule 3b-9 to become effective on January 1, 1986 and the petitioner, therefore, has withdrawn the request. It is not expected that the Board will consider the subject further.

Abstract: The Board's Regulatory Planning & Review Section, formerly the Regulatory Improvement Project, coordinates the substantive, zero-based review of all Federal Reserve regulations that affect the public. Each review determines: (1) the fundamental objectives of the regulation and the extent to which it is meeting current policy goals, (2) nonregulatory alternatives that would accomplish the objectives, (3) costs and benefits of the regulation, (4) unnecessary burdens imposed by the regulation, and (5) the clarity of the regulation. Because of a change in format of the Unified Agenda, each Federal Reserve regulation that will be subject to a zero-based review during the upcoming year will be listed as a separate entry under section 1 of this agenda.

The Section also participates in the development of other proposals listed in this agenda to ensure that the objectives of the Regulatory Flexibility Act and the Board's Policy Statement on Expanded Rulemaking are met.

16 CFR Ch. I

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Federal Trade Commission.

ACTION: Semiannual regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: The following agenda of Commission proceedings is published in accordance with section 22(d)(1) of the Federal Trade Commission Act, 15 U.S.C. 57b-3(d)(1), section 610(c) of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 610(c). Each projected event reflects the FTC staff's assessment of events that it expects will occur in the listed proceedings during the coming year. No Commission determination on the need for or the substance of a trade regulation rule or any other procedural option should be inferred from the projected events included in this agenda.

Several agenda items concern proceedings that may affect a substantial number of small businesses as that term is used in the Regulatory Flexibility Act. Whether any such proceeding will result in a rule which is likely to have a significant economic impact on such entities depends upon final Commission determinations on the need for or on the substance of a trade regulation rule.

Except for notice of completed actions, the information in this agenda represents judgments of the FTC staff, based upon information now available. These views should not be regarded as a final staff position, nor should they be attributed to the Commission itself. The Commission will address the issues presented on the rulemaking record in the final consideration of each proceeding.

Agenda items include the projected timing of any future Commission action. In most instances the dates of future events are listed by month, not a specific day. Further details may be obtained from the agency contact responsible for a particular proceeding. Discovery of new information, changes in circumstances, or in the law may alter the information set forth in this agenda.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Further details may be obtained from the agency contact responsible for a particular proceeding.

By direction of the Commission.

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 429

Abstract: The rule states that sellers of consumer goods or services with a purchase price of $25.00 or more who sell away from their place of business must furnish to the buyer certain information regarding the buyer's right to cancel sales within three business days and must give the buyer a full refund of any down payment upon the buyer's cancellation. The rule requires a seller to furnish the buyer with a complete receipt or copy of a contract, along with a notice informing the buyer of the right to cancel the transaction, to furnish the buyer with a completed Notice of Cancellation. The rule is intended to benefit consumers by permitting them to reflect on their purchase and the terms of any contract, to compare the purchase with offerings of other sellers, and to ascertain the accuracy of any representations made. The resulting costs to sellers include the costs associated with cancellation (processing cancelled orders, returning downpayments, retrieving delivered goods, and returning traded-in merchandise) and the additional cost of printing the required cancellation notices. Since the rule affects all door-to-door sellers, it may have a significant economic effect on a (cont)

3684. MAIL ORDER MERCHANDISE

Legal Authority: 15 USC 41 et seq Federal Trade Commission Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 435

Abstract: The Commission's rule concerning mail order merchandise was promulgated on October 22, 1975. The rule requires mail order sellers to possess a reasonable basis for any claims made concerning shipping date or, in the absence of any specifically stated date, to ship the ordered merchandise within thirty (30) days of receipt of an order. In the event of delays in shipment, the rule establishes notification procedures whereby buyers have the option either to agree to the delay or to cancel the order and receive a prompt refund. The Commission's rule is designed to address a number of significant consumer problems described on the record of the rulemaking proceeding, including failure to deliver ordered merchandise, unexplained delays in delivery, failure to make prompt (or any) refunds upon cancellation of an order, and inability to obtain responses to inquiries about pending orders. The rule enables consumers to obtain ordered merchandise within a reasonable time period or, if delays occur, to cancel the order and obtain a prompt refund, so that losses due to undelivered merchandise, delays, and inadequate or nonexistent refunds can be avoided. By subjecting sellers (cont)

Costs relating to the rule may include the cost of establishing a system for monitoring and recording orders, deliveries, delays, cancellations, consents to delays, and refunds; the costs of complying with the rule's notification requirements regarding delays (printing, postage, etc.); the cost of processing refunds; and additional inventory costs. Pursuant to Sec. 610 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, the Commission is undertaking a review of this rule to determine whether the rule has had a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities and, if so, whether the rule should be amended to minimize any such impact. The rule applies to all members of the mail order industry, including small firms. In addition, the staff is considering whether the rule should be amended to cover orders placed by telephone or other electronic means.

3685. FRANCHISING AND BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 436

Abstract: The franchise trade regulation rule was adopted in response to evidence of deceptive and unfair practices in connection with the sale of the types of businesses covered by the rule. In some instances prospective franchisees lack a ready means of obtaining essential and reliable information about their proposed business investment. This lack of information reduces the ability of prospective franchisees either to make an informed investment decision or otherwise verify the representations of the business' salespersons. The rule attempts to deal with these problems by requiring franchisors and franchise brokers to furnish prospective franchisees with information about the franchisor, the franchise business and the terms of the franchise agreement. Franchisors and franchise brokers must furnish additional information if they have made any claim about actual or potential earnings, either to the prospective franchisee or in the media. All disclosures must be made (i) before

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2309; 15 USC 2310(a)(2) Magnuson-Moss Warranty--FTC Improvements Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 703

Abstract: The Magnuson-Moss Warranty act, enacted on January 4, 1975, requires that the Federal Trade Commission promulgate a rule prescribing the minimum requirements for any informal dispute settlement procedure which is incorporated into the terms of a written warranty subject to the Act. Because warrantors are not required to incorporate such procedures into warranties, the rule applies only to warrantors who voluntarily choose to do so. The present rule sets forth detailed procedural, recordkeeping, and reporting requirements for dispute settlement mechanisms designed to insure their fairness. In accordance with Section 610 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, The Commission has begun a review of the rule to examine whether the rule has had a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities and to assess whether any changes are needed. As part of that review, the Commission is considering whether to begin a negotiated rulemaking, in which all affected interests would have an opportunity to agree to recommend to the Commission revisions to the rule that would facilitate the Congressional (cont)

3687. NEGATIVE OPTION RULE

Legal Authority: 15 USC 41 Federal Trade Commission Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 425

Abstract: The Trade Regulation Rule concerning negative option plans was promulgated on February 15, 1973. The rule imposes specific requirements concerning procedures that must be followed in the operation of negative option methods of merchandising. The rule requires that all covered advertisements clearly disclose the material terms of the plan; that the subscriber be given a minimum of 10 days in which to instruct the seller not to mail a selection; and that the seller must give full credit, and guarantee return postage, for merchandise returned by subscribers who were not obligated to receive it. The rule is designed to address a number of significant consumer problems described in the record of the rulemaking proceeding, including denying subscribers sufficient time to respond to the negative option cards sent under these plans, thereby denying subscribers the opportunity to make an informed decision; delivering unordered merchandise without prior consent of subscribers; and placing the burden and expense of correcting "errors" on the subscriber.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 41 et seq. Federal Trade Commision Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 423

Abstract: The Trade Regulation Rule concerning care labeling of textile wearing apparel and certain piece goods used to make wearing apparel was promulgated on December 16, 1971. The rule requires manufacturers and importers to provide labels for covered items which disclose information for cleaning and care of the product. The rule is intended to assist consumers in making informed purchase decisions concerning the care characteristics of competing products and to enable consumers and cleaners to avoid product damage caused by the use of improper cleaning procedures. The rule was amended on May 20, 1981. The amendments require a more complete statement of the same procedures and establish a standard for the accuracy of each care procedure on a label. The amendments also provide a glossary of standardized care terminology that can be used. With the clarification of the rule's requirements provided by the amendments, manufacturers and importers will be able to minimize inadvertent violations and avoid unnecessary compliance costs.

3689. OPHTHALMIC PRACTICE RULES (FORMERLY EYEGLASSES II)

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 456, (Revision)

Abstract: The staff of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection has identified several state and private restrictions on the delivery of eye care goods and services which may decrease consumer access to vision care services, increase the cost of those services, and impede the growth of alternative methods of organizing eye-care practices. The principal question the Commission is exploring is the impact of such restrictions on the price, quality and availability of vision care. The Commission's investigation has sought, through the development of empirical market research, to determine whether higher prices result from these restrictions and, if so, whether offsetting consumer benefits also result. The primary impact of a rule on small businesses could stem from the increased competition in the vision care industry which can be anticipated as a result of deregulatory effect of the rule. Rule provisions removing certain restraints on commercial ophthalmic practice could enhance competition by permitting small entities (i.e., optometrists and opticians) to engage in alternate modes of practice; or to expand, should they desire to do so. The affirmative requirements of a rule could impose additional (cont)

The alternatives to an FTC trade regulation rule include: a formal complaint against a professional association or an ophthalmic board alleged to have engaged in illegal acts or practices; a voluntary guide defining unfair acts or practices; legislative recommendations to Congress or to the States; or the release of a public report setting forth the findings of the staff. The Commission is postponing the Regulatory Flexibility Act review of the existing Advertising of Ophthalmic Goods and Services Trade Regulation Rule (Eyeglasses Rule) because that Rule will be modified by the current rulemaking. The Eyeglasses Rule requires eye doctors to furnish copies of spectacle prescriptions to consumers after eye examinations. The advertising portions of the Eyeglasses Rule are not in effect, pursuant to the decision in American Optometric Association v. FTC, 626 F. 2d 896 (D.C. Legal Authority: 15 USC 45 Federal Trade Commission Act; 15 USC 57(a) Federal Trade Commission Act

Abstract: The objective of the proposed amendment is to ensure that a purchaser's duty to pay is not separated from sellers' duty to perform when consumer sales are financed by third party creditors or purchase money lenders. The original rule requires sellers to ensure that credit contracts used in consumer installment sales and purchase money loans contain a provision that makes any holder of the contract subject to all legal claims and defenses related to the sale transaction which the buyer may have against the seller. The proposed amendment would extend to creditors the obligation to ensure that credit contracts contain the required provision. Benefits from the proposed amendments may include improvement in the retail market due to increased scrutiny by creditors of the sellers with whom they do business and availability to consumers of additional claims and defenses against creditors. Some creditors may have increased costs associated with screening contracts and monitoring the reputations of retailers with whom they deal. CFR Citation: 16 CFR 460.10; 16 CFR 460.16; 16 CFR 460.19; 16 CFR 460, Appendix B

Abstract: The Commission's home insulation trade regulation rule became effective on September 29, 1980. Among other things, it requires advertisers to disclose specific additional information in advertisements or other promotional materials when they make energy savings claims about an insulation product or refer to the product's thickness, R-Value or price. The Commission temporarily stayed the effective date of those disclosure requirements as they applied to television ads pending completion of these amendment proceedings. The Commission has announced its intention to reopen the rulemaking proceeding to consider whether it should amend the rule's disclosure requirements insofar as they apply to television advertising. (ANPR, 46 FR 47236, Sept. 25, 1981.) The TV ad disclosure requirements in the rule benefit consumers by ensuring that they have an opportunity to understand and evaluate claims that may otherwise lead to misguided purchasing decisions. The major cost to consumers is the possible displacement of other valuable information in advertisements by the required disclosures. The major cost to industry members is the (cont)

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 441, (New)

Abstract: Almost all mobile homes are sold with a manufacturer's warranty but many buyers may not receive adequate and timely service under the warranty. The rule would address possibly inadequate performance of mobile home warranties through a number of possible remedies: setting specific service deadlines, prohibiting exclusion of set-up and transportation from warranty coverage, requiring written service agreements between warrantors and their service agents, and requiring maintenance of service records. Compliance costs estimated by staff will be approximately $145 per home for most firms affected, and could be less, depending on what provisions are actually adopted. An estimated 20% of buyers would benefit by saving about $242 for warranty repairs they would otherwise not get; another 15% of buyers would have service time cut by an estimated 4 months. The incidence of warranted defects could be reduced, increasing the useful life of homes. Buyers could also receive better financing terms due to lowering the incidence of defects that diminish resale value. Consumers might benefit from better information, if warranties accurately reflected what service is included (cont)

Legal Authority: 15 USC 45 Federal Trade Commission Act; 15 USC 57(a) Federal Trade Commission Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 438, (New)

Abstract: In 1979, the Second Circuit Court of Appeals set aside the rule as originally issued by the Commission, citing problems with some of the remedies that the rule provided to purchasers of proprietary vocational training. The Staff has prepared recommendations as to how the Commission should respond to the Court's decision. Alternatives under consideration include a rule that would give schools the option of providing either a strict pro rata refund remedy or a track record disclosure, a rule requiring some refunds but not on a strict pro rata basis, and a rule with no refund requirements at all. Alternatives to rulemaking include case-by-case enforcement, and FTC intervention before other state and federal agencies having jurisdiction over vocational schools to prevent deceptive practices. The rule may benefit consumers by enabling them to avoid expenditures on inappropriate courses and increasing the effectiveness of the vocational school industry in training and placing people in productive jobs. Legal Authority: 15 USC 2302(b)(1)(A); 15 USC 2309(a) Magnuson-Moss Warranty--FTC Improvements Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 702

Abstract: The Magnuson-Moss Warranty Act (15 U.S.C. 2302(b)(1)(A)) requires that the Federal Trade Commission promulgate a rule to require that the terms of written warranties for consumer products be made available to consumers prior to purchase. The Rule modifications approved by the Commission currently being considered are intended to achieve the Congressional objective more effectively by making the Rule requirements more flexible and thus lessening the costs and burdens of compliance while still ensuring consumers access to warranties prior to purchase. The rule previously required that retailers of consumer products costing more than $15 make warranty texts available to consumers prior to purchase by placing the warranty text in one or a combination of four specified locations; (1) on the product, (2) in a binder, (3) on the package, or (4) on a sign. Both the former and the amended versions of the Rule require manufacturers to provide materials sufficient for retailers to meet their obligations. 3695. RETAIL FOOD STORE ADVERTISING AND MARKETING PRACTICES

Legal Authority: 15 USC 41 et seq Federal Trade Commission Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 424

Abstract: The Commission's Rule on Retail Food Store Advertising and Marketing Practices states that it is a violation of Section 5 of the Federal Trade Commission Act for grocery stores to advertise products at a particular price unless such products are in stock and conspicuously and readily available for sale at the advertised price during the effective period of the advertisement. If a store runs out of advertised products, it is in violation of the rule even if the store noted the limitations on availability in its advertisement and even if the store provides rainchecks or substitute items. The rule is intended to benefit consumers by ensuring that advertised items are available, that advertising-induced purchasing trips are not fruitless, and that store prices accurately reflect the prices appearing in the ads. The rule may cause costs to be incurred in maintaining sufficient inventory to meet anticipated demand, and costs associated with the monitoring of price changes, changing marked prices, training employees to comply with the rule and keeping records to prove compliance. The staff has concluded from a careful review of the rule's effects that the costs the rule imposes on consumers in the form of higher grocery prices significantly exceeds its benefits. Consequently, staff has recommended that the rule be modified in such a way that a store could comply with the rule by clearly and adequately disclosing in its advertisements that there are limitations on availability, or by offering rainchecks or substitute items if supplies run out. Staff has concluded that modifying the rule in this way will maintain any benefits it provides to consumers while substantially reducing or eliminating its costs. Significance: Agency Priority

Legal Authority: 15 USC 18a Clayton Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 801; 16 CFR 802; 16 CFR 803; 16 CFR 803, Appendix

Abstract: The Premerger Notification Rules and the Antitrust Improvements Act Notification and Report Form were adopted pursuant to Section 7A of the Clayton Act. Section 7A requires firms of a certain size contemplating mergers or acquisitions of a specified size to file notification with the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) and the Department of Justice (DOJ) and to wait a designated period before consummating the transaction. It also requires the FTC, with the concurrence of the Assistant Attorney General for Antitrust, to promulgate rules requiring that notification be in a form and contain information necessary to enable the FTC and DOJ to determine whether the proposed acquisition may, if consummated, violate the antitrust laws. Review of these rules and the Form focuses on reducing the paperwork burden imposed on the business community. On July 29, 1981, the Commission proposed several changes in the current premerger rules (46 Fed. Reg. 38710). These proposed changes, with some modification, were adopted in July 1983. On July 2, 1982, the Commission requested comments on several approaches to reduce further the burden imposed by the premerger rules and the Form. (cont)

Additional Information: SMALL ENTITY CONT: The Premerger Notification Rules do not affect nonbusiness entities or small businesses. A firm must have sales or assets of at least $10 million to be subject to any reporting obligation. Moreover, any transaction is exempt under the rules if it is valued at less than $15 million and will not result in the acquiring person's holding 50% of the voting securities of a corporation with sales or assets of $25 million or more.

ABSTRACT CONT: On September 24, 1985 the Commission proposed amendments to the Premerger rules that pertain for the most part to the burden reduction initiative and that affect the scope of the reporting requirement. In January, 1986, the staff submitted to the Commission a recommendation to promulgate a final rule amendment requiring persons filing notification to submit revenue data for 1982 rather than 1977 in response to certain questions on the Form relating to product lines.

3697. GAMES OF CHANCE IN THE FOOD RETAILING AND GASOLINE INDUSTRIES RULE

Legal Authority: 15 USC 45 Federal Trade Commission Act; 15 USC 57(a) Federal Trade Commission Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 419.1

Abstract: The Commission's trade regulation rule concerning games of chance became effective on October 17, 1980. The rule establishes requirements for food and gasoline retailers in conducting and advertising games of chance by requiring disclosure of odds-of-winning and prize information in broadcast and print advertisements, as well as in point of sale information. During January, 1986, the Commission granted a temporary partial exemption to allow supermarkets and gas stations to advertise their games on radio and television without disclosing full information on prizes and odds-of-winning. In addition, the Commission also published an advance notice of proposed rulemaking on whether to make the broadcast exemption permanent. Finally, the Commission has proposed to reduce the recordkeeping requirements of the rule from three years to one year in keeping with the goals of the Paperwork Reduction Act, and requests public comment on other possible areas where amendments to the rule may be appropriate. The rule benefits consumers by allowing contestants to enter games of chance with full knowledge of all material information to enable equal competition for (cont)

3698. APPLIANCE LABELING RULE -- ENERGY POLICY AND CONSERVATION ACT

Legal Authority: 42 USC 6294 National Energy Conservation Policy Act; PL 94-163 Energy Policy and Conservation Act, Sec 324, 1975

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 305

Abstract: The Energy Policy and Conservation Act (EPCA) required the Commission to consider labeling rules for the disclosure of energy information, based on standard test procedures prescribed by the Department of Energy, for at least 13 categories of major household appliances. The Commission adopted a labeling rule for seven appliance categories: (1) refrigerators and refrigerator- freezers; (2) freezers; (3) dishwashers; (4) clothes washers; (5) water heaters; (6) room air conditioners; and (7) furnaces. The Commission exempted five other categories of appliances. Following DOE's adoption of final test procedures for central air conditioners (and heat pumps), the Commission initiated a rulemaking to consider including these products. The Commission is also considering including two new types of furnaces in the rule's current coverage of furnaces.

The rule mandates that specific energy costs or efficiency information be disclosed in catalogs and on a label (fact sheets are required for furnaces). The label must include a highlighted energy cost or efficiency disclosure, a range indicating the highest and lowest energy costs or (cont) of the costs imposed on industry members may not be attributable to the rule. The rule applies mainly to manufacturers of household appliances, but does impose some burdens on distributors and retailers. Some of these entities may be small businesses pursuant to Section 610 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act; therefore, the Commission has begun a review of the rule to determine whether the rule has had a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities and, if so, whether the rule should be amended.

3699. HEALTH SPAS

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 443, (New)

Abstract: The rule originally proposed would have required that health spa membership contracts provide consumers with a right to cancel and receive a full refund during a three-day cooling-off period. If a seller's facilities were not yet fully operational, the consumer would have had 10 days to cancel after notice that the spa facilities were fully operational. After this period, the consumer would have had a right to cancel by paying up to a 5% cancellation fee plus a pro-rated portion of the contract price. Other provisions of the proposed rule prescribed the form of cancellation notices,limited contracts to two years, and prohibited the receipt of more than 5 percent of the contract price from consumers if a spa were not fully operational and available for use at the time the contract was signed. All industry members would have incurred costs for printing new contracts to comply with the proposed rule. Membership cancellations due to the requirements of the proposed rule would have adversely affected the cash flow of health spas. Consumers would have benefited from the proposed rule's unlimited cancellation rights to the extent (cont)

3700. OCTANE CERTIFICATION AND POSTING RULE--PETROLEUM MARKETING PRACTICES ACT

Legal Authority: 15 USC 2801 et seq Petroleum Marketing Practices Act

CFR Citation: 16 CFR 306

Abstract: The Federal Trade Commission, in accordance with the Regulatory Flexibility Act and publication of a Plan for the Periodic Review of Commission Rules, 46 FR 35118 (July 7, 1981), is soliciting comments and data on whether the Octane Certification and Posting Rule, 16 CFR Part 306 ("the Rule"), has had a significant economic impact on small entities, and if it has, whether the Rule should be amended to minimize any such significant economic impact on small entities.

The Rule establishes standard procedures for determining, certifying and posting (by means of a label on the fuel dispenser) the octane rating of automotive gasoline intended for sale to consumers. In addition, the Rule contains recordkeeping requirements that require gasoline refiners and importers to retain octane rating test records and gasoline distributors and retailers to retain octane certification records pertaining to the gasoline they sell in commerce for one year.

[Ex Parte No. 420 (Sub-No. 10)]

Semiannual Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Interstate Commerce Commission.

ACTION: Notice of semiannual regulatory agenda to be part of a Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations.

SUMMARY: Pursuant to OMB Bulletin No. 86-4, issued under section 6(b) of E.O. 12291 to implement the provisions of section 5 of the Executive Order concerning Regulatory Agendas, the Commission is publishing an agenda of (1) current and projected rulemakings, and (2) existing regulations being reviewed to determine whether to propose modifications through rulemaking. Listed below are the regulatory actions to be developed or reviewed during the next 12 months. Following each rule identified is a brief description of the rule including its purpose and legal basis.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: A contact person is identified for each of the rules listed below.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: A list of proceedings appears below, containing information about subject areas in which the Commission is currently conducting rulemaking proceedings or may institute such proceedings in the near future. It also contains information about existing regulations being reviewed to determine whether to propose modifications through rulemaking.

The agenda also identifies regulations likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of "small entities." Accordingly, this information will satisfy the requirements of section 602 of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 602.

Finally, this agenda will comprise part of a "Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations" compiled by the Office of Management and Budget which is to be published in a single issue of the Federal Register in April 1986. The purpose of the Unified Agenda is to provide the public with more comprehensive documentation of the Federal government's current regulatory plans, and to provide a systematic means of monitoring regulatory activity in each agency.

This notice is issued pursuant to 49 U.S.C. 10321 and 5 U.S.C. 553.

Decided: February 21, 1986.

By the Commission, Chairman Gradison, Vice Chairman Simmons, Commissioners Sterrett, Andre, and Lamboley.

Abstract: 49 USC 10505 requires that the Commission exempt from regulation the movement by rail of traffic for which it finds continued regulation no longer necessary to serve the Nation's transportation policy objectives and to protect shippers from abuse of market power by the railroads. In examining the transportation characteristics and markets of various commodities moving by rail, there appear to be many products for which sufficient competition exists among transportation alternatives so that regulation may no longer be necessary. Exemption of such commodities should provide increased rate and service flexibility for railroads to meet shippers' needs and to compete more effectively for the subject traffic. Anticipated benefits include lower rates and improved service, at a possible "cost" of increased price instability and competition to alternative transport firms.

Abstract: In a decision published at 49 FR 18490 (May 1, 1984), the Commission adopted a major revision of its user fee regulations. On review the District of Columbia Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the Commission's user fee regulations in most respects. See Central & Southern Motor Freight Tariff Ass'n, Inc. v. ICC 777 F 2nd 722 (D.C. Cir 1985). However, the court did remand the proceeding for further explanation of certain costing issues. This decision will reopen the May 1, 1984 decision. CFR Citation: 49 CFR 1206; 49 CFR 1249

Abstract: This rule would eliminate the Uniform System of Accounts and revise the periodic reporting requirements for Class I motor common and contract carriers of passengers. The Commission believes these provisions are no longer necessary for Commission oversight of the ratemaking process. The Commission is proposing a new condensed report, applicable only to Class I motor carriers of passengers, to replace the current comprehensive annual and quarterly report forms. These changes should significantly reduce the carriers' accounting and reporting costs and burden.

Legal Authority: 49 USC 10321

Abstract: This rule would modify the accounting rules for recognizing the costs of dismantling, removing and retiring depreciable assets. The objective is to assure that all operating expenses associated with long term depreciable assets are recognized and written off during the useful lives of the assets. The proposal would require the separate maintenance of three components: (1) the usual write-off of the cost of the asset, (2) the write-off of the estimated cost of removing the asset from service, (3) the recognition of the estimated salvage value of the asset when removed from service.

AGENCY: National Credit Union Administration (NCUA).

ACTION: Semiannual agenda of regulations.

SUMMARY: Pursuant to its ongoing policy of reviewing regulations, NCUA is publishing a list of pending and recently completed actions as of January 16, 1986. NCUA will also include this Agenda in the "Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations."

DATE: This information is current as of January 16, 1986.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: On a particular regulation, contact the person(s) named in the listing for that regulation at the above address.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The purpose of this Agenda is to enable credit unions and the public to track regulatory development and review at NCUA and to enable interested parties to more effectively participate in that process. This year, NCUA has added Interpretive Rulings and Policy Statements to its Agenda.

The Agenda is published pursuant to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601, et seq.) and NCUA's statement of policy concerning development and review of regulations (IRPS 81-4, 46 FR 2948).

NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION

10 CFR Ch. I

Regulatory Agenda

AGENCY: Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

ACTION: Semiannual publication of NRC regulatory agenda.

SUMMARY: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) is publishing its semiannual Regulatory Agenda in accordance with Pub. L. 96-354, "the Regulatory Flexibility Act," and Executive Order 12291, "Federal Regulations." The Agenda is a compilation of all rules on which the NRC has recently completed action or has proposed, or is considering action. This issuance updates any action occurring on rules since publication of the last semiannual Agenda on October 29, 1985 (50 FR 44992).

ADDRESSES: Comments on any rule in the Agenda may be sent to the Secretary of the Commission, U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20555, Attention: Docketing and Service Branch. Comments may also be hand delivered to Room 1131, 1717 H Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. between 8:15 a.m. and 5:15 p.m. Comments received on rules for which the comment period has closed will be considered if it is practical to do so, but assurance of consideration cannot be given except as to comments received on or before the closure dates specified in the Agenda.

The Agenda and any comments received on any rule listed in the Agenda are available for public inspection, and copying at a cost of five cents per page, at the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's Public Document Room, 1717 H Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20555. Single copies of the NRC Quarterly Agenda can be purchased from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Post Office Box 37082, Washington, D.C. 20013-7082. Customers may call (202) 275-2060 or (202) 275-2171.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: For further information concerning NRC rulemaking procedures or the status of any rule listed in this Agenda, contact John D. Philipe, Chief, Rules and Procedures Branch, Division of Rules and Records, Office of Administration, U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Washington, D.C. 20555, Telephone (301) 492-7086. Persons outside the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area may call toll-free: (800) 368-5642. For further information on the substantive content of any rule listed in the Agenda, contact the individual listed under the heading "Agency Contact" for that rule.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Although publication of the Agenda is only required semiannually in April and October, the NRC has chosen to update and publish its Agenda each quarter. However, the information contained in this semiannual publication is updated to reflect any action which has occurred on rules since publication of the last NRC semiannual Agenda on October 29, 1985 (50 FR 44992).

Organization of the Agenda

The information in this Agenda has been updated through March 14, 1986. The date included under the heading "timetable," for next scheduled action indicates the date the rule is scheduled to be published in the Federal Register. The date is considered tentative and is not binding on the Commission or its staff. This Regulatory Agenda is intended to provide increased notice and opportunity for public participation in the NRC rulemaking process. The NRC may, however, consider or act on any rulemaking even if it is not included in the Regulatory Agenda.

Rulemakings Approved by the Executive Director for Operations (EDO)

The Executive Director for Operations (EDO) initiated a procedure for the review of the regulations being prepared by staff offices that report to him to ensure that staff resources were being allocated to achieve most effectively NRC's regulatory priorities. This procedure requires EDO approval before staff resources may be expended on the development of any new rulemaking. Furthermore, all existing rules must receive EDO approval prior to the commitment of additional resources.

Rules that have received EDO approval to date are identified by the symbol (+) at the beginning of the title. As additional rules receive EDO approval, they will be identified in subsequent editions of this Agenda. Those unpublished rules whose further development has been terminated will be noted in this edition of the Agenda and deleted from subsequent editions. Rules whose termination was directed subsequent to publication of a notice of proposed rulemaking will be removed from the Agenda after publication of a notice of withdrawal.

The NRC Agenda lists rulemaking actions. Of these, no rulemaking items are considered to be priority or major as defined in section 1(b) of Executive Order 12291.

Nine rules potentially will have a "significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities" as defined in the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

Dated at Bethesda, Maryland this 14th day of March 1986.

For the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

Donnie H. Grimsley,

Director, Division of Rules and Records, Office of Administration.

NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION (NRC) — Prerule Stage

3779. + DEFINITION OF HIGH-LEVEL RADIOACTIVE WASTE (HLW) IN 10 CFR PART 60

Legal Authority: 42 USC 10101

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 60

Abstract: This advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPRM) seeks to revise the definition of HLW in Part 60 to reflect certain changes in the legal definition of HLW contained in the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982. Because of the complex issues involved in revising the definition of HLW, which affects virtually the entire radioactive waste management system, the staff is proposing an ANPRM rather than a proposed rule. A revision of the definition of HLW would affect DOE's plans for a geologic repository, State plans for regional compacts to manage low-level waste, Federal vs. State responsibility for some above Class C wastes, costs of waste disposal for certain waste generators, and the development of new technologies and facilities to dispose of certain types of wastes. A definition of HLW which reduces uncertainty about responsibility for different types of wastes would benefit the radioactive waste management system. NRC staff time for processing this rule is estimated to be 4 staff years. Alternatives to rulemaking would be to take no action or request Congress to amend the NWPA. The rulemaking would eliminate uncertainty and reduce costs for the public, industry, and NRC.

NUCLEAR REGULATORY COMMISSION (NRC) — Proposed Rule Stage

3780. ● REVISION TO EX PARTE AND SEPARATION OF FUNCTIONS RULES APPLICABLE TO FORMAL ADJUDICATORY PROCEEDINGS

Legal Authority: 5 USC 554 (d); 5 USC 557(d)

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 0; 10 CFR 2

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's regulations dealing with ex parte communications and separation of adjudicatory and nonadjudicatory functions in formal adjudicatory proceedings to update the agency's rules of practice and to incorporate requirements imposed by the Government in the Sunshine Act. Changes are proposed in both the form and the substance of the existing rules to clarify their meaning and to aid agency adjudicatory officials to maintain effective communication with NRC staff personnel and persons outside the agency while at the same time ensuring that proceedings will be conducted fairly and impartially. This proposed rule would supersede a prior proposed rule entitled, "Ex Parte Communications and Separation of Adjudicatory and Non Adjudicatory Functions," (3150-AA00) published March 7, 1979 (44 FR 12428).

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 2231; 42 USC 2241; 42 USC 5841; 5 USC 552

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 0; 10 CFR 1; 10 CFR 2; 10 CFR 9; 10 CFR 50

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is proposing an amendment that would revise its procedural rules governing the conduct of all adjudicatory proceedings, with the exception of export licensing proceedings. The proposed rule would comprehensively restate current practice, retitle the hearing office, and revise and reorganize the Commission's procedural rules. The changes set out in this proposed rule are intended to enable the Commission to render decisions in a more timely fashion and reduce the burden and expense to the parties participating in the proceedings.

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 2; 10 CFR 50

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend thirty-three sections of two parts affecting the hearing process associated with the issuance of all NRC licenses. Streamlining the hearing process would ultimately provide cost savings to all participants in the process. However, intervenors may initially be required to provide more information than is now required at some added expense.

In the screening process, the most significant changes would (1) establish a screening Atomic Safety and Licensing Board (ASLB) to act as a clearinghouse for all requests for hearings, petitions for leave to intervene, and proposed contentions, (2) require a participant in a hearing to show that he or she has an interest to protect in the proceeding, and (3) require evidence of a factual dispute for a contention to be admitted.

During the conduct of hearings, the most significant changes would (1) not hear discovery requests requiring the staff to support positions other than its own, (2) permit the ASLB to decide the case on the basis of written material, (3) permit the ASLB to appoint a panel of technical experts if needed, (cont)

Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: (4) allow presiding officers to raise issues on their own motion (sua sponte) only in unusual cases, (5) allow summary disposition motions to be filed at any stage of the proceeding, (6) allow the Commission to designate a hearing examiner in lieu of a three-member ASLB, and (7) require the filing of cross examination plans.

During the decision-making process, the most significant changes would (1) remove the ASLB as an independent appeal board but place it organizationally directly under the Commission to review, as before, ASLB decisions, and give its recommendations to the Commission, (2) allow any generic issue resolved in an initial licensing proceeding to be codified, allowing a 45 day comment period (3) allow an intervenor to participate in discussing only those items he or she introduced, and (4) reinstate the immediate effectiveness of an ASLB decision on an operating license, construction permit, or work authorization. The proposals, submitted by the Commission's Regulatory Reform Task Force suggest ways to improve the reactor licensing process.

3783. RULES OF PRACTICE FOR DOMESTIC LICENSING PROCEEDINGS: ROLE OF NRC STAFF IN ADJUDICATORY LICENSING HEARINGS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 2231

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 2

Abstract: The role of the NRC staff in initial proceedings was among the issues discussed in an enclosure to a January 2, 1985, memorandum to the Chairman of the House Subcommittee on Energy and Water Development from Chairman Palladino. This discussion stated that the Commission has decided that the NRC's role in these proceedings should not be changed. Therefore, the action proposed by this advance notice of proposed rulemaking will be terminated.

The Commission is considering amending its Rules of Practice concerning what role the NRC staff should have in adjudicatory licensing hearings to most effectively contribute to the protection of the public health and safety. This notice invites public comments and suggestions on four options and related questions, briefly described below. Option 1 would limit staff participation in contested initial licensing proceedings to only those controverted factual issues it disagrees with on a technical basis or rationale. Option 2 would require (cont)

Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: the NRC staff to supply the Commission and the Licensing Board with its view and analyses on every substantive issue raised in an initial licensing proceeding but would prohibit the staff's participation in any procedural matter. Option 3 would retain status quo, i.e., the NRC staff would participate as full party on all issues. Option 4 would expand public involvement in the prehearing stage of initial licensing proceedings, and this option could be used in conjunction with any of the first three options. The staff would subsequently address each substantive issue raised in the Safety Evaluation Report.

Alternatives to rulemaking could include a policy statement or no action, depending on the option chosen. The possible means of addressing this issue through rulemaking are discussed above. The effects of the rulemaking, including benefits and costs, will depend on the option chosen. NRC resources needed for this rulemaking are estimated at 500 staff hours.

3784. + LICENSING REQUIREMENTS FOR THE STORAGE OF SPENT FUEL AND HIGH- LEVEL RADIOACTIVE WASTE

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 2; 10 CFR 19; 10 CFR 20; 10 CFR 21; 10 CFR 51; 10 CFR 70; 10 CFR 72; 10 CFR 73; 10 CFR 75; 10 CFR 150

Abstract: The proposed rule will revise existing regulations to cover specific licensing requirements for the storage of spent nuclear fuel and high-level radioactive waste in a monitored retrievable storage installation (MRS). This revision, required by the Nuclear Waste Policy Act, is intended to ensure that the Commission has in place the appropriate regulations to fulfill the requirements contained in the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982 concerning the licensing of facilities which could be part of the MRS program.

Paragraph (d) of Section 141 of the NWPA provides that any monitored retrievable storage installation pursuant to Section 141 shall be subject to licensing by the Commission. The Commission could await further development of the MRS option before proposing its MRS rules. However, this approach could result in unnecessary delay in reviewing a license application if congress authorizes construction of an MRS. The Department of Energy (DOE) is required to complete a detailed study of the need for and feasibility of a MRS installation. Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

Abstract: The proposed amendment would conform the NRC's regulations pertaining to the availability of official records to existing case law and agency practice. The purpose of the amendment is to reaffirm that the terms of 10 CFR 2.790 (c) provide submitters of information a qualified right to have their information returned upon request. This amendment informs the public of three exceptions to the right to withdraw pursuant to 10 CFR 2.790 (c) of the NRC's regulations, i.e., information submitted in a rulemaking proceeding that subsequently forms the basis for the final rule, information which has been made available to an advisory committee or was received at an advisory committee meeting, and information that is subject to a pending Freedom of Information Act request.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 2; 10 CFR 70; 10 CFR 73

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the physical protection requirements for special nuclear material of moderate strategic significance (Category II) at fixed sites. Since the publication of Category II safeguards regulations in 1979, there have been several terrorist acts which involved coordinated actions against separate targets, showing an ability and willingness by at least some adversary groups to plan their attacks in advance and to closely coordinate and execute simultaneous acts by geographically separated parties. While there is no available evidence of such acts being directed against US nuclear facilities, multiple thefts of Category II material could result in the accumulation of a quantity of material of high strategic significance.

The proposed amendments would increase physical protection requirements for those Category II licensees who possess SSNM, including those licensees who possess a formula quantity but implement only Category II requirements because their fuel is irradiated to at least 100 rem/hr at three feet. The amendments also limit the use of the 100 rem/hr exemption to a (cont)

In addition, minor conforming amendments are also being proposed for Parts 2 and 70. The alternatives considered were requiring improvements for only one or two of the three major functions of the security system and continuing with status quo.

The benefit of the proposed rule is that it is designed to make the measures used to protect Category II quantities of high enriched uranium, plutonium, and uranium-233 more resistant to attempted theft of material by external adversaries as well as by a single internal adversary. The proposed requirements will result in an estimated cost of $6,700 to $11,600 to each affected licensee initially and $1,600 to $2,900 annually thereafter. About 0.8 staff years will be expended in completing the proposed rule.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 2231; 42 USC 2241; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 2

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) is proposing amendments to its rules of practice which address the following aspects of the hearing process: admission of contentions, discovery against NRC staff, use of cross examination plans, timing of motions for summary disposition and limitations on matters and issues that may be included in proposed findings of fact or conclusions of law or in an appellate brief submitted by a person who does not have the burden of proof or who has only a limited interest in the proceeding. These proposals were initially developed by the Regulatory Reform Task Force and published for public comment. The NRC is also proposing related amendments on the process of intervention that were developed by Commissioner Asselstine.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 4; 10 CFR 11; 10 CFR 21; 10 CFR 25; 10 CFR 30; 10 CFR 31; 10 CFR 32; 10 CFR 34; 10 CFR 35; 10 CFR 40; 10 CFR 50; 10 CFR 60; 10 CFR 61; 10 CFR 70; 10 CFR 71; ...

Abstract: This proposed rule would establish a specific retention period for certain NRC-required records. It would also provide a uniform standard acceptable to the NRC for the condition of a record throughout a specified retention period. Further, the rule would establish throughout NRC regulations, with some exceptions, uniform retention periods of three years, five years, ten years, and the life of a license. This rule would bring NRC regulations into compliance with the Office of Management and Budget's (OMB) regulation (5 CFR 1320.6) that requires a specified retention period for each required record. It also implements NRC's 1982 commitment to OMB to establish a record retention period of determinable length for each required record.

Amending twenty one parts of NRC regulations to specify clearly what records to retain, how long to retain them, and the condition of a record useful for NRC inspection, will be mutually beneficial to applicants and licensees and to the NRC.

Recordkeeping labor for NRC's approximately 6,700 licensees who would be affected by the rule can be divided into four functions: (1) preparing the report, (2) storing the report, (3)

The principal savings to the licensee, dispersed over the period licensed, would be in physical storage space and associated storage equipment and materials. The burden of recordkeeping would be reduced approximately 10 percent annually for these licensees by the proposed rule. An estimated 466,323 hours associated with recordkeeping or $28,000,000 annually would be saved. Preparing and publishing this rule would cost NRC approximately 500 hours of staff time at $60 per hour for an estimated total of $30,000.

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 20

Abstract: Radiation protection philosophy and technology have changed markedly since the present Part 20 was promulgated nearly thirty years ago. Since Part 20 contains the NRC standards for protection against radiation which are used by all licensees and affects exposures of workers and members of the public, it should be the most basic of the NRC regulations. However, because the present Part 20 has become outdated, most radiation protection actions occur through licensing actions independent of Part 20. A complete revision is necessary to provide better assurance of protection against radiation; establish a clear health protection basis for the limits; reflect current information on health risk, dosimetry, and radiation protection practices and experience; provide NRC with a health protection base from which it may consider other regulatory actions taken to protect public health; be consistent with recommendations of world authorities (ICRP); and apply to all licensees in a consistent manner.

Alternatives to the complete revision considered were no action delay for further guidance; and partial revision of the standards. They were rejected as ignoring scientific (cont)

Benefits would include updating the regulations to reflect contemporary scientific knowledge and radiation protection philosophy; implementing regulations which reflect the ICRP risk-based rationale; reducing lifetime doses to individuals receiving highest exposures; implementing provisions for summation of doses from internal and external exposures; providing clearly identified dose limits for the public; providing understandable health-risk base for protection; and placing constraints on collective dose evaluations at levels where risks are trifles.

Initial estimates of the cost of implementing the revision is about $23 million the initial year and about $7 million in subsequent years. This cost does not include any savings which might also be realized by the revision.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 20

Abstract: The proposed rule would establish residual radioactive contamination limits (including induced and other volumetric radioactivity as well as removable and fixed surface contamination) which must be met before structures and lands can be released on an unrestricted, unregulated basis. Structures and lands with residual radioactive contamination below these limits would be eligible for unrestricted release without regulatory restrictions from a radioactivity standpoint.

The proposed amendments are necessary to provide licensees with quantitative criteria to use during decommissioning relative to cleanup of structures and lands intended to ensure that structures and lands used in NRC licensed facilities and activities will be decontaminated in a manner that adequately protects public health before being released on an unrestricted, unregulated basis.

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 21; 10 CFR 50

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend Part 21 and sec. 50.55(e) both of which require the reporting of safety defects by licensees. This effort was prompted by TMI Action Plan Task II.J.4 and has as its main objectives: (1) elimination of duplicate reporting among all requirements, (2) consistent reporting among all reporting requirements, (3) establishment of uniform and clear definitions for defects which need to be reported, (4) establishment of uniform time limits within which a defect must be reported and evaluated and, (5) establishment of uniform content for reporting of defects.

Approximately 450 to 500 reports are issued annually under Part 21 and sec. 50.55 (e) respectively. The reports identify plant-specific safety concerns and potential generic safety concerns for further NRC followup. These reports form the basis for numerous NRC bulletins and information notices.

This proposed rulemaking will reduce the potential for duplicate reporting and evaluation that now exists and will establish a more coherent regulatory framework that is expected to reduce industry and NRC burden in this area without(cont)

Current costs of reporting under Part 21 and section 50.55 (e) are estimated at $12,400,000 annually for industry and $2,900, 000 annually for NRC evaluations . It is anticipated that industry reporting burden with the proposed rulemaking will be reduced by 36,800 hours or $2,208,000 while NRC burden should be increased by $100,000. Additional burden to industry and NRC, while minimal, is anticipated in the areas of adherence to time schedules, and enforcement, recordkeeping respectively.

The proposed rule is intended to further protect the public from accidental exposure to radiation. The affected licensees are those whose possession limits indicate the potential for an accident that could deliver a radiation dose offsite exceeding one rem effective dose equivalent or 5 rems to the thyroid or could cause a soluble uranium inhalation of 2 milligrams (a chemical toxicity hazard).

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 30; 10 CFR 32; 10 CFR 40; 10 CFR 70

Abstract: The NRC regulations clearly provide for pre-marketing approval of certain sealed sources of radioactive material and devices which incorporate those sources. Examples are: smoke detectors used under an exemption from regulations, gauges used under a general license, and certain medical devices used under specific license. The regulations are less clear with respect to pre-marketing approval of other products, e.g., industrial radiographic devices and in-plant gauging devices which are used under specific license. The proposed rule would clarify and formalize the procedures for manufacturers and distributors of sealed sources and devices to obtain pre-marketing approval of these other products. Consistent with present practice, the rule would require the applicant for approval to submit specified radiation safety information about the product for NRC's consideration. Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 30; 10 CFR 40; 10 CFR 61; 10 CFR 70; 10 CFR 72

Abstract: The advance notice of proposed rulemaking (ANPRM) seeks comments on the advisability of having NRC require a mechanism to assure financial capability on the part of certain NRC materials licensees (e.g., fuel fabricators and users of sealed radiation sources) to undertake prompt cleanup of accidental releases or contamination, both on and off site. Estimates for cleanup costs in the recent past have ranged up to $2 million for a single event. To date, cleanup has been conducted by the State or Federal government, but frequently public monies are used only after lengthy delays.

Use of an alternative, i.e., the 1980 Comprehensive Environmental Response, Compensation and Liability Act (CERCLA), is effectively blocked by EPA policy. CERCLA provides funds for cleanup if the owner or operator is unable to do so and if the release is not covered by "Price-Anderson" provisions, which address liability and do not provide funds for cleanup per se. EPA maintains that NRC has full authority to require cleanup of accidental releases by licensees; thus, CERCLA public funds should not be used for this purpose. (cont)

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 30; 10 CFR 40; 10 CFR 50; 10 CFR 61; 10 CFR 70; 10 CFR 72

Abstract: The proposed rule would require licensees to notify the appropriate regional office of the NRC within a certain time period in the event of a bankruptcy proceeding involving the licensee. There is no action required of a licensee by these amendments unless and until a bankruptcy petition is filed. Notification of the NRC in cases of bankruptcy would alert the Commission so that it may deal with potential hazards to the public health and safety posed by a licensee that does not have the resources to properly handle licensed radioactive material or clean up possible contamination. Cases have occurred in which materials licensees have filed for bankruptcy and NRC has not generally been aware of this.

The net overall impact on industry of this rule should be negligible since this rule only consists of one additional notification beyond that already required by the United States Code and that is simply a notification of NRC by mail. The net effect on NRC should be a reduction in staff resources since it would put NRC in a better reactive mode for proceeding with(cont)

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2111; 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 2232; 42 USC 2233

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 34

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the present regulations to establish performance standards for industrial radiography exposure devices. Overexposures of radiographers (and occasionally the general public) are more than double that of other radiation workers and have been a concern to the NRC for some time. Approximately 25-35% of the radiography overexposures are associated with equipment malfunction. The issue of safety requirements for these devices is a primary concern since the devices use relatively high intensity, high energy gamma-ray emitting sources with the potential for serious overexposures. Although a consensus standard for radiographic exposure devices was published in 1981, (American National Standard N432) it is not clear that all manufacturers are adopting the standard. The alternatives considered were to take no action at this time, adopt the consensus standard in the regulations, endorsing the consensus standard by a regulatory guide, and endorsing the consensus standard by reference in the regulations along with such other performance standards deemed necessary (cont)

Costs of incorporating the proposed standards are estimated to be of the order of $250,000 per year or approximately $230.00 per year per licensee. Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841; 42 USC 7901 Note

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 40

Abstract: The advance notice of proposed rulemaking seeks comment on NRC's tentative approach to making further amendments to its uranium mill tailings regulations. The contemplated rulemaking proceeding is intended to incorporate groundwater provisions and other requirements established by the Environmental Protection Agency for similar hazardous wastes into NRC regulations. This action is necessary to make NRC regulations consistent with EPA standards as required by the Uranium Mill Tailings Radiation Control Act. Alternatives to this action involve timing and scope.

Comments on th ANPRM will help define the nature and scope of the action. EPA has estimated that compliance with their groundwater standards and with the stability, radon release, and other requirements recently promulgated will cost the industry from about $310 million to $540 million for all tailings generated by the year 2000. The range depends on the eventual cost of groundwater protection for future tailings. The EPA regulations are binding on NRC licensees in the interim. Estimates of NRC resources are still being developed.

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend regulations concerning acceptance criteria for emergency core cooling systems (ECCS) by changing the methods used to demonstrate that an ECCS would protect the nuclear reactor core during a loss-of-coolant accident. This action is proposed because research has shown that calculations performed under current requirements result in estimates of cooling system performance are significantly worse than estimates based on the improved knowledge gained from this research and because the operation of some nuclear reactors is being unnecessarily restricted. This results in increased cost of electricity generation. The proposed rule would allow use of the best information currently available to demonstrate that the ECCS would protect the reactor core during a loss-of-coolant accident. The proposed rule would apply to all applicants for and holders of construction permits for light water reactors.

Because the proposed rule represents a significant change in a regulatory requirement, the staff is currently preparing a summary of ECCS research performed over the last 10 years which will serve as the technical basis for the proposed rule (cont)

Abstract: This rulemaking is intended to review and revise the Commission's siting regulations to reflect experience gained since the Commission's current reactor siting regulations were published on April 12, 1962 (27 FR 3509). Many developments in this period including work to establish a Commission safety goal and the ongoing review of reactor accident source terms, have brought into question both the existing regulations and their technical support. This rulemaking will resolve those questions.

In the present circumstances a lack of applications for new plants argue that these changes are not needed. However, the new information that is being developed and the lead time between the decision to site and the time when a reactor begins producing power commercially make it prudent for the Commission to address these changes in a timely manner.

The alternatives to rulemaking in this case are restricted to no action. If action is taken based on the new and more reliable data now becoming available, the regulations themselves must be changed. Intermediate remedies such as policy statements and regulatory guides would not have adequate authority to (cont)

An advance notice of rulemaking was published seeking public comment on various approaches to this rulemaking. A proposed rule will be structured to achieve resolution of these comments and reflect information from the reactor accident source term review and the trial implementation period for the Safety Goal. These revised regulations will make the siting and review of power plants more predictable through application of clearer requirements.

There is no indication that the criteria would increase costs or have a significant adverse affect on safety. On the contrary, clear requirements will allow for more informed and more efficient siting decisions. This rulemaking would require additional NRC resources of approximately two staff years and minimal contract support. This rulemaking is presently on hold pending completion of the reactor accident source term review. A schedule for resumption of this activity is to be developed upon completion of the accident source term review.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2133; 42 USC 2134; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50, Appendix J

Abstract: The proposed rule would update and revise the 1973 criteria for preoperational and periodic pressure testing for leakage of primary containment boundaries of water-cooled power reactors Problems have developed in application and interpretation of the existing rule. These result from changes in testing technology, test criteria, and a relevant national standard that needs to be recognized. It is proposed to revise the rule as noted to make it current and improve its usefulness.

The revision is urgently needed to resolve continuing conflicts between licensees and NRC inspectors over interpretations, current regulatory practice which is no longer being reflected accurately by the existing rule, and endorsement in the existing regulation of an obsolete national standard that was replaced in 1981.

The benefits anticipated include elimination of inconsistencies and obsolete requirements, and the addition of greater usefulness and a higher confidence in the leak-tight integrity of containment system boundaries under post-loss of coolant accident conditions. 3805. RADON 222 ESTIMATE FOR TABLE S-3

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50; 10 CFR 51

Abstract: In a Federal Register notice published on April 14, 1979, the Commission deleted the radon-222 value from Table S-3 because it was recognized to be underestimated. Pending rulemaking action to provide a new estimate for radon-222 in Table S-3, the environmental effects of radon are subject to litigation in individual nuclear power plant licensing proceedings. The purpose of the proposed rule would be to deal with this question generically for all nuclear power plants, thus saving the time and cost of repetitive consideration of the effects of radon-222 in individual power plant licensing proceedings.

The only alternative to generic treatment of the environmental impact of radon-222 is to continue to allow these environmental impacts to be brought into litigation in individual licensing cases. By the proposed rulemaking action, new estimates for the environmental releases of radon-222 will be added to Table S-3 and the narrative explanation of Table S-3 will be modified accordingly. By memorandum from the Secretary dated August 23, 1985, the Commission directed the staff to combine this rulemaking with the final rule to add the narrative explanation

However, the rulemaking to add a new radon-222 estimate could not proceed until EPA's new radon standards were established and NRC's uranium milling regulations were modified to conform to the new standards. On October 7, 1984, EPA promulgated new radon standards for inactive uranium mill sites and in October 1985, NRC published revised uranium milling regulations conforming to the new EPA standards. However, the matter is not yet completely settled, because EPA received in August 1985, a court order requiring them to establish radon standards for active uranium mills. Considering this further delay in making final estimates of total radon releases from uranium milling, the staff is preparing a Commission paper recommending that this rulemaking be dropped.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2133; 42 USC 2134; 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Abstract: NRC is proposing to amend its regulations to require light water nuclear power plants to be capable of withstanding a total loss of alternating current (AC) electrical power, called Station Blackout, to the essential and nonessential switchgear buses for a specified duration. A proposed regulatory guide, to be issued at the same time as the proposed rule, would provide guidance on how to determine the duration.

The proposed requirements were developed in response to information generated by the Commission's study of Unresolved Safety Issue A-44, Station Blackout. The proposed rule is intended to provide further assurance that a loss of both off-site and emergency on-site electric AC power systems will not adversely affect the public health and safety.

A regulatory analysis has been prepared for the proposed rule. The estimated public risk reduction is 80,000 person-rem over 25 years, and the estimated total cost for industry to comply with the proposed rule is $40 million. This results in an overall cost benefit ratio of about 2,000 person-rem per million dollars.

3807. DELETION OF THE UNUSUAL EVENT EMERGENCY CLASSIFICATION

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Abstract: The proposed rule would delete the "Unusual Events" emergency class from the Commission's emergency classification scheme. The current emergency classifications are: (1) notification of unusual events, (2) alert, (3) site area emergency and (4) general emergency. This emergency classification scheme has been used by the NRC, FEMA, licensees and State and local governments for at least four years. During this time, the Commission has noted that the reporting of unusual events not only significantly strains the NRC resources, but tends to establish a "cry wolf" syndrome with State and local governments. The NRC emergency operations center receives approximately 20 notifications of unusual events per week. The purposes of the unusual events offsite notifications are to (1) assure that the first step in any response later found to be necessary has been carried out, (2) bring the operating staff to a state of readiness, and (3) provide systematic handling of unusual events information and decision-making. All of these purposes are redundant to the purposes and required licensee actions associated with the "alert" classification. (cont)

Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: One alternative to the proposed rule would be to not remove the unusual events classification. Another alternative simply would be to delete the unusual event from NUREG-0654. These alternatives would not satisfactorily accomplish the staff's objectives. The staff believes that the deletion of the "unusual events" classification would not impair or decrease the state of preparedness at nuclear power plants. The proposed change would require the NRC to approve revised emergency plans. However, the staff believes that the deletion of "unusual events" will represent a substantial savings to the industry both in dollars and in human resources, approximately one-half staff year per plant. The NRC resources expended through 1985 in order to develop this rulemaking will be approximately two staff-years, or $120,000 per year.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 5841; 42 USC 5842; 42 USC 5846

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission proposes to clarify its regulations on the use of the terms "important to safety" and "safety related" by adding two new definitions to 10 CFR Part 50 and by discussing how these definitions will be applied in NRC licensing reviews. Significant issues concerning the meaning of these terms as they are used in this part have arisen in Commission licensing proceedings. This proposed rule would define these terms and clarify the nature and extent of their effect on quality assurance requirements, thereby resolving these issues. The rulemaking should not impact licensees or the public because it clarifies existing requirements. The additional burden on NRC to prepare and implement this rule will be very nominal because current practices will not be changed.

3809. BROAD SCOPE MODIFICATION OF GENERAL DESIGN CRITERION 4 REQUIREMENTS FOR PROTECTION AGAINST DYNAMIC EFFECTS OF POSTULATED PIPE RUPTURES

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Abstract: The proposed broad scope modification of General Design Criterion 4 (GDC 4) would allow demonstration of piping integrity by analyses to serve as a basis for excluding consideration of dynamic effects associated with pipe ruptures. A proposed rule published July 1, 1985 (50 FR 27008) was limited to the primary loops of pressurized water reactors (PWRs), whereas this proposed rule would cover all high energy piping in all light water reactors (LWRs). The modification will permit the general but selective removal of pipe whip restraints and jet impingement shields from operating plants, plants under construction and future plant designs, but will not impact other design requirements.

The only alternatives to rulemaking would be the granting of partial exemptions to GDC 4 or reinterpretation of the text of the existing rule. The staff has, however expressed that extensive use of exemptions to authorize the elimination of pipe whip restraints is inappropriate. Therefore, it appears most appropriate to undertake rulemaking at this time.

3810. PART 51; CONFORMING AMENDMENTS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 10101

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 51; 10 CFR 60

Abstract: The proposed rule would provide procedures for performing an environmental review of High Level Waste geologic repositories. Part 51 contains no provisions for the environmental review of a license application for a HLW repository. The Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982 established requirements for environmental reviews which are at variance with the environmental review which NRC perform in licensing other types of nuclear facilities. This issue must be addressed in order to avoid delay in the U.S. HLW Program. The proposed rule would benefit the public, industry, and NRC by clarifying licensing procedures, thus avoiding case determinations and possible litigation during HLW geologic repository licensing. Minor revisions to Part 60 will be necessary to conform to the environmental requirements of the NWPA. Alternatives are to take no action, issue an ANPRM, or ask Congress for additional legislation.

Abstract: The Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982 directs NRC to promulgate criteria for the licensing of HLW geologic repositories. By section 121 (c), these criteria must not be inconsistent with standards to be developed by EPA for the disposal of HLW in deep geologic repositories. This proposed rule is needed in order to eliminate several inconsistencies with the EPA standards, thus fulfilling the statutory requirement. The EPA Standard is scheduled to be promulgated in August, 1985. The alternative is to ask Congress to amend the NWPA. CFR Citation: 10 CFR 71

Abstract: The proposed rule would define two classes of LSA materials with specified shipping or packaging requirements. The two classes represent a consolidation of five classes of LSA materials and surface contaminated objects (SCO) now in the 1985 regulations of the International Atomic Energy Agency (IAEA). In addition, the proposed rule provides special consideration for the inherent safety associated with the shipment of solid, nonflammable objects which are not dispersible in water. A new requirement of the amended rule would impose a dose rate limit on LSA materials. This requirement, which is philosophically consistent with the proposed IAEA regulations, is considered necessary to keep current and future LSA shipments within the envelope of safety originally conceived for such materials. This proposed rule would be responsive to PRM-71-1, PRM-71-2 and PRM-71-4. A new regulatory analysis is currently being developed by the staff which evaluated the financial impacts of having to close heavily traveled roads as a result of a large spill of LSA material.

Abstract: The advance notice of proposed rulemaking was published to solicit public comment on the need for a reassessment of the Commission's criteria for the siting of nuclear power plants. The Commission determined that this action was necessary as a result of experience gained with application of current criteria and the rapid advancement in the state of the art of earth sciences. The NRC staff was particularly interested in finding out about problems that have arisen in the application of existing siting criteria. The public was invited to state the nature of the problems encountered and describe them in detail. The public was also asked to submit proposed corrective actions. Abstract: The proposed rule, which is in partial response to a petition filed by Edison Electric Institute and Utility Nuclear Waste Management Group (PRM-20-15) would amend NRC regulations to specify the criteria and limits to allow on-site incineration of waste oil. Currently, the only approved disposal method for low-level radioactively contaminated waste oil from nuclear power plants involves absorption or solidification, transportation to, and burial at a licensed disposal site. There is an urgent need for alternative disposal methods which are most cost-effective from a radiological health and safety standpoint and, at the same time, conserve limited disposal capacity at low-level waste burial sites. 3818. PROCEDURES INVOLVING THE EQUAL ACCESS TO JUSTICE ACT: IMPLEMENTATION

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 1; 10 CFR 2

Abstract: The proposed rule provides new provisions intended to implement the Equal Access to Justice Act (EAJA). The provisions would provide for the payment of fees and expenses to certain eligible individuals and businesses that prevail in adjudications with the agency when the agency's position is determined not to have been substantially justified. The basis for these proposed regulations is a set of model rules issued by the Administrative Conference of the United States (ACUS) that have been modified to conform to NRC's established rules of practice. The proposed rule would further the EAJA's intent by insuring the development of government-wide "uniform" agency regulations and by providing NRC procedures and requirements for the filing and disposition of EAJA applications. A final draft rule was sent to the Commission in June 1982, but Commission action has been suspended pending a decision by the Comptroller General on the availability of funds to pay awards to intervenor parties. The decision from the Comptroller General has been rendered and is currently the subject of litigation.(cont)

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the Commission's rules of practice regarding the separation of functions and ex-parte communications in on-the-record adjudications. The proposed rule would allow the Commission greater flexibility in communicating with its staff by relaxing the restrictions on Commission-staff communications in initial licensing cases. The proposal would permit Commissioners to consult with staff members who were not personally involved in the proceeding and who did not consult privately with interested persons outside the agency. The proposed rule is intended to provide the Commission with better access to the expertise of its staff. It would conform the Commission's rules to those of the Administrative Procedures Act. It would also supersede a prior proposed rule entitled "Ex Parte Communications and Separation of Adjudicatory and Non-Adjudicatory Functions" published in the Federal Register on March 7, 1979 (44 FR 12428).

Abstract: The proposed rule would focus on six major issues associated with alternative site selection for nuclear power plants: (1) information requirements, (2) timing, (3) region of interest, (4) selection of candidate sites, (5) comparison of the proposed sites with alternative sites, and (6) reopening of the alternative site decision. The proposal is intended to stabilize alternative site review of a license application by codification of the lessons learned in past and recent review of nuclear power plant sites into an environmentally sensitive rule. The proposed rule would develop understandable written NRC review and decision making criteria to permit a rational and timely decision concerning the sufficiency of the alternative site analysis.

There would be no significant impact on costs other than savings that would result from greater certainty regarding the Commissions requirements. NRC resources necessary to complete this rulemaking are minimal. Approximately two-man months of staff time will be required to finalize this rule if the Commission decides to complete the rulemaking.

After considering the comments on the proposed rule, the Commission published a final rule on May 28, 1981 (46 FR 28630). That final rule addressed the sixth issue, reopening the construction permit or early site review stages insofar as it relates to operating license proceedings. The proposed rule is being withdrawn from the agenda.

3821. POSSIBLE AMENDMENTS TO "IMMEDIATE EFFECTIVENESS" RULES

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 2; 10 CFR 50

Abstract: The proposed rule indicates that the Commission is considering five alternative amendments to the "immediate effectiveness" rule for construction permit proceedings. Under the original "immediate effectiveness" rule (36 FR 828, January 19, 1971) construction of a nuclear power plant could begin on the basis of an initial decision by the Atomic Safety and Licensing Board (ASLB) even though that decision was subject to further review by the Commission. The Commission is concerned that the rule often prevented it from reviewing a case until construction was well underway and that this might have (1) allowed commitment of large sums of money to altering sites before a final decision was made on site-related issues and (2) promoted piecemeal review rather than promoting early resolution of all licensing issues to be considered. Present rules provide for limited review of ASLB decisions by the Atomic Safety and Licensing Appeal Board (ASLAB) and the Commission prior to issuance of construction permits.

This proposed rule would help to determine whether NRC should return to the former "immediate effectiveness" rule or adopt one of the following alternatives:(1) require the ASLAB (cont)

The public comment period on the "Regulatory Reform Proposal Concerning the Rules of Practice and Rules for Licensing of Production and Utilization Facilities" (49 FR 14698) closed June 11, 1984. 3822. MODIFICATIONS TO THE NRC HEARING PROCESS (LIMITED INTERROGATORIES AND FACTUAL BASIS FOR CONTENTIONS)

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2239

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 2

Abstract: The proposed rule would expedite conduct of NRC adjudicatory proceedings by requiring intervenors in formal NRC hearings to set forth the facts on which contentions are based and the sources or documents used to establish those facts and limit the number of interrogatories that a party may file in an NRC proceeding. The proposed rule would expedite the hearing process by, among other things, requiring intervenors to set forth at the outset the facts upon which their contention is based and the supporting documentation to give other parties early notice of intervenor's case so as to afford opportunity for early dismissal of contentions where there is no factual dispute. Expediting the hearing process should ultimately provide cost savings to all participants in the process. The content of this rule is being considered as part of the regulatory reform rulemaking package.

3823. COMMISSION REVIEW PROCEDURES FOR POWER REACTOR CONSTRUCTION PERMITS; IMMEDIATE EFFECTIVENESS RULE

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 2

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend the immediate effectiveness rule with regard to rules of practice for granting a power reactor construction permit to conform to those for granting an operating license. It (1) would retain the requirement that the Commission conduct a limited review of an Atomic Safety and Licensing Board's decision to grant a construction permit pending completion of administrative appeals and (2) would delete the requirement that an Atomic Safety and Licensing Appeal Board conduct a similar review. The proposed rule would not affect the separate Appeal Board and Commission appellate reviews of the merits of Licensing Board decisions. It would reduce somewhat the time required for administrative review of construction permit decisions while retaining direct Commission oversight prior to permit issuance.

The comment period closed November 24, 1982. Nine comments were received. Half of the comments favored the proposed rule while half opposed it. This proposed rule does not preclude further action on five alternatives for amending the "Immediate effectiveness" rule presented in an earlier notice on (cont)

Abstract: The proposed rule would implement the provisions of the Age Discrimination Act of 1975, as amended. The proposed amendment makes it unlawful for any recipient of Federal financial assistance to discriminate on the basis of age in programs or activities receiving Federal financial assistance from the NRC. The Act also contains certain exceptions that permit, under limited circumstances, continued use of age distinctions or factors other than age that may have a disproportionate effect on the basis of age. The Act applies to persons of all ages. CFR Citation: 10 CFR 20

Abstract: The notice of proposed rulemaking seeks comment on a proposal to add amendments to 10 CFR Part 20 that would improve the accuracy and consistency of reported occupational radiation dose measurement by requiring proficiency tests of dosimetry processors who perform dosimetry for NRC licensees. The proposed amendments would require NRC licensees to have personnel dosimeters (devices carried or worn by each radiation worker to measure radiation exposure received during work) processed by a dosimetry service that is accredited by NBS/NVLAP. The Commission considered five alternatives for establishing a regulatory program intended to improve personnel dosimetry processing. These alternatives included: no change in current requirements; requiring licensees to participate in performance testing without specifying a testing laboratory; requiring licensees to participate in performance testing conducted by an NRC-specified testing laboratory; a request from Congress for the authority for NRC to license personnel dosimetry processors directly; and requiring licensees to obtain dosimetry services from an NRC-operated or contracted dosimetry service. Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT:

An evaluation of estimated annual costs to the dosimetry processing industry resulting from an NRC rule requiring licensees to utilize dosimetry processors accredited under an NBS/NVLAP program was projected to be about $717,000. This would result in an estimated net annual increase in the cost of providing monitoring for each worker per year of $0.51, a 2.1% annual increase. The major benefit of the proposed rule would be increased accuracy and reliability of dose measurement to workers in licensed installations. Other benefits include continued assurance of personnel dosimeter processor competence with minimal NRC staff and resource allocation; formulation of a program that can easily be utilized by other agencies; value to the industrial licensee through legal credibility of a nationally-recognized accreditation program; and value to the worker through more accurate assignment of dose. The staff is currently analyzing the comments received on the NPRM.

Abstract: The final rule revises current regulatory requirements regarding the frequency of formal publication of changes to the Access Authorization Fees charged by NRC. Currently, section 25.17 states that revised fees will be published in the Federal Register during July of each year. A more accurate and efficient regulatory requirement would be to revise the access authorization fee schedule concurrent with the Office of Personnel Management's (OPM) notification to NRC of its background investigation rate changes since NRC's fees are wholly dependent on the rate charged by OPM.

Abstract: The proposed rule would exempt from licensing and regulatory requirements technetium-99 and low-enriched uranium as residual contamination in any smelted alloy. The proposed rule would remove the Commission's present specific licensing requirement that has the effect of inhibiting trade in and recycling of metal scrap contaminated with small amounts of these radioactive materials. This requirement also prevents recycling by the secondary metals industry of smelted alloys containing these two radioactive materials. The NRC issued the proposed rule in response to a Department of Energy request. A draft environmental statement for this action has been prepared.

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 30; 10 CFR 40; 10 CFR 50; 10 CFR 51; 10 CFR 70; 10 CFR 72

Abstract: The advance notice of proposed rulemaking sought comment on a proposal to develop a more explicit policy for decommissioning nuclear facilities. The proposal would provide more specific guidance on decommissioning criteria for production and utilization facility licensees and byproduct, source, and special nuclear material licenses. This action is intended to protect public health and safety and to provide the applicant or licensee with appropriate regulatory guidance for implementing and accomplishing nuclear facility decommissioning. Although it is planned to provide additional guidance through regulatory guides, it is necessary to amend the regulations in order to achieve appropriate assurances that funds for decommissioning will be available.

The major cost impact of the proposed rule would involve proper planning at all stages of nuclear facility operation. Proper planning includes providing for (1) financial assurance that funding will be available for decommissioning, (2) maintenance of records that could affect decommissioning, and (3) careful(cont)

Abstract: The proposed rule would require that the in-house inspection description in a radiography license application specify a method for inspecting each radiographer and radiographer's assistant's knowledge of applicable regulations, license conditions, and performance of established procedures at intervals not exceeding three months. This action is intended to further ensure that radiographic operations are conducted safely.

The cost of performing the inspection is estimated to be $120.00 per worker or $432,960 per year for the entire industry. There is no impact on the NRC staff. The proposed rule would also require a licensee to perform and record a radiation survey of a radiographic exposure device made when storing the device after use instead of recording the results of the radiation survey made after the last exposure. This action, which is taken in response to a petition for rulemaking (PRM-34-3) is intended to provide an acceptable propedure for assuring that the sealed source has been properly stored within the device.

Requiring an additional radiation survey at the time of storage provides additional assurance that accidental exposures will not occur to members of the public as well as workers.

The cost of this survey requirement to the entire industry is estimated to be $541,200 annually ($150.00 per radiographer). There are no additional recordkeeping costs. Impact on NRC staff is negligible since inspectors will review the time-of-storage survey record rather than the last use survey record. NRC staff time for processing this rule to final publication is estimated to be 0.4 staff years.

Twenty comments were received on the proposed rule, most of which were opposed to the three month inspection of radiographers with a roughly 50-50 split on the storage survey issue.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2111; 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 2232; 42 USC 2233

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 35

Abstract: The proposed rule would revise Part 35 to modify the process for licensing and regulating the medical use of radioactive byproduct material. Requirements that apply to medical licensees are scattered in the regulations, license conditions, the individual licensee's application, and licensing branch policy statements. The purpose of the proposed rule is to consolidate and codify the requirements in the regulation. This rule will result in a clearer understanding of NRC requirements for all medical licensees. This revision is necessary in order to provide a clear consolidated statement of requirement. The only way to impose requirements on all licensees is by license condition or regulation; therefore no alternative action was considered. Because most of the requirements contained in this regulation are currently imposed by regulation or license condition, there will be no significant cost savings or additional burden; the industry and NRC will benefit by having a clear, concise, complete regulation. The Commission approved publication of the proposed revision, but has some comments that need to be resolved before the proposed rule can be published for public comment. (cont)

3835. + LICENSES AND RADIATION SAFETY REQUIREMENTS FOR WELL-LOGGING OPERATIONS

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 39

Abstract: The proposed rule would establish specific radiation safety requirements applicable to licensees who perform operations such as well-logging, mineral-logging, and subsurface use of radioactive materials in tracer studies. The proposed rule is necessary because current NRC regulations address these operations in a general way without providing the specific guidance necessary to ensure that these operations are performed safely. As an alternative to the status quo, the proposed rule would adopt the requirements similar to those in the suggested State Regulations for Control of Radiation Part W as new NRC regulations. The potential costs for industry to implement these requirements would be about $1,300,000/yr. However, because most of the requirement is already imposed by license conditions, the net increase in cost would be about $350,000 per year for the industry or about $2000 per licensee. The rule would establish a consistent, comprehensive set of the requirements that would minimize the effort required to obtain reciprocity for NRC licensees to operate in Agreement States or vice versa. The rule would require about one staff-year effort.

Abstract: The rule amendments have been revised in response to public comments. The proposal to have licensees check and verify NRC generated inventory reports has been abandoned on the basis of licensee comments that such a system would be more burdensome to licensees and more susceptible to error. The revisions eliminate statements of material balance by licensees of source material unless the licensee possesses source material of foreign origin or reports under the US/IAEA Safeguards Agreement. The revised rules continue to eliminate the requirement for SNM licensees other than reactor licensees and those reporting under the agreement to submit composition of inventory reports (Form 742c). The reduction in burden for licensees is expected to total 1480 hours per year.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2236; 42 USC 2237

Abstract: At a Commission meeting, October 17, 1984, the Commission directed the staff to draft a policy statement on programs for training and qualification in lieu of publishing this proposed "Fitness for Duty" rule and other proposed training and qualification amendments. On December 10, 1984, the NRC decided to separate the policy statement on fitness for duty from the policy statement on training and qualifications. Therefore, this proposed rule is being withdrawn. The policy is being established to allow power reactor applicants and licensees to develop and implement their own fitness-for-duty programs during a 2-year period. Nothing in the policy statement limits NRC's authority or responsibility to follow up on operational events or its enforcement authority when regulatory requirements are not met.

A proposed policy statement was submitted to the Commission on January 1, 1985, as SECY 85-21. Abstract: When the Commission approved the set of final physical protection requirements for fuel cycle facilities possessing formula quantities (five formula kilograms or more) of strategic special nuclear material (SSNM), they exempted nonpower reactors from these requirements and, instead specified a set of interim requirements. At that time the staff was directed to develop a set of permanent physical protection requirements for this class of nonpower reactors.

This rulemaking is needed: (1) to replace current interim regulations and establish permanent physical security requirements for nonpower reactor licensees who possess a nonexempt formula quantity of SSNM, (2) to provide protection against insiders, and (3) to arrange for a response by local law enforcement or other agencies in time to prevent a theft of a formula quantity.

The staff is using a performance-oriented regulatory approach which would give affected licensees flexibility in designing cost-effective measures for implementing the requirements of the

3839. + MANDATORY PROPERTY INSURANCE FOR DECONTAMINATION OF NUCLEAR FACILITIES

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Abstract: The proposed rule would require an increase in the amount of on-site property damage insurance from the current minimum of $585 million to $1.02 billion. The NRC believes that such insurance should be required so that the financing and pace of cleanup following an accident does not become a public health and safety problem. Recent studies indicate that as much $1.00 billion may be required to cover on-site cleanup of the worst reactor accidents if inflation and other factors are included. Other issues addressed in the proposed rule are whether the Federal government can preempt State law that prohibits certain public utilities from buying insurance offered by mutual companies or requiring payment of a retrospective premium and whether a priority of payment of insurance proceeds for decontamination and cleanup can be imposed. Action in these areas is required for the same reason as imposition of general insurance requirements, i.e. to remove the financial aspects of recovery after an accident from having an adverse impact on public health and safety.

Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: requiring insurance above that currently required but rather allowing the necessity for additional insurance to be determined by economic regulators at the State level.

The impact of the proposed rule on licensees would probably not be large. Most licensees currently purchase insurance in excess of $1.02 billion. Approximately 10 licensees would be required to carry more insurance than they otherwise would for an annual incremental premium cost of roughly $1 million per year. Thus the total impact of the rule would be approximately $10 million per year. The impact on the public would generally be positive in that public health and safety would be better protected. The impact on the NRC would be minimal with respect to increasing the amount of insurance. A decontamination priority, if it were invoked, could require additional hearings with attendant costs. One-half of a staff-year is required by OSP to continue the rulemaking, with minimal impact on other offices expected.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; PL 97-415

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 2; 10 CFR 50

Abstract: The NRC is publishing a single final rule that combines the two interim final rules implementing, in part, PL 97-415. Modifications to the final rule are based on further staff review and evaluation of public comments received on the two rules. The rules were published on April 6, 1983 (48 FR 14868). They specify criteria for notice and public comment on, procedures for State consultation on, and standards for making determinations about whether amendments to operating licenses for certain facilities involve no significant hazards considerations. In addition, the rules specify procedures for consultation on these determinations with the State in which the facility of the licensee requesting the amendment is located. The rules permit the Commission to act expeditiously if circumstances surrounding a request for an amendment require prompt response and to issue an amendment before holding any required hearing, unless a significant hazards consideration is involved.

NRC has been receiving about 1,000 amendment requests per year. Since promulgation of the two interim final rules, about 98 percent of these have been deemed to involve no significant

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission was proposing to amend its regulations to (1) require each holder of and each applicant for a license to operate a commercial nuclear power plant to establish and use a systems approach in developing training programs and establishing qualifications requirements for civilian nuclear power plant operators, supervisors, technicians, and, as appropriate, operating personnel; (2) clarify the regulations for the issuance of licenses to operators and senior operators; (3) revise the requirements and scope of written examinations and operating tests for operators and senior operators; (4) codify procedures for the administration of requalification examinations; and (5) describe the form and content for operator license applications.

The proposed rulemaking was in response to Section 306 of the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982. A regulatory analysis showed a public risk reduction of 268,000 person-rem at a cost of $240.4 million dollars resulting in a value/impact ratio of 1,100 person-rem/$million. Additional Information: ABSTRACT CONT: April 9, 1984. Industry requested that the NRC issue a policy statement rather than a rule. Consequently, at an October 17, 1984, Commission meeting, the Commission directed the staff to publish the portion of the proposed rule revising 10 CFR Part 55 "Operators' Licenses," and to draft a Policy Statement on programs for training and qualification of nuclear power plant personnel. The proposed revision was published for comment on November 26, 1984, and the effective Policy Statement was published March 20,1985.

The Policy Statement replaces the portion of this proposed rule that would have added requirements to 10 CFR Part 50 on training and qualification of plant personnel. The training programs are to be developed and implemented by industry during a two-year period. The policy statement provides guidance regarding NRC's support of the industry-managed training accreditation program and states NRC's continuing responsibility to independently evaluate applicants' and licensees' implementation of training programs.

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50; 10 CFR 73

Abstract: The proposed rule would establish a personnel screening program for individuals requiring unescorted reactor facility access, thus providing increased assurance of the trustworthiness and emotional stability of a reactor site population. Study has indicated that disoriented or disgruntled employees (especially ones who might also be psychotic) at nuclear reactors are of primary safeguards concern because of their inside position. While the Commission has stated that at present it is satisfied with the level of safeguards in place at reactors, it approved publication of the proposed rule for public comment (49 FR 30728) as one means of further assuring protection of public health and safety. The public comment period concluded March 7, 1985. Extensive comments were received and analyzed.

Alternatives to rulemaking that were investigated, included endorsing an ANSI standard through a regulatory guide, issuing a policy statement that endorses industry developed guidelines, using staff position papers, and implementing license conditions. These alternatives were rejected because some would not produce and industry standardized program while other lacked (cont)

The proposed regulation will protect against the "insider" threat at reactors through the use of three components: (1) a background investigation to determine past history, (2) a psychological assessment to determine current emotional stability, and (3) a continual behavioral observation program to detect behavioral changes in an individual once granted unescorted access.

Primary benefit to the public and licensees is an increased assurance of the trustworthiness and emotional suitability of individuals working in a nuclear reactor environment. Benefits to the NRC result from the use of a codified program that assures that a uniform approach, meeting minimum requirements, will be applied in screening reactor personnel.

The net increase in cost per applicant and licensee in implementing this requirement is estimated to be $91,800 initially and $280,500 per annum thereafter. The net increase in cost to the NRC due to estimated time in reviewing proposed

3843. PROTECTION OF CONTRACTOR EMPLOYEES

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2236; 42 USC 2282; 42 USC 5851

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Abstract: The proposed rule would require 10 CFR Part 50 licensees, permittees, and applicants to ensure that procurement documents they issue or modify, specify that contractors and subcontractors post a notice to employees related to employee protection. The required notice would contain information notifying employees that an employer is prohibited from discriminating against an employee engaging in protected activities and that an employee may seek a remedy for prohibited discrimination by filing a complaint with the Department of Labor.

The proposed amendment would affect licensees, permittees, applicants, and their contractors and subcontractors who are contractually responsible for construction of basic components or production and utilization facilities. Although there is no health and safety reason for addressing the issue, NRC is interested in protecting employees from discrimination. However, because Section 210 of the Energy Reorganization Act does not give the NRC direct authority over contractors and subcontractors and it clearly envisioned that the Department of Labor would be the principal agency in ensuring the rights of nuclear industry

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Abstract: This proposed rule would amend the regulations which establish the procedures for submitting correspondence, reports, applications, or other written communications pertaining to the domestic licensing of production and utilization facilities.

The proposed amendments are expected to resolve confusion regarding submittal procedures and improve the communication process with the affected applicants and licensees.

The proposed amendments would (1) simplify the procedures for making Part 50 submittals to the NRC; (2) facilitate the timely dissemination of Part 50 submittals to NRC staff; (3) reduce postage and copying costs for applicants and licensees by requiring fewer copies of submittals; (4) establish a central NRC receipt point for Part 50 submittals; (5) include the NRC Resident Inspectors in the formal communications; and (6) supersede all outdated submittal directions contained in other sources of submittal guidance, such as Regulatory Guide 10.1 (Revision 4) and NRR Generic Letter 82-14. Although these documents addressed the problem, they did not entirely resolve the confusion. Moreover, subsequent changes in the (cont)

The current regulations also cause unnecessary delays in the dissemination of information to NRC staff. For example, any document submitted to an NRC Regional Office will not usually be disseminated to NRC Headquarters staff until two weeks later.

These problems can be resolved only by amending 10 CFR Part 50, since the current regulations are the source of the problems. The proposed rule is expected to reduce postage and copying costs for licensees and applicants subject to 10 CFR Part 50. An annual savings of $140,000 is estimated. In addition, the NRC is expected to realize a small savings in postage costs. Preparing and publishing this rule would cost NRC approximately 320 hours of staff time at $60 per hour for a total of $19,200.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2133; 42 USC 2134; 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Abstract: The proposed rule would consider the need to take into account the complicating effects of earthquakes on emergency preparedness. Existing regulations require that nuclear power plants be designed to safely shut down for most earthquakes. The probability of earthquakes large enough to cause major onsite damage that would result in a significant radiological release from the plant is low; and for large earthquakes, offsite damage could make prior offsite emergency plans premised on normal conditions marginally useful.

One alternative to the proposed rule change would be to require that the emergency plans specifically address the impact of earthquakes. Another alternative would be to adjudicate the issue on a case by case basis.

The proposed amendment will not greatly affect the industry since licensees are required to have approve emergency response plans which are flexible enough to assure that appropriate protective measures can be taken to mitigate the consequences of a nuclear emergency. The public will not be affected as adequate emergency preparedness at nuclear reactors will be (cont)

3846. + LIMITED SCOPE MODIFICATION TO GDC 4 REQUIREMENTS FOR PROTECTION AGAINST POSTULATED PIPE RUPTURES

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5846

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Abstract: The proposed rule would permit licensees and applicants to use newly developed analytical methods involving widely accepted advanced fracture mechanics theories for determining that certain pipe ruptures need not be treated in the design basis for dynamic effects. Implementing of the rule would facilitate the removal of unnecessary pipe whip restraints and jet shields from existing nuclear power plants and plants under construction as well as future plant designs. This would reduce inservice inspection cost and, in addition, would reduce inspector radiation exposure.

The need and urgency for addressing the issue stems from the widespread acceptance of the analysis results and the research findings pertaining to pipe rupture coupled with increasing confidence in its applicability.

Prior to the last few years, there was no sound technical basis for excluding certain pipe ruptures from the design basis. Now it is clear that it is possible taken to defend the exclusion of PWR primary loop double ended guillotine pipe ruptures, and that the scope may be extended to other piping. A benefit derived from the rule would be avoidance of extensive exemptions to General Design

3847. EXPLANATION TO TABLE S-3 URANIUM FUEL CYCLE ENVIRONMENTAL DATA

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2011; 42 USC 4321

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 51

Abstract: The proposed rule provides a narrative explanation of the numerical values established in Table S-3, "Table of Uranium Fuel Cycle Environmental Data," that appears in the Commission's environmental protection regulations. The proposed rule describes the basis for the values contained in Table S-3, the significance of the uranium fuel cycle data in the table, and the conditions governing the use of the table. The narrative explanation also addresses important fuel cycle impacts and the cumulative impacts of the nuclear fuel cycle for the whole nuclear power industry so that it may be possible to consider these impacts generically rather than repeatedly in individual licensing proceedings, thus reducing litigation time and costs for both NRC and applicants.

The proposed rule was published for public review and comment (49 FR 15154, March 4, 1981), but the final rulemaking was deferred pending the outcome of a suit (Natural Resources Defense Council, et al. v NRC, NO. 74-1486) in the U.S. Court of Appeals. The U.S. Court of Appeals (D.C. Circuit) decision of April 27, 1982, invalidated the entire Table S-3 rule. The Supreme Court reversed this decision on June 6, 1983. (cont)

The proposed rule to provide a narrative explanation for Table S-3 was revised to reflect new developments and the passage of time while the rulemaking was deferred. However, final action on the Table S-3 rule was held in abeyance until new values for radon-222 and technetium-99 can be added to the table and covered in the narrative explanation. On October 7, 1984, EPA promulgated new radon standards for inactive uranium mill sites and in October 1985 NRC published revised uranium milling regulations conforming to the new EPA standards. However, EPA received, in August 1985, a court order requiring them to establish radon standards for active uranium mills. Considering this further delay in making final estimates of total radon releases from uranium milling and the fact that there are no open licensing cases involving issues which would be covered by the narrative explanation of Table S-3 of the new values for radon-222 and technetium-99, the staff is preparing a Commission Paper recommending this rulemaking be withdrawn.

Specifically, the proposed rule would clarify that NRC begins its review in this licensing process after DOE provides NRC a site characterization plan and that usual rules of practice apply to licensing of these repositories. It would also provide that the NRC may publish a notice of receipt of a site characterization plan and a notice inviting comments on its analysis of a plan.

The proposed rule would also change some of the procedures for the participation of States and Indian tribes in the licensing process. Without the proposed rule, there would be major incongruities between the Nuclear Waste Policy Act and 10 CFR Part 60. Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

Abstract: The proposed rulemaking would replace existing material control and accounting (MC&A) requirements for fuel cycle facilities that are authorized to possess and use formula quantities of strategic special nuclear material (SSNM).

It would establish a performance oriented regulation that emphasizes timely detection of formula quantity SSNM losses and provides for more conclusive resolution of discrepancies than is currently achievable. Experience with existing regulations has demonstrated weaknesses in the area of alarm resolution principally because of a lack of timely detection of anomalies and poor loss localization capabilities. The rulemaking would alleviate these liabilities by requiring tests on a more timely basis on small plant subdivisions.

An alternative to the rule would be to implement the concepts through license amendments for the four involved licensees; however, such an action would be inconsistent with the Administrative Procedures Act and the direction provided in NRC's Policy and Program Guidance document. Legal Authority: 42 USC 2101; 42 USC 5841

Abstract: The proposed rule would require in Nuclear Power Plants (1) access control to vital areas,(2) the protection of certain physical security equipment, (3) revised requirements for key and lock controls, and (4) revised authority to suspend safeguards measures during emergencies. (Years of operating revealed a need for clarification and refinement.) The requirements will clarify policy in these areas and reduce unnecessary burden on the industry while maintaining plant protection. This rule is a revision of the proposed rule entitled, "Access Controls to Nuclear Power Plant Vital Areas." Initial development of a final rule produced significant changes, particularly in the criteria for personnel access controls to vital areas, resulting in the need to publish a revised rule. This proposed rule and the other components of the insider rule package were reviewed by the NRC Safety/Safeguards Review Committee which considered a number of alternative approaches to vital areas and provided recommendations that are reflected in the proposed rule.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 73

Abstract: A proposed rule has been issued to moderate the present interim requirements for the protection of shipments of irradiated reactor fuel cooled for 150 days or more. Recent research shows that the quantity of radioactive material that would be released as a result of successful sabotage is much smaller than was supposed at the time that the interim rule was issued. The alternatives considered during the development of the proposal were: (1) let the current interim requirements continue in force; (2) moderate the current requirements; and (3) eliminate all interim requirements. The alternative of moderating the requirements was selected. The moderated requirements would provide for (1) shipments to be accompanied by an unarmed escort, who may be driver or carrier employee and may have other duties, (2) on-board communications, and (3) immobilization capability for trucked shipments. Present interim requirements will continue to be effective for shipments of irradiated fuel cooled less than 150 days. The benefit of the proposed rule would be the elimination of unnecessarily strict requirements which presently apply to spent fuel shipments.(cont)

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 73

Abstract: The proposed rule would revise the search requirements for individuals entering the protected area of nuclear power plants. Under the proposed requirements, all persons would be subject to equipment searches for firearms, explosives and incendiary devices. Physical searches would be required only when search equipment is not working properly or when the licensee suspects that an individual is attempting to carry into the plant prohibited devices or material. Random searches were considered as an alternative, but were dismissed as being possibly disruptive. Since licensees already possess the necessary equipment, this rule will affect only licensee procedures at negligible additional cost.

Since requirements for searches have been in effect for some time, and modifications to those requirements are needed, alternatives to this rulemaking such as revised guidance would be inappropriate in that they would not carry the force of a regulation.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5842

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 70; 10 CFR 72; 10 CFR 73; 10 CFR 74

Abstract: The proposed rule would amend reporting requirements of section 73.71 for reports of unaccounted for shipments, suspected thefts, unlawful diversion, and other safeguards events. (Conforming amendments are included for 10 CFR Parts 70, 72, and 74). The staff has found the present requirements confusing to licensees and therefore, difficult for licensees to properly implement. These difficulties have contributed to safeguards event reports that lack uniformity and contain insufficient data for analysis.

Safeguards event reporting requirements are necessary to permit timely response by the NRC to safeguards incidents and to identify possible generic deficiencies in safeguards systems. Until the requirements for reporting are clarified and simplified, the problems identified above will continue to exist. This is considered to be a matter of moderate urgency. An alternative to rulemaking is issuance of additional or revised guidance on the present requirement. However, such guidance would lack regulatory authority. Since the problems have arisen over the abstract nature of the present requirement, it appears the best solution is to correct the source of the problem by amending

The proposed amendments redefine, in clearer terms, the events to be reported and classify certain of these events into different reporting categories. The current 24 hour telephonic notification is deleted. All events would be either telephonically reported within one hour or logged in licensee records to be submitted to the NRC quarterly. Concurrent with the rule revision, a revised regulatory guide is being developed which provides a format for reporting to the NRC and gives examples of what types of events should be reported.

There is expected to be no cost impact to the public. Benefits to licensees will be clearer, simpler regulations, and a reduction in telephonic and written report making. While the proposed regulations will require more detailed, standardized written reports, the reduction in the number of telephone and written reports is expected to result in a net cost decrease to industry of $641,600 incurred on an annual basis.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 2210; 42 USC 5841; 42 USC 5842

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 140

Abstract: The proposed rule would revise the criteria the Commission currently follows in determining an extraordinary nuclear occurrence (ENO), in order to overcome the problems that were encountered following the Three Mile Island (TMI) accident when the present criteria were applied. The proposed criteria would focus on items that can be readily counted or estimated within a relatively short time following an accident (i.e., substantial release of radioactive material or radiation offsite and substantial exposure levels). The revised criteria will provide for speedy satisfaction of legitimate claims in the event of an ENO. Because ENO criteria are administrative criteria for use by the Commission, they do not impose any requirement upon a licensee.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841; 42 USC 2153

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 110

Abstract: The final rule would amend regulations pertaining to the export of nuclear material by requiring certain holders of export licenses to notify the Commission in writing at least 40 days prior to reexporting Canadian-origin nuclear material or equipment, expanding the general license for byproduct material to allow the export of Americium-241 contained in industrial process control equipment, and to update the list of countries in the provisions setting out restricted destinations. The final rule is necessary to implement portions of the United States/ Canada Agreement for Cooperation, to correct an oversight in the current regulations, and to continue the policy of facilitating nuclear cooperation with countries sharing the non-proliferation goals of the United States.

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is amending its regulations to grant additional rulemaking authority to its Executive Director for Operations (EDO). The amendment affects internal agency procedure and practice and will not impact NRC applicants, licensees, or the public. The EDO may now issue rules under 10 CFR Parts 0, 2, and 110 that do not raise significant questions of policy, i.e., rules that do not involve a major change in existing Commission policy, present a major new issue, are corrective in nature, or will not result in a major commitment of resources. The new authority will also extend to issuing proposed and final rules under 10 CFR Parts 7, 8, and 9, Subpart C, that are corrective or of a nonpolicy nature. Prior to this amendment, the EDO did not have authority to issue rules affecting 10 CFR Parts 0,2,7, 8, 9, Subpart C, or 110.

3859. HYBRID HEARING PROCEDURES FOR EXPANSIONS OF ONSITE SPENT FUEL STORAGE CAPACITY AT CIVILIAN NUCLEAR POWER REACTORS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 2239

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 2; 10 CFR 72

Abstract: The final rule contains two options for implementing the hybrid hearing process in Section 134 of the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982. That section sets forth a hybrid hearing process for certain contested proceedings on applications for a license or a license amendment to expand the spent nuclear fuel storage capacity at the site of a civilian nuclear power reactor. Either version of the final rule would provide for an oral argument in the early stage of the hearing process and would designate only genuine and substantial issues for resolution in an adjudicatory hearing. Option 1 adds a new Subpart K to Part 2. Subpart K requires the use of hybrid procedures in all proceedings to which section 134 applies. It also changes the initial stages of the existing hearing process by allowing a person whose interest is affected to participate as a party and to obtain discovery without the need to plead contentions. Option 2 permits the use of hybrid procedures at the request of any party to the proceeding. It will be implemented by means of an alternative form of summary disposition under a new Sec. 2.749a.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 9

Abstract: The final rule adds Subpart D to 10 CFR Part 9 to prescribe procedures with respect to the production of documents or disclosure of information in response to subpoenas or demands of courts or other judicial or quasi-judicial authorities in state and Federal proceedings. The final rule clarifies the procedures to be followed by Commission employees in responding to demands for testimony, information, or documents and would ensure that the responsibility for determining the response to the demands is placed on the appropriate Commission official. The rule will allow the Office of General Counsel more control over Commission information and documents subpoenaed in litigation to which the NRC is not a party. There is no alternative to rulemaking for this issue. This rule will require those who seek to use current or former NRC

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201(i); 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 11

Abstract: The final rule amends the requirements for applications for initial access authorization and for their renewal by allowing utilization of information on file with the government on individuals who possess current active clearances based upon equivalent investigations. The final changes eliminate unnecessary duplication of administrative costs to licensees for individuals who possess comparable clearances and also eliminate certain NRC administrative costs. The objective of this rulemaking action is to provide an effective program for the Commission to grant special nuclear material access authorizations without imposing unnecessary administrative burdens on licensees. This can be achieved by effecting the foregoing changes to the existing rule, which will allow the Commission to grandfather certain cleared licensee employees into the program and to accept application forms and investigative data provided by other Federal agencies, thereby eliminating the $1560.00 investigation fee.

The proposed level of hazard was expected to conform to the level at which the Department of Transportation imposes motor vehicle routing requirements. The proposed amendments would have also clarified which of the general licenses in 10 CFR Part 71 require quality assurance programs.

3867. CERTIFICATION OF INDUSTRIAL RADIOGRAPHERS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 34

Abstract: The advance notice of proposed rulemaking would have required all individuals who use byproduct material in the conduct of industrial radiography to be certified by a third party. Radiography licensees account for over 60 percent of the reported overexposures greater than five rems to the whole body. NRC regulations permit industrial radiographers to perform radiography independently. The NRC grants radiography licensees the authority to train and designate individuals competent to act as radiographers. The advance notice of proposed rulemaking sought comment on a proposal that would enable NRC to verify the effectiveness of this training, thereby assuring that all radiographers possess adequate training and experience to operate radiographic equipment safely.

Following a series of public meetings, many comments were received. The thrust of the comments was that current training programs and examination procedures administered by licensees were adequate for determining the competence of individuals to be industrial radiographers. Legal Authority: 42 USC 2111; 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

Abstract: Each specific NRC medical licensee is currently required by license condition to measure radiopharmaceutical dosage before it is administered to a patient. This proposed rule is intended to ensure the consistent application of the requirement and to simplify licensing by replacing the individual license conditions with a single regulatory requirement that would apply to all current and future medical licensees. The proposed rule will require licensees to measure each dosage and make a record of each measurement. Because the requirement is currently imposed by license condition, there will not be cost savings or additional burden; however, the industry and NRC will benefit by having a clear, concise requirement in the regulation.

The proposed rule is being incorporated into a proposed revision of 10 CFR Part 35 (See RIN-3150-AA-73 Medical Use of Byproduct Material).

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 40

Abstract: The final rule revises the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's regulations governing the disposal of uranium mill tailings to conform them to regulations recently published by the Environmental Protection Agency that set standards for protecting the environment from these wastes. The final rule would remove inconsistencies between NRC and EPA requirements and incorporate in NRC regulations the stability, radon release, and other provisions of the EPA standard not related to groundwater. This action is necessary to comply with provisions of the Uranium Mill Tailings Radiation Control Act and the NRC Authorization Act for FY 1983; therefore no alternatives to this action need to be considered. EPA has estimated that compliance with their recently published regulations would cost the uranium milling industry from about $310 million to $540 million to dispose of all existing tailings and tailings to be generated by the year 2000. This includes the costs of the groundwater protection provisions which are to be addressed in future NRC rule changes. The EPA regulations are binding on NRC licensees in the interim.

Abstract: The Executive Director for Operation approved the termination of this rule on March 5, 1986. The proposed rule would have amended current regulations pertaining to technical specifications for nuclear power reactors. Specifically, the proposed rule would (1) establish a standard for deciding which items derived from the safety analysis report must be incorporated into technical specifications, (2) modify the definitions of categories of technical specifications to focus more directly on reactor operations, (3) define a new category of requirements that would be of lesser immediate significance to safety than technical specifications, and (4) establish appropriate conditions that must be met by licensees to make changes to the requirements in the new category without prior NRC approval.

3871. DESIGN AND OTHER CHANGES IN NUCLEAR POWER PLANT FACILITIES AFTER ISSUANCE OF CONSTRUCTION PERMIT

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Abstract: The Executive Director for Operations has decided to discontinue activity on this rulemaking and thus recommends that it be withdrawn. The basis for this recommendation is two-fold. First, the notice of withdrawal would inform the public that comments on the advance notice of proposed rulemaking have been considered in the NRC's decision not to proceed with this rulemaking. Second, it is the NRC's judgement that completed and proposed rulemakings since 1979, e.g., 10 CFR 50.34 (f) (CP/ML Rule), 10 CFR 50-34 (g) (Conformance with SRP), and 10 CFR 50.55 (f) (QA Commitments), plus cancellations and indefinite postponements of nuclear power plants (all construction permit holders are now operating license applicants), have rendered moot the need for further staff response to the Commission's request for identifying design and other changes that a construction permit holder may make after the NRC issues a construction permit.

The proposed rule would have prescribed improved approaches for reducing and better controlling the level of change in reactor design and construction.

Abstract: The final rule establishes requirements for long-term management of the Commission's review process for the imposition of new regulatory requirements on power reactors. More specifically, the objective of the rulemaking is to address "backfitting", a process which can include both plant specific changes and generic changes as applied to one or more classes of power reactors. This rulemaking would revise 10 CFR 50.54, 50.109, 2.204, and add a conforming amendment to Appendix O. The rule is intended to reduce costs of "backfitting" for licensees through better management of this review process.

3873. EXTENSION OF CRIMINAL PENALTIES

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Abstract: The proposed rule, in accordance with the provisions of the NRC Authorization Act for Fiscal Year 1980, would extend the application of the criminal penalties provision of the Atomic Energy Act (AEA) of 1954, as amended, to any individual director, officer, or employee of a firm constructing or supplying the components of a nuclear power plant who knowingly and willfully violates any NRC regulation, order, or license condition during construction of a nuclear power plant. Section 223(b) of the AEA essentially directs the Commission to establish a limit for potential unplanned off-site releases of radioactive material which would trigger consideration of possible criminal penalties. As directed in Section 223(b)(3), the proposed rule establishes in its definition of a "basic component," the limits for potential unplanned releases of radioactive material that could trigger application of criminal penalties.

This unpublished rule is being withdrawn because it has been incorporated into a new proposed rule on posting requirements for the protection of contractor employees and extension of criminal penalties.

3874. CODES AND STANDARDS FOR NUCLEAR POWER PLANTS (1983 EDITION, WINTER 1982 THROUGH SUMMER 1984 ADDENDA)

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Abstract: The final rule incorporates by reference the Winter 1982 Addenda, Summer 1983 Addenda, Winter 1983 Addenda, Summer 1984 Addenda, and the 1983 Edition of Section III, Division I, of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers Boiler and Pressure Vessel Code (ASME Code), and the Winter 1982 Addenda, Summer 1983 Addenda, and the 1983 Edition of Section XI, Division I, of the ASME Code. The ASME Code sets standards for the construction of light-water-reactor nuclear power plant components in Section III, Division 1, and specifies requirements for the inservice inspection of those components in Section XI, Division I. The proposed rule would update the existing reference to the ASME Code and would thereby permit the use of improved methods for the construction and inservice inspection of nuclear power plant components.

Incorporating by reference the latest edition and addenda of the ASME Code will save applicants/licensees and the NRC staff both time and effort by providing uniform detailed criteria against which the staff can review any single submission. Revisions to the ASME code are achieved through the (cont)

3875. GENERAL DESIGN CRITERION ON HUMAN FACTORS

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5846

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Abstract: The Executive Director for Operation approved the termination of this rule on March 5, 1986. The proposed rule would have established a new general design criterion on human factors considerations. The specific factors to be addressed would have included operability, surveillance, maintainability, and human engineering criteria.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2133; 42 USC 2134; 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Abstract: The proposed rule would have amended the Commissions's emergency planning regulations to reflect experience gained since 1980 and reorganize the emergency planning requirements for clarity. Research studies on reactor risk and practical emergency planning experience have led to a refined portrayal of reactor risks and consequences. The proposed rule would have required a graduated emergency response capability to reflect a more realistic program for dealing with radiological emergencies at nuclear power plants.

The unpublished rule is being withdrawn pending reevaluation of source term and risk information

(NUREG-1150) scheduled to be completed in June 1988. At that time, the staff will undertake a review of the impact of the risk information on regulations governing the licensing of nuclear power plants including emergency planning requirements.

Legal Authority: 42 USC 2133; 42 USC 2134; 42 USC 2201; 42 USC 5841

CFR Citation: 10 CFR 50

Abstract: The final rule requires that non-power reactors use only low-enriched uranium fuel (LEU), with certain exceptions. The final rule reduces the high-enriched uranium fuel (HEU) in the United States and thereby reduces the potential for theft or diversion. The majority of licensees affected by the final rule are universities operating research and training reactors. To date, four of the 25 affected universities have made the decision to curtail the operation of their research/training reactors.

Abstract: The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is amending its regulations to clarify standards that will be applied when it considers whether to grant exemptions from the regulatory requirements codified in 10 CFR Part 50. Staff experience and several recent adjudicatory proceedings have shown that clarifying these standards would improve understanding of situations warranting an exemption for the applicants, licensees, public, and the staff.

Regulatory Flexibility Agenda and Rules Scheduled for Review

AGENCY: Securities and Exchange Commission.

ACTION: Publication of regulatory flexibility agenda and rules scheduled for review.

SUMMARY: The Securities and Exchange Commission is today publishing an agenda of its open and anticipated rulemaking actions, pursuant to Chapter Six of the Administrative Procedure Act and Office of Management and Budget Bulletin 86-4. The agenda is a general announcement to the public intended to provide advance notice of rulemaking actions which may have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The Commission is also publishing a list of rule reviews anticipated to be completed during the next twelve months. The Commission invites questions and public comment on individual agenda entries.

DATE: Public Comments are due by June 30, 1986.

ADDRESSES: Persons wishing to submit written views should file three copies with John Wheeler, Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 5th Street, N.W., Room 6184, Stop 6-9, Washington, D.C. 20549. All submissions should refer to File No. S7-9-86, and will be available for public inspection at the Commission's Public Reference Room, Room 1024, at the same address.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Joseph A. Meiburger, Jr., Directorate of Economic and Policy Analysis, Securities and Exchange Commission, 450 5th Street, N.W., Room 7169, Stop 7-6, Washington, D.C. 20549 (202-272-7110). Additional names of persons to contact are identified with each entry.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Regulatory Flexibility Act ("RFA") (Pub. L. No. 96-354, 94 Stat. 1164 [September 19, 1980]) requires each federal agency during April and October of each year to publish in the Federal Register a regulatory flexibility agenda identifying rules which the agency expects to propose, adopt or review which are likely to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities (the "significant impact criterion").[1]

The RFA also requires the review of existing rules.[2] The Commission published in June 1981 a plan for the periodic review of all rules issued by the agency which may meet the significant impact criterion.[3] The plan provides for the review of all such rules in effect on January 1, 1981 within ten years of that date and for the review of such rules adopted thereafter within ten years of their adoption as final rules. The RFA further requires publication each year of a list of those rules which are to be reviewed during the succeeding twelve months.[4] Part II of the agenda contains four of these entries.

The Commission's continuing review of its rules, begun before the effective date of the statute (January 1, 1981), extends beyond the requirements of the RFA. Consequently, some rules listed in this part of the agenda may not be required to be reviewed. The Commission is identifying them here in order to inform the public of its intention to review them. Part III of the agenda identifies the 8 rulemaking actions and 8 rule reviews which have been completed since the last RFA release was approved by the Commission on August 28, 1985.[5] The agenda relies on the definitions of the term "small entity" for purposes of the RFA which were adopted by the Commission for the various categories of regulated entities.[6]

The statute specifically provides that the agenda does not preclude the Commission from considering or acting on any matter not included, nor is the Commission required to consider or act on any matter which is included.[7] Furthermore, the inclusion of a rule in the Commission's agenda reflects only the staff's preliminary judgment that the rule, if adopted or as it exists, may have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. This preliminary judgment may be changed upon further analysis.

With this issue, the Regulatory Information Service Center is making changes to the format of the Unified Agenda. The entries will now be categorized as "Prerule" on the basis of the characteristics of the next action. The "Prerule" category will now include rule reviews and rulemaking actions where the next action is identified as an Advance Notice of Proposed Rulemaking (or a concept release rather than a rule proposal). The "Proposed" category will contain entries where the next action is expected to be a rule proposal or amendments to an existing rule. The "Final" category will now include both open actions already proposed but not yet adopted as well as completed actions.

Below is an index of the Commission's entries to this April 1986 "Unified Agenda of Federal Regulations." The agenda contains new entries as well as items carried over from the October 1985 publication. New entries are marked with an asterisk. Copies of this preamble and a list of the entries (including next action dates and identifying a staff contact) are available from the Commission's Office of Public Affairs (Room 1015). The entries themselves are also available for inspection and copying in the Public Reference Room (Room 1024) (File S-7-9-86), as noted above.

The Commission invites public comment on the individual entries in its agenda of rulemaking actions and rules scheduled for review in 1986.

By the Commission.

March 14, 1986.

Shirley E. Hollis,

Assistant Secretary.

3880. PROPOSED TENDER OFFER RULE AMENDMENTS

Legal Authority: 15 USC 77g; 15 USC 77j; 15 USC 77s(a); 15 USC 78c(b); 15 USC 78n(d); 15 USC 78n(e); 15 USC 78w(a)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 240.14d-1 to 240.14d-101; 17 CFR 240.14e-1 to 240.14e-3

Abstract: On January 9, 1986, the Commission authorized the staff to draft a release seeking public comment on three concepts relating to the regulatory corporate takeovers: (1) whether substantial acquisitions of securities effects during the pendency of, or subsequent to the termination of, a tender offer for such securities present issues with respect to takeover practice and, if so, whether a regulatory response such as one described herein is appropriate; second, on the need to establish a shareholder approval requirement for the adoption of "poison pill" security plans; (3) whether to establish provisions in the proposed all holders rule or other tender offer rules by which issuers may "opt-out" of the requirements of such rules through the adoption of charter amendments by shareholders. The Commission will review comments made in response to this release with a view towards determining whether future rulemaking or legislative proposals are necessary and appropriate.

3881. SHORT SALES

Legal Authority: 15 USC 78a; 15 USC 78b; 15 USC 78c; 15 USC 78i(a)(6); 15 USC 78j(a); 15 USC 78j(b); 15 USC 78o(c); 15 USC 78w(a)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 240.10a-1

Abstract: Rule 10a-1 regulates short sales of certain securities. The rule provides generally that short sales of exchange-listed reported securities (i.e., securities as to which last sale information is reported in the consolidated system) may be effected only at a price above the price at which the immediately preceding sale was effected ("plus tick"), or at a price equal to the last sale price if the last preceding transaction at a different price was at a lower price ("zero-plus tick"), established by reference to the last sale price reported from any market in the consolidation system. The general purpose of Rule 10a-1 is to prevent manipulative sales of a security for the purpose of accelerating a decline in the price of such security.

Abstract: Rule 10a-2 regulates covering transactions for short sales. If on the due date of delivery of a security sold pursuant to an order marked "long" the broker or dealer has not received the security from the customer, he must cover the open position unless he knows or has been informed by the seller either (1) that the security sold has been forwarded to the account for which the sale was effected; or (2) that the seller owns the security sold, that it is then impracticable to deliver to such account the security owned and that he will deliver such security to such account as soon as is possible without undue inconvenience or expense.

Abstract: Rule 15c2-5 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 would make it a fraudulent, deceptive or manipulative act or practice as used in Section 15(c)(2) of the Act for any broker-dealer to offer, sell or attempt to induce the purchase of any security by any person if the broker-dealer arranges a loan for such person unless, before the transaction is entered into, the broker-dealer (1) delivers to such person a written statement setting forth the exact nature and extent of his obligations, the risks involved, and the commissions and other remuneration to be received by the broker-dealer and by other persons in a control relationship to broker-dealer, and (2) obtains from such person information concerning his financial situations and needs, reasonably determines that the entire transaction including the loan arrangement is suitable for such person, and retains in his files a written statement setting forth the basis upon which the broker-dealer made the determination.

The formation of savings and loans holding companies has increased during the past several years to the point where approximately 60 savings and loan holding companies file with the Commission. In addition, a number of other registrants own savings institutions. The Commission's regulations do not specifically address the filing requirements for savings and loans, which have certain practices peculiar to the industry. The amendments, if proposed, would focus on disclosure requirements to enhance the comparability among registrants.

Since 1982, a number of foreign countries have restructured significant portions of their debt owed to multinational consortiums of financial institutions. These restructurings can impact individual bank holding companies differently because of the relative exposures to these foreign countries. Legal Authority: 15 USC 77g; 15 USC 77j; 15 USC 77s(a)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR Not yet determined

Abstract: Currently, there are no disclosure requirements specially tailored for issuers of partnership interests. Thus, they currently must refer to requirements which have been designed for use by corporations. Special disclosure requirements have developed as a matter of administrative practice. These requirements differ depending upon the type of partnership interest involved. This project will involve development of uniform disclosure requirements for all varieties of partnership offerings, with a focus on those characteristics common to all or most limited partnerships, such as tax implications. It also will involve codification of informal practices and streamlining of registration to the extent appropriate. These efforts are expected to facilitate the preparation of registration statements concerning such interests and to improve the disclosure provided to investors.

Section 3(b) and 4(2) of the Securities Act provide for exemption from registration and Regulation D was promulgated thereunder. Regulation D requires the filing of a Form D 15 days after the first sale pursuant to the Regulation D exemption. Abstract: As part of its proxy review program, the Commission intends to review the rules governing proxy contests, which are contained in Regulation 14A, promulgated under Section 14(a) of the Exchange Act. Regulation 14A regulates the solicitation of proxies in regard to securities registered under Section 12 of the Exchange Act. In general, Regulation 14A specifies the information required to be disclosed to security holders to enable them to make informed decisions concerning authorization of proxies. This review focuses only on regulations concerning proxy contests. Rules 14a-3 through 14a-10 prescribe certain filing, dissemination and disclosure requirements with respect to all proxy solicitations, including proxy contests. Rule 14a-11 prescribes special requirements relating only to contested elections of directors. The number of proxy contests has risen in recent years and the rules relating to them have not been reexamined in some time. The Commission's goal in this review is to make sure that the rules pertaining to proxy contests still operate effectively in addressing this dynamic area, thus benefiting shareholders and issuers.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 78c(a)(12); 15 USC 78o; 15 USC 78w; 15 USC 77c(a)(12); 15 USC 77s(a)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 240.3a12-10; 17 CFR 230.180

Abstract: The proposed rule would specify certain conditions under which persons engaged in the sale of interests and participation issued in connection with certain tax-qualified retirement plans ("H.R.10" or "Keogh" plans) would not be required to register as broker-dealers under Section 15(a) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. In 1961, the Commission adopted Rule 180 under the Securities Act of 1933 exempting from the registration requirements of that Act interests and participations issued in connection with H.R. 10 plans. The proposed rule provides a parallel exemption from broker-dealer registration for sales of such interests and participations in H.R. 10 plans. As an alternative the staff could consider granting no-action or exemptive requests on a case-by-case basis. However, such procedure would be inefficient and needlessly expensive for both the public and the Commission staff. In addition, the Commission is proposing to amend Rule 180 to clarify that, under paragraph (a)(3)(ii) of that Rule, the employer only needs to obtain investment advice prior to the investment of plan assets. This proposal codifies a previous staff position.

Abstract: Rule 15c2-4 applies to best-efforts distributions of securities that are conducted on any basis where payment will not be made to the issuer until some further event or contingency occurs. It requires a broker-dealer participant either to promptly deposit investor's funds into a separate bank account, or to promptly transmit such funds to a bank escrow agent, until the contingency occurs. The purpose of the rule is to insulate offering proceeds from unlawful activities by, or the financial reverses of, the broker-dealer, pending the occurrence of the contingency. Amendments to the rule are being considered that would resolve ambiguities and would codify interpretive positions taken by the staff since the rule's adoption in 1982. An interpretive release is being considered as an alternative. Neither action would increase the costs of complying with the rule since either action would simply clarify, not change, the application of the rule. The benefits of either action would be eliminating confusion and ambiguity, more clearly defining a broker-dealer's

Abstract: Rule 17Ad-8 requires a registered clearing agency, at the request of an issuer, to provide the issuer with a "securities position listing." A securities position listing is a list of the clearing agency's participants on whose behalf the clearing agency holds the issuer's securities as well as participants' position as of a specified date. The Rule further provides that the clearing agency may charge a reasonable fee for providing the list.

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 239.14; 17 CFR 274.11a-1

Abstract: Form N-2 is the registration statement form under the Investment Company Act of 1940 and the Securities Act of 1933 for closed-end management investment companies other than small business investment companies and companies which issue periodic payment plan certificates or which are sponsors or depositors of companies issuing such certificates. Included within the registration statement are the companies' prospectuses used in offering their securities to the public. The Commission believes a simplified prospectus is necessary because current prospectuses have become too cumbersome for the average investor to understand and because current requirements result in the disclosure of much information that is not necessarily material to an investment decision. Simplification will, therefore, make disclosure easier for investors to understand and reduce the costs and burdens of of preparing and distributing prospectuses. Accordingly, the Commission is proposing a new form N-2A that most likely would be structured as a three-part form, one part of which would be a new simplified prospectus. Abstract: Absent an exception, every solicitation of a proxy, authorization or consent in respect of any security with respect to which a registered investment company is the issuer, is subject to rules adopted pursuant to the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and the Investment Company Act of 1940 concerning solicitations of proxies. Solicitations to which the rules apply may not commence unless each person solicited is furnished or has previously been furnished with a proxy statement containing specified information prepared in accordance with certain rules and the material has been filed with the Commission. The existing proxy rules were adopted in piecemeal fashion and have been the subject of frequent changes. This has led to certain duplicative and, in certain cases, complex requirements. To the extent that a proxy statement contains repetitive material or is overly complicated and difficult to read, it may not effectively perform its intended function of communicating meaningful information to security holders in order that they may make informed voting decisions. There does not currently exist a basis upon which to quantify the reduced costs and burdens of such action on those registrants affected. However, the contemplated revisions are still in the developmental stage and have not yet been formally proposed by the Commission. Thus, the extent of the revision actually proposed and the attendant reductions in costs and burdens are as yet largely unknown, but are anticipated to be significant.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 80a-16(c); 15 USC 80a-35; 15 USC 80a-6(c)

CFR Citation: Not yet determined

Abstract: On December 10, 1982, the Commission issued an advance concept release (Investment Company Act Release No. 12888, (47 FR 56509)) soliciting public comment on whether the Commission should propose rules or recommend legislation which would provide for an alternative form of mutual fund governance. Specifically, this release requests comment on whether mutual funds should be exempted from shareholder voting and/or director requirements under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (the "Act") and, if so, whether conditions could be fashioned which would adequately insure against loss of investor protection. Although such changes might be effected through rulemaking, the Commission has indicated that, in its preliminary judgment, changes of this magnitude should be effected through legislative rather than administrative action. Since the costs and benefits of providing for an alternative scheme of mutual fund governance cannot be estimated at the present time, the release solicits specific comment on the costs and benefits which would result from such changes. Extension of comment period until April 18, 1983 was announced in Investment Company Act Release No. 13012 (cont)

Legal Authority: 15 USC 80a-6(c); 15 USC 80a-37(a); Investment Company Act, Sec 6(c); Investment Company Act, Sec 38(a)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 270.3a-4

Abstract: In Investment Company Act Release No. 11361 (October 10, 1980) (45 FR 68479) the Commission proposed for public comment Rule 3a-4, which would deem investment management services providing their clients with individualized treatment not to be investment companies for purposes of the Act. The rule provides a "safe harbor" for any investment manager providing its clients with treatment based on the needs and goals of each client. Under such circumstances, regulation of investment management services under the Act appears unnecessary. The proposed rule was intended to clarify the Commission's position on the question of "mini-accounts" by providing a safe harbor for certain investment management services and thereby provide some certainty to the public. The Commission does not expect any final action taken on the proposal to significantly affect the cost of providing investment management services. The public comment letters on the proposal have been reviewed and alternatives for final action are being formulated.

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 270.11a-3; 17 CFR 270.11a-4

Abstract: The Commission is considering whether to propose a Rule 11a-3 and a Rule 11a-4 which would exempt certain persons from the requirements of Section 11(a) of the Investment Company Act. That section generally prohibits any registered open-end investment company and the principal underwriter of its shares from making an offer to a shareholder to exchange his security for another security on any basis other than the net asset values of the securities to be exchanged without approval of the Commission. Section 11(c) extends the prohibitions of Section 11(a) to offers of the securities of unit investment trusts. The Commission has issued numerous orders permitting open-end management companies and the principal underwriter(s) of their shares to make exchange offers on the basis of the relative net asset value of the securities being exchanged plus a sales load equal to the difference between the sales load which would otherwise be charged on the securities to be acquired and on the securities to be exchanged. The Commission has also issued orders permitting unit investment trusts and their sponsors to make offers of exchange based on the relative net asset (cont)

The proposed rules would codify such orders (Rule 11a-3 for management companies; Rule 11a-4 for unit investment trusts) thereby eliminating the cost for small companies of preparing applications seeking the orders. Any such conditions would be included in the rule in order to adequately protect investors against the abuses addressed by Section 11.

The Commission is also considering whether to propose Rule 2a35-1 under the Investment Company Act to allow investment companies to charge contingent deferred sales loads and to include such contingent deferred sales loads within the definition of a sales load under the Act. Legal Authority: 15 USC 80a-17(j); 15 USC 80a-37(a)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 270.17j-1

Abstract: Rule 17j-1 requires every access person of a registered investment company, or of an investment adviser of or principal underwriter for the investment company to report to the investment company certain of his securities transactions. The Commission is considering whether to propose an amendment to this rule which would reduce the reporting requirement for investment company directors who are interested persons with respect to the investment company by reason of their affiliation with a registered broker-dealer. Members of the industry have characterized these reporting requirements as unnecessarily burdensome in some instances. Any such rule amendment would have the effect of lessening the reporting requirements currently imposed by the rule. As a result, the staff believes that the costs, which should be insignificant, of complying with any amendment would be significantly less than the benefits it would provide. Legal Authority: 15 USC 80a-37; 15 USC 80a-24

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 270.24f-2

Abstract: Rule 24f-2 allows certain investment companies to register an indefinite number of their securities under the Securities Act of 1933. The rule was adopted by the Commission in 1977 in order to address the problem of oversales by investment companies. Although the rule is relied on by unit investment trusts, provisions of the rule regarding the payment of fees and the filing of notices may be unnecessarily burdensome for unit trusts under certain circumstances. The Commission is considering a rule which would

Legal Authority: 15 USC 80b-11(a)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 275.206(3)-3

Abstract: Section 206(3) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 makes it unlawful for any investment adviser, by use of the mail or any means or instrumentality of interstate commerce, directly or indirectly, knowingly to effect a securities transaction (a) with a client while acting as principal or (b) for a client while acting as broker for a person other than such client, without disclosing in writing to such client before the completion of the transaction the capacity on which he is acting and obtaining the consent of the client to the transaction. The Commission is considering whether to propose a rule that would provide a nonexclusive method for compliance with the provisions of Section 206(3) of the Investment Advisers Act of 1940 in connection with purchases of securities from an underwriting syndicate for an advisory client under specified conditions. The Commission has interpreted this section to require that advisers disclose disciplinary and legal proceedings in which they have been involved which are material to an evaluation of the adviser's integrity and ability. The Commission is considering proposing a rule under Section 206(4) of the Advisers Act, which would clarify the disclosure requirements of advisers who have been involved in disciplinary and legal proceedings. The Commission also is considering codifying in the rule its interpretation of the adviser's fiduciary duty under Section 206 to disclose serious financial conditions which might impair the ability of the adviser to meet its contractual commitments. Abstract: The staff is considering whether to recommend that the Commission propose rules calling for increased disclosure of off-balance sheet financing arrangements. During recent years off-balance sheet financing arrangements have increased in number and complexity, and disclosure of such arrangements may currently appear in various places throughout the financial statement footnotes. The identification and analysis of the aggregate impact of the various types of arrangements may therefore be difficult. The staff is considering various alternatives - including possible centralized footnote disclosure - to provide for improved disclosure of the effects of off-balance sheet financing arrangements. Abstract: The Staff is considering whether to recommend that the Commission propose amendments to Item 304 of Regulation S-K and related forms and schedules to remove the dependence of that item on the prior filing of a Form 8-K. Presently, certain registrants who had no Form 8-K filing requirement at the time a change in accountants occurred are not specifically required to provide Item 304 disclosure regarding disagreements with their former accountants. The amendments, if proposed, would provide for such disclosure in initial public offerings among other filings.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 77s(a)

CFR Citation: Not yet determined; 17 CFR 230; 17 CFR 240; 17 CFR 244; 17 CFR 260

Abstract: The Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (the "Exchange Act") imposes periodic reporting requirements on companies subject to Sections 13(a) and 15(d) of the Exchange Act. Because these reporting requirements may not be entirely appropriate for companies of all sizes, the Commission has reviewed the Exchange Act reporting system as it pertains to small businesses and has proposed that the total asset reporting threshold be raised from $3 million to $5 million, thereby relieving certain small issuers of the burden of complying with such registration and reporting requirements.

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 240.14d-10; 17 CFR 240.14e-1; 17 CFR 240.14d-7

Abstract: Proposed Rule 14d-10 under the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934 would make explicit that a bidder's tender offer must be open to all holders of the class of securities subject to the tender offer, and that all security holders must be paid the highest consideration paid to any other security holders. The Commission also proposed to amend Rule 14e-1 under the Act to provide that a tender offer must remain open for ten business days upon the announcement of increase or decrease in the percentage of securities being sought or consideration offered by the offeror. The Commission proposed to amend Rule 14d-7 under the Act in one of two ways. The first approach provides that,upon announcement of a decrease in the percentage being sought or consideration offered additional withdrawal rights attach for ten business days. The second approach provides that withdrawal rights extend throughout the offer and the extensions of withdrawal rights upon the commencement of a competing bid is eliminated.

Abstract: The Commission will review the existing rules and reporting forms intended to implement the provisions of Section 16 of the Securities Exchange Act. Section 16 seeks to deter misuse of inside information by imposing certain periodic and transactional reporting requirements on the officers, directors and principal beneficial shareholders of companies registered under that Act as well as certain limitations on equity transactions by those persons. Over the years the Commission has adopted a number of rules to clarify the applicability of Section 16's requirements to particular circumstances. The Commission will examine their current suitability in light of the purposes of the statute.

Abstract: The Trust Indenture Act and the rules promulgated thereunder are being examined comprehensively in order to update their requirements in light of current commercial and business practices. Legal Authority: 15 USC 78c(a)(12); 15 USC 78g; 15 USC 78k; 15 USC 78w

Abstract: Proposed Rule 3a12-9 would provide an exemption from Sections 7(c) and 11(d)(1) of the Exchange Act for public offerings of direct participation interests with installment payment features. This rule is being proposed, in part, as a response to a proposal made by the National Association of Securities Dealers and has the concurrence of the staff of the Federal Reserve Board. If adopted, the rule would enhance investor protection by encouraging registration of interests in direct participation programs that are sold on an installment basis and by requiring that these programs become subject to and remain in compliance with the reporting requirements of Section 12(g) of the Exchange Act until the total purchase price of the program security is discharged.

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 240.9b-1

Abstract: Currently, Rule 9b-1 provides that an options disclosure document containing information specified in paragraph (c) of the Rule must be filed with the Commission by an options market at least 60 days prior to the date definitive copies are furnished to customers. Paragraph (c) of the Rule specifies that the document must contain, among other things, a discussion of the mechanics of buying, writing and exercising the options; the risks of trading, and the uses of, the options; the market for the options; and the tax consequences of options trading. Proposed modifications to the Rule would eliminate the requirement that the document contain a discussion of the uses of options. This modification is being considered because a discussion of uses is no longer believed to be necessary for the protection of investors, and the projected cost savings by eliminating this discussion from the document is significant. The modification may benefit investors by making the document less lengthy and complex, and thereby focusing attention on the risk disclosure aspects of the document.

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 240.11A-1

Abstract: In connection with the partial removal of exchange off-board trading restrictions through Rule 19c-3, the Commission has proposed a revised rule, Rule 11A-1, to address order exposure concerns. Proposed Rule 11A-1 would require exchange and over-the-counter market makers in Rule 19c-3 securities, prior to executing an order as principal, to hold the order out for 30 seconds, thereby allowing other market makers to compete for that order. Alternatively, the proposed rule would permit the market maker to compete for orders by maintaining competitive quotations in the National Association of Securities Dealers' Computer Assisted Execution System or the Cincinnati Stock Exchange's National Securities Trading System, and routing orders to those systems. The proposed rule also contains a number of specific exceptions to order exposure requirements. The Commission will

Abstract: The Commission is considering publishing for public comment amendments to Rule 134, 436, and 482 under the Securities Act of 1933. The amendments would, if adopted, permit certain investment companies to use in their statutory and omitting prospectuses security ratings assigned by a nationally recognized statistical rating organization (NRSRO) without first obtaining the NRSRO'S consent to being named as an expert pursuant to Section 7 of the Securities Act. Without these amendments, eligible investment companies would need to continue to obtain the consent of the NRSRO. NRSRO's have refused to give this consent thereby making the use of ratings prohibitively expensive.

Legal Authority: 15 USC 77c(a)(2); 15 USC 77s(a)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 230.180

Abstract: Rule 180 provides an exemption from the registration requirements of the Securities Act for interests and participations issued in connection with certain qualified H.R. 10 plans. In order for interests in funding media issued to plans established by financially inexperienced employers to qualify for the rule's exemption, the rule, as adopted, requires those employers to obtain financial advice from an independent expert prior to adopting the H.R. 10 plan. Among other things, the Commission is considering proposing an amendment to Rule 180 that would codify a present "no-action" position regarding the situation where a financially unsophisticated employer has already established a plan for its employees without obtaining advice from an independent expert, and intends either to change the funding medium or add another funding medium to the choices already available to employees. The issuer of the funding medium in such a case would be in compliance with the rule if the issuer has reasonable grounds to believe and, after having made reasonable inquiry, does believe, that an independent financial expert reviewed the funding medium prior to the investment of the (cont)

The revised Item 5 would require a consolidation of all narrative information in the prospectus concerning significant expenses of the registrant and would add a tabular presentation setting forth the major types of expenses, the names of the payees, and the amount of the expense, expressed as a percentage of average net assets.

Abstract: On May 14, 1985, the Commission issued a release (Investment Company Act Release NO.14513 (50 FR 21282) soliciting public comment on proposed Form N-7, a form for registration of unit Investment Trusts and their securities under the Investment Act of 1940 and the Securities Act of 1933, and certain related rules and rule amendments. The Commission also published staff guidelines for the preparation of Form N-7. The proposed form would establish a two-part format for disclosure to prospective investors consisting of a simplified prospectus that can be use to satisfy the prospectus delivery requirements of the Securities Act of 1933 and a statement of additional information that would be available to prospective investors upon request and without charge. The Commission is proposing Form N-7 in order to (I) integrate the reporting and disclosure requirements of the Securities Act of 1933 and the investment trusts in one document; (II) codify in the form and guidelines the disclosure standards that have been developed for unit investment trusts; and (III) shorten and simplify the prospectus while making available on request more extensive information not of routine(cont)

Legal Authority: 15 USC 80a-6(c); 15 USC 80a-17(g); 15 USC 80a-37(a)

CFR Citation: 17 CFR 270.17g-1

Abstract: The Commission is considering whether to adopt an amendment to Rule 17g-1 under the Investment Company Act. The amendment was proposed for public comment in Investment Company Act Release No. 11193 (June 2, 1980) (45 FR 38407). Rule 17g-1 requires every registered investment company to provide and maintain a bond against larceny and embezzlement covering officers and employees of the company. In some circumstances, the officers and employees of a company's depositor, trustee, investment adviser or other manager and various affiliates of such persons, because they have access to the company's assets, function as officers and employees of the investment company. The proposed amendment to the rule would clarify the scope of the rule by explicitly requiring the bonding of such persons. The principal cost associated with this rule would be the cost of a bond. That cost would vary according to the persons required to be bonded by the rule. In this regard, before adopting any amendment to the rule, the Commission will carefully consider what persons should be bonded to protect investors adequately, weighing the benefits of the protection against the cost of a bond.

Title 3—

The President

Proclamation 5462 of April 18, 1986

National Garden Week, 1986

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

During spring, the season of renewal, millions of Americans turn joyfully to gardening.

America's gardens produce an abundance of fruits and vegetables to enliven our tables and a stunning variety of flowers and shrubs brighten our lives with their beauty.

Gardening is a wholesome avocation that encourages appreciation for nature and concern for the preservation and enhancement of our environment. It prompts a genuine respect for those who work in agriculture today. Gardening, above all, provides a special source of fulfillment when foresight, patience, and collaboration with soil and sunlight finally are repaid by lovely flowers and luscious harvests.

The Congress, by Senate Joint Resolution 136, has authorized and requested the President to issue a proclamation designating the week beginning April 13, 1986, as "National Garden Week."

NOW, THEREFORE, I, RONALD REAGAN, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim the week beginning April 13, 1986, as National Garden Week, and I call upon all Federal, State and local governments, private organizations, and all Americans to join in educational efforts, ceremonies, and other appropriate activities to show our appreciation for the efforts and contributions of gardeners.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this eighteenth day of April, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eighty-six, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and tenth.

Proclamation 5463 of April 19, 1986

Education Day, U.S.A., 1986

By the President of the United States of America

A Proclamation

From earliest colonial days, Americans have always known that education is the golden key that opens the door to achievement and progress. This Administration has placed renewed emphasis on excellence in education, and already the results are encouraging. By setting high standards we challenge the young to stretch their mental muscles and strive to achieve the best that is in them. Such an education succeeds because it makes learning an adventure.

Education is like a diamond with many facets: it includes the basic mastery of numbers and letters that give us access to the treasury of human knowledge, accumulated and refined through the ages; it includes technical and vocational training as well as instruction in science, higher mathematics, and humane letters. But no true education can leave out the moral and spiritual dimensions of human life and human striving. Only education that addresses this dimension can lead to that blend of compassion, humility, and understanding that is summed up in one word: wisdom.

"Happy the man," Scripture tells us, "who finds wisdom. . . . Her ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace. She is a tree of life to those who come to possess her."

The Congress has sought to call attention to these durable values by adopting resolutions that pay tribute to the example of Rabbi Menachem Mendel Schneerson, a man who has dedicated his life to the search for wisdom and to guiding others along its pathways. He exemplifies the rich tradition of the Seven Noahide Laws, which have been the lodestar of the Lubavitch movement from its inception.

In recognition of Rabbi Schneerson's noble achievements and in celebration of his 84th birthday, the Congress, by House Joint Resolution 582, has designated April 20 as "Education Day, U.S.A." and authorized and requested the President to issue an appropriate proclamation in observance of this event.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, RONALD REAGAN, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim Sunday, April 20, 1986, as Education Day, U.S.A., and I call upon the people of the United States, and in particular our teachers and other educational leaders, to observe that day with appropriate ceremonies and activities.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this nineteenth day of April, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and eighty-six, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and tenth.

OFFICE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

5 CFR Part 1001

Employee Responsibilities and Conduct; Safeguarding the Examination Process

AGENCY: Office of Personnel Management.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Office of Personnel Management (OPM) is amending its internal regulations at 5 CFR 1001.735–206(a) to require OPM employees to notify their supervisors when they intend, or someone close to them intends, to take an Armed Services entrance examination. These regulations will further safeguard the examination process by adding the Armed Service entrance examination to our current regulations.

EFFECTIVE DATE: May 22, 1986.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Stuart D. Rick, Attorney, Office of the General Counsel, Office of Personnel Management. (202) 632–7746.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: In our current internal regulations setting forth standards of conduct and ethics for OPM employees, there is a provision pertaining to the safeguarding of the examination process. Because some OPM employees take part in the construction of written tests, or have access to test material, or are involved in the examination rating process, all OPM employees are required to notify their supervisors when they intend to file for a competitive examination or an internal noncompetitive examination, or when they know that a close relative, a household member, or a roommate intends to take a competitive examination. In this manner, appropriate measures can be taken when necessary to ensure test security.

Certain OPM employees now have access to Department of Defense entrance examination material. An unfair advantage could occur if these employees were to take the examination, or if they were to pass along information about the examination to other persons. Therefore, these regulations will also require supervisory notification by employees planning to take an Armed Service entrance exam.

Implementation of OPM regulations is subject to 5 U.S.C. 1103(b) and 1105; specifically excluded from this process are regulations that apply solely to OPM or its employees. Likewise, the regulations of an agency that are solely internal in applicability are not subject to Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulation; or the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

[Docket No. 51185-6041]

Limit on Duty-Free Insular Watches in Calendar Year 1986

AGENCY: Import Administration, International Trade Administration, Department of Commerce; Office of Territorial and International Affairs, Department of the Interior.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This action establishes the total quantity of duty-free insular watches and watch movements for 1986 at 6,500,000 units and divides this amount among the three insular possessions of the United States and the Northern Mariana Islands. We have done this by amending § 303.14(e), which now permits a total of only 5,500,000 units distributed among the three insular possessions and the Northern Mariana Islands.

EFFECTIVE DATE: April 22, 1986.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Faye Robinson, (202) 377-1660.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: We published these revisions in proposed form on January 13, 1986 (51 FR 1386) and invited comments. Although we did not receive any comments, a relevant new circumstance arose during the comment period. We received an application for a new entrant allocation from a firm wishing to start production in the Virgin Islands. To provide for this development while reserving a portion for other potential new entrant applications this year, we have decided to raise the final quantity from the proposed amount of 4,000,000 to 4,500,000 units for the Virgin Islands and the amount for all four territories from 6,000,000 to 6,500,000.

Accordingly, we are establishing for calendar year 1986 a total quantity and respective territorial shares as shown in the following table:

Virgin Islands	4,500,000
Guam	1,000,000
American Samoa	500,000
Northern Mariana Islands	500,000
Total	6,500,000

We find that it is in the public interest to make this rule effective immediately for the following reasons: (1) The existing amount of the duty-exemption for the Virgin Islands is 3,500,000 units. (2) The total allocations to be made to existing firms and to the new entrant firm under this rule exceed 3,500,000 units. Thus, this rule relieves a restriction and is exempt from the delayed effectiveness requirement of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U.S.C. 553(d)(1).

In accordance with Executive Order 12291 dated February 17, 1981, the Departments of Commerce and the Interior have determined that this rule does not constitute a "major rule" as defined by section 1(b) of the Order. It is not likely to result in:

(1) An annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more;

(2) A major increase in costs or prices for consumers, individual industries, Federal, State, or local government agencies, or geographic regions; or

(3) Significant adverse effects on competition, employment, investment, productivity, innovation, or on the ability of United States-based enterprises to compete with foreign-based enterprises in domestic or export markets.

Therefore, preparation of a Regulatory Impact Analysis is not required.

This regulation was submitted to the Office of Management and Budget for review, as required by Executive Order 12291.

In accordance with the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601 et seq., the General Counsel of the Department of Commerce has certified that this action will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Fewer than ten entities are directly affected by this action. The commercial benefits of the program governed by these regulations, for entities both directly and indirectly affected, are less ten $10 million per year.

This rule does not contain information collection requirements subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980, 44 U.S.C. 3501 et seq.

List of Subjects in 15 CFR Part 303

PART 303—[AMENDED]

For reasons set forth above, we amend Part 303 as follows:

1. The authority citation for Part 303 continues to read as follows:

Authority: Pub. L. 97-446, 96 Stat. 2329 (19 U.S.C. 1202); Pub. L. 94-241, 90 Stat. 263 (48 U.S.C.A. 1681, note).

2. Section 303.14 is amended by revising paragraph (e).

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

17 CFR Part 240

[Release No. 34-23115; File No. S7-41-85]

Amendment Relating to the Options Disclosure Document

AGENCY: Securities and Exchange Commission.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Commission announced today the adoption of an amendment to Rule 9b-1 under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 which deletes from the Rule the requirement that an options disclosure document contain information regarding the uses of the options classes covered by the document. The amendment is designed to make the disclosure provided investors regarding standardized options less lengthy and complex, thereby focusing investor attention on the risk disclosure aspects of the document.

EFFECTIVE DATE: The amendment becomes effective on May 1, 1986.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Holly Hasley Smith, Esq., (202) 272-2415, Division of Market Regulation, 450 Fifth Street, NW., Washington, DC 20549.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The Securities and Exchange Commission ("Commission") announced today the adoption of an amendment to Rule 9b-1 ("Rule") under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Act")[1] which eliminates paragraph (c)(4) from the Rule, thereby making it unnecessary to include discussions concerning the uses of standardized options in an options disclosure document. In addition, the Commission is clarifying the meaning of paragraphs (c) (6), (7) and (8) of the Rule, which require the disclosure document to contain information regarding, respectively, transaction costs, margin requirements and the tax consequences of options trading.

I. Discussion

The Commission received two letters in response to its request for comments on the proposal to delete from Rule 9b-1 the requirement that an options disclosure document contain information regarding the uses of the options classes covered by the document.[2] Both commentators support the proposal and believe it will have a positive effect on investor understanding of standardized options trading. In addition, one commentator suggested Rule 9b-1 further be amended to require that a "brief reference" to transaction costs, margin requirements and tax consequences be included in disclosure documents prepared under the Rule.

[1] 17 CFR 240.9b-1 (1985).

[2] Securities Exchange Act Release No. 22419 (September 17, 1985), 50 FR 38673 ("Proposal Release").

A. Deletion of the Uses Requirement

Rule 9b-1 originally was adopted in 1982 in an effort to foster better investor understanding of standardized options trading and reduce the burdens on registrants and others of complying with the registration requirements of the Securities Act of 1933 ("Securities Act").[3] Specifically, the Commission believed that the development of an options disclosure document would provide investors with information concerning options trading in a manner easily understandable by investors lacking a technical or financial background. Since the adoption of Rule 9b-1, the Commission has noted, in the Proposal Release, that the options markets have developed to the point where a generalized discussion of the "uses" of options in a disclosure document is unnecessary because the various options markets and broker-dealers undertake to inform investors of the "uses" of options as part of their ongoing marketing efforts.[4] Accordingly, the Commission proposed to delete the "uses" discussion requirement in an effort to further streamline the disclosure document and further the Commission's goal of providing investors with adequate disclosure of the risks of options trading in a readily understandable format. Indeed, the most recent edition of the options disclosure document, published in September 1985 and entitled "Characteristics and Risks of Standardized Options," does not contain detailed description of the uses of the various options covered by the document which were included in previous editions.[5]

Both commentators support the deletion of the "uses" requirement from the Rule. The OCC, which has participated in the preparation of standardized options registration materials and options disclosure documents since 1973, states that in its opinion the elimination of the uses discussions has had the positive effect of making the discussions concerning the risks of options trading more prominent "than when these statements were juxtaposed with descriptions of various uses."[6] In addition, the OCC points out that the "uses" discussions previously included in the disclosure documents were of necessity elementary, due to the size and level of complexity appropriate to a document designed for mass distribution. Another commentator, the American Bar Association ("ABA"), states that the multiplicity of disclosure documents which have been produced in recent years to explain the risks and uses of each new options product "has tended to confuse, distract and deter investors from reading the document."[7] Both the ABA and the OCC point out that, since 1982, when Rule 9b-1 was adopted, numerous alternative sources of information concerning the uses of options have become widely available to options investors, thereby obviating the need to include detailed discussions of a myriad of options strategies in the disclosure document.

The Commission continues to believe that the elimination of the "uses" requirement from Rule 9b-1 will benefit public investors by focusing increased attention on the risk disclosure aspects of the document, and will also prove less burdensome on the options markets and the OCC, who currently share responsibility for preparing the document. Accordingly, the Commission is amending the Rule as proposed.[8]

B. Treatment of Transaction Costs, Margin Requirements and Tax Consequences

Rule 9b-1 currently requires that, with respect to the options classes covered by the document, an options disclosure document must contain information regarding the transaction costs, margin requirements and tax consequences of options trading. In its comment letter, the OCC suggests that the Rule be amended to provide that only a "brief reference" to these items be included in disclosure documents prepared under the Rule. In OCC's view, this requirement would be satisfied by disclosure providing at a minimum a

[3] Proposal Release, supra note 2, 50 FR at 38674.

[4] In addition, Rule 134a of the Securities Act requires that any written materials relating to standardized options make a balanced, explanatory presentation of information concerning any option strategy addressed in the material, in order for the material not to be deemed a prospectus.

[5] In connection with proposing that Rule 9b-1 be amended, the Commission exempted the Options Clearing Corporation ("OCC") and the options markets from the uses requirement of the Rule prior to the distribution of the 1985 edition of the document. See Securities Exchange Act Release No. 22415 (September 17, 1985), 50 FR 38732.

[8] Of course, because paragraph (c)(3) of the Rule continues to require that an options disclosure document discuss "[t]he risks of trading the options", such a document will continue to involve some discussion of "uses" but only to the extent necessary to make the risk discussion required by paragraph (c)(3) understandable.

statement expressing the significance of the subject to options investors, noting any impact on the economic consequences of options trading and containing a generic description of sources from which additional detailed information may be obtained. The OCC notes that this limited type of disclosure is all that has ever been provided by the disclosure documents, and believes that the amendment is appropriate "in order to eliminate any unintended implication that more detailed disclosure of these complicated and frequently changing subjects is required." [9]

The Commission believes that the clarification suggested by the OCC is consistent with the intended purpose of the Rule. In 1982, when the Commission initially proposed the adoption of Rule 9b-1, it addressed the issue of how detailed the discussions should be with regard to each of the items enumerated in paragraph (c) of the Rule. The Commission stated that information which would not change materially over time "should be described with particularity," but other information, "such as . . . margin requirements, . . . which may change with frequency, can be described generically." [10] With regard to this latter type of information, the Commission stated:

> usually it would be sufficient for an options market to disclose that there are exchange rules or other provisions relating to these subjects and that interested investors may obtain information concerning current specific standards or restrictions from their broker-dealer. [11]

Regarding the tax consequences of options trading, the Commission balanced "the need for tax disclosure with the goal of producing a simplified document that [does not] require . . . frequent updating". [12] Accordingly, when the Commission adopted Rule 9b-1, it concluded that the document need contain only a generic description of the tax consequences of options trading, noting that "tax treatment is always relevant and often critical to the success or failure of a particular options strategy". [13] The Commission stated that the document should reference the fact that different tax treatment may result from different dispositions of options positions and, with respect to call writers, whether the writer is covered or uncovered. Finally, the Commission found that the document should inform investors of the importance of consulting with their tax advisers. [14]

Although the 1982 releases do not specifically address the subject of transaction costs, [15] the Commission notes that transaction costs, like margin and taxes, are both subject to change and difficult in a document of general circulation to describe with particularity. The disclosure documents have historically discussed these subjects in a generic manner. The Commission therefore believes that it is appropriate for the disclosure document to treat this subject in a manner similar to the discussions of margin requirements and tax consequences. Accordingly, the Commission is amending the Rule to provide that the document need contain only a "brief reference" to the transaction costs, margin requirements and tax consequences of options trading. The term "brief reference" shall include, but shall not be limited to, the disclosures discussed above. Because the language changes regarding transaction costs, margin requirements and tax consequences merely clarify the Commission's original intent with regard to the Rule and reflect actual practice thereunder, the Commission does not believe that publication of the Rule for additional notice and comment is necessary.

II. Regulatory Flexibility Act Certification

Pursuant to section 605(b) of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 605(b), the Chairman of the Commission has certified that the amendment deleting the "uses" requirement from paragraph (c)(4) of the rule proposed herein will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The Commission did not receive any comments concerning the Chairman's certification. The other amendments to the Rule that are adopted herein do not affect the basis of the certification.

Generic Determination of Rate of Return on Common Equity for Public Utilities

April 16, 1986.

AGENCY: Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

ACTION: Final rule, update to Benchmark Rate of Return on Common Equity for Public Utilities.

SUMMARY: In accordance with § 37.5, the Commission issues the update to the "advisory" benchmark rate of return on common equity applicable to rate filings made during the period May through July 1986. This rate is set at 12.89 percent.

EFFECTIVE DATE: May 1, 1986.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Ronald L. Rattey, Office of Regulatory Analysis, Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street NE., Washington, DC 20426 (202) 357-8293.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Generic Determination of Rate of Return on Common Equity for Public Utilities; Benchmark Rate of Return of Common Equity for Public Utilities

April 16, 1986

On December 26, 1985, the Commission issued a final rule which amended the quarterly indexing procedure for establishing and updating the benchmark rate of return on common equity applicable to electric rate filings. [1] Based on this amended procedure, the Commission determines that the benchmark rate of return on common equity applicable to rate filings made during the period May 1 through July 31, 1986 is 12.89 percent.

According to the amended § 37.9, the quarterly benchmark rates of returns are set equal to ratemaking rates of return on common equity [2] subject to a 50 basis point limitation on the quarter-to-quarter changes. The ratemaking rates of return used in establishing the quarterly benchmarks are based on the average of the median dividend yield for the two most recent calendar quarters for a sample of 100 utilities and are calculated through a three step process. First, given the dividend yield value, the average effective required rate of return on common equity is determined using a particular discounted cash flow model. Second, an adjustment is made to this effect required rate to reflect industry average annual flotation costs and obtain an estimate of the industry average cost of common equity. Finally, this cost estimate is adjusted through a formula that reflects the manner in which the rate base is determined for the cost of service to obtain the average ratemaking rate of return.

The median dividend yield for the sample of utilities for the last quarters of 1985 and the first quarter of 1986 are 8.92 and 7.82 percent, respectively, for an average of 8.37 percent. Using the latter yield produces an average effective required rate of return on common equity of 13.47 percent, an average cost of common equity of 13.51 percent, and an average ratemaking rate of return on common equity of 12.74 percent. [3] Since this is the second quarter to which the results of the annual proceeding are applicable, the change in the benchmark rate of return is subject to the 50 basis point gap. Thus the Commission finds the benchmark rate of return applicable to rate filings made from May 1, 1986 through July 31, 1986 is 12.89 percent. The attached appendix provides the underlying data on dividends and market prices supporting this update.

Generally, a rule becomes effective not less than 30 days after it is published in the Federal Register. A rule may become effective sooner if the agency finds that there is good cause to do so. 5 U.S.C. 553(d) (1982). The Commission finds good cause to make this rule effective May 1, 1986. Specifically, this notice is intended to supplement the generic rate of return rule announced in Order No. 442, issued December 26, 1985 and effective on February 1, 1986, by applying the method adopted in that rule to data which was not available. In addition, the benchmark rate of return established by this rule is effective on an advisory basis only.

Secretary.

AGENCY: Food and Drug Administration.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is amending the animal drug regulations to reflect approval of a new animal drug application (NADA) filed by American Hoechst Corp. The NADA provides for the use of halofuginone hydrobromide in combination with virginiamycin in Type C broiler feeds for the prevention of coccidiosis, increased rate of weight gain, and improved feed efficiency.

EFFECTIVE DATE: April 22, 1986.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Lonnie W. Luther, Center for Veterinary Medicine (HFV–128), Food and Drug Administration, 5600 Fishers Lane, Rockville, MD 20857, 301–443–4317.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: American Hoechst Corp., Animal Health Division, Route 202–206 North, Somerville, NJ 08876, has filed NADA 139–473 providing for use of approved 2.72-gram-per-pound halofuginone Type A articles to be mixed with approved 10-, 20-, 50-, or 227-gram-per-pound virginiamycin Type A articles to prepare Type C broiler feeds containing virginiamycin at 5 or 5 to 15 grams per ton in combination with halofuginone hydrobromide at 3 parts per million. The Type C feed containing 5 grams per ton virginiamycin with 3 parts per million halofuginone is used for the prevention of coccidiosis caused by Eimeria tenella, E. necatrix, E. acervulina, E. brunetti, E. mivati, and E. maxima, and for improved feed efficiency and increased rate of weight gain. The Type C feed containing 5 to 15 grams per ton virginiamycin with 3 parts per million halofuginone is used for the prevention of coccidiosis and improved feed efficiency. VETERANS ADMINISTRATION

38 CFR Part 17

Readjustment Counseling and Related Mental Health Services

AGENCY: Veterans Administration.

ACTION: Final regulations.

SUMMARY: The Veterans Administration is amending its medical regulations (38 CFR Part 17) to remove any reference to a date by which Vietnam era veterans must request readjustment counseling. This change is authorized by Pub. L. 99-166, "Veterans Administration Health-Care Amendments of 1985."

EFFECTIVE DATE: This amendment is effective May 27, 1986.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Karen O. Walters, Chief, Policies and Procedures Division (136F), Department of Medicine and Surgery, Veterans Administration, 810 Vermont Avenue, NW., Washington, DC 20420, (202) 389-2143.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Section 108 of Pub. L. 99-166 made a technical amendment to Title 38 U.S.C. 612A(g)(1)(B) to remove the reference to a date by which Vietnam era veterans must request readjustment counseling. Prior to this change these veterans were required to request such counseling before September 30, 1988.

The Administrator has determined that this amendment to VA regulations is considered nonmajor under the criteria of Executive Order 12291, Federal Regulation. It will not have an annual effect on the economy of $100 million or more; it will not result in major increases in costs for consumers, individual industries, Federal, State or local government agencies, or geographic regions, nor will it have significant adverse effects on competition, employment, investment, productivity, innovation, or on the ability of the United States-based enterprises to compete with foreign based enterprises in domestic or export markets.

The VA finds that advance publications for public notice and comments is unnecessary and not required. This change is primarily an interpretive rule conforming the regulations to a change made by Pub. L. 99-166 and will not have independent effect. Therefore, the changes come within exceptions to the general VA policy of prior publication for public notice and comment, contained in 38 CFR 1.12. Accordingly, these changes are now public as final regulations.

Since a proposed rule will not be published, these amendments do not come within the term "rule" as defined in the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601(2). Therefore, these changes are not subject to that act. In any case, the changes will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities because they concern the entitlement of individual veterans and their beneficiaries, and do not have independent effect.

POSTAL RATE COMMISSION

39 CFR Part 3001

[Docket No. RM85-1; Order No. 676]

Rules of Practice and Procedure Relating to Documentation of Statistical and Computer-Generated Evidence; Order of Rulemaking

Issued: March 6, 1986.

AGENCY: Postal Rate Commission.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Commission is amending § 3001.31(k)(3)(i) of its Rules of Practice governing computer-generated evidence to provide that where a simulation model is offered in evidence, testing and validation are presumptively necessary to lay an adequate foundation for admission into evidence. We are also making technical revisions to § 3001.31(k)(2) and § 3001.54(f)(3)(iii)(c).

DATE: These revisions to our Rules will become effective April 22, 1986.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: David F. Stover, General Counsel, Postal Rate Commission, Suite 300, 1333 H Street, NW., Washington, DC 20268 (telephone: 202/789-6828).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: In Docket No. RM85-2, the Commission adopted several proposals to amend our Rules of Practice that dealt with workpaper citations, the "roll-forward" computer model, and technical conferences for computer-generated evidence. The Notice of Proposed Rulemaking in Docket No. RM85-2 was issued on June 18, 1985 (50 FR 27368-13), and the amended Rules were adopted upon their publication in the Federal Register on October 25, 1985 (50 FR 43368-93). Time, Inc., and Dow Jones & Co. filed comments in Docket No. RM85-2 on August 2, 1985, and August 9, 1985, respectively. In their comments, they advanced some proposals that were not directly related to the Commission's proposals in Docket No. RM85-2. Their indirectly-related proposals were deferred for consideration in this docket.

Comments on these indirectly-related proposals were solicited in this docket in our Notice of Proposed Rulemaking, issued October 21, 1985 (50 FR 43414-15). Perhaps the most significant of these proposals is the one advanced by Time, Inc. relating to computer-generated simulation models. Time, Inc. proposed that we make information on testing and validation presumptively necessary for laying a foundation for such models. It proposed that we do this by adding the following paragraph to Rule 31(k)(3)(i):

(f) Computer simulation models [that seek to describe the operations of the Postal Service, in whole or in part, or any postal related activity,] offered in evidence or relied upon as support for other evidence, shall be bound by all applicable provisions of paragraph (k)(3) and the separate requirements of paragraph (k)(2) [(statistical studies)], to the extent that portions of the simulation model utilize or rely upon such [separate or integrated] studies. Information that compares the simulation model output results to the actual operations(s) being modelled, using data other than those from which the model was developed, shall be separately identified and submitted as evidence supporting the test and validation of the simulation model. Separate statements concerning the model limitations, including limiting model design assumptions and range of data input utilized in model design, shall be provided. Where test and validation of the entire simulation model are not possible, test and validation information shall be provided for disaggregate portions of the model. If disaggregate testing and validation are not possible, separate statements to that effect and statements regarding operational experts' review of model validity shall be provided.

Time, Inc., notes that such a requirement is implicit in Rule 31(k)(3)(i)(e), which, by example, incorporates generally accepted software documentation standards that contain test and validation documentation. Time, Inc., contends, however, that these requirements should be made explicit in our Rule in order to be effective. Comments of Time, Inc., filed August 2, 1985, in Docket No. RM85-2, at 2. We agree. Dow Jones & Co. endorses the addition (Comments of Dow Jones & Co., November 25, 1985), and the Postal Service does not oppose it. (Comments of the United States Postal Service, November 25, 1985.)

Time, Inc., is correct in contending that validation is at least as important as authentication and replication in establishing a foundation for computer-generated simulation models. As Time, Inc., explains, to build a simulation model it is necessary to collect data on the real-world phenomena being studied and then to develop mathematical formulae that represent the relationships among that data. Since this involves a "curve fitting" process, it cannot be thought to be a valid model of observed phenomena unless the formulae developed are tested in one of two ways. One is a test of historical validity. In such a test, the formulae are applied to a set of historical data separate from the set used to develop the model, to see if the results are consistent. The other is a test of face validity. In such a test, operations experts judgmentally evaluate how accurately the formulae developed reflect real-world relationships. It is used when historical validation is not possible. Time, Inc.'s proposed addition allows face validation where historical validation is not possible. Therefore, it is flexible enough to serve as a practical foundational requirement for our proceedings.

We therefore adopt new paragraph 31(k)(3)(i)(f) as it appears below. Its language differs slightly from that proposed by Time, Inc., quoted above. We have deleted the phrase "that seek to describe the operations of the Postal Service, in whole or in part, or any postal related activity," bracketed above, because we deem it advisable to apply the rule to simulation models in general, not just those that model postal operations. The other bracketed language, although it accurately expresses the intent of the new rule, is deleted as unnecessary elaboration.

In this docket, we also solicited public comment on several proposals made by Dow Jones, Inc., in its comments filed August 9, 1985, in Docket No. RM85-2. These include its proposal to strengthen the current requirement in Rule 54(o)(3) that workpapers be "neat and legible" to counteract what it contends is a common problem of participants' workpapers failing to meet this standard. It proposed that our rules place the burden on the filing party to ensure that workpapers are legible. It proposed that the party who fails to meet the standard be required, upon request, to provide legible replacement pages, by overnight delivery. Comments of Dow Jones & Co., Inc., filed August 9, 1985, in Docket No. RM85-2, at 2-3. The Postal Service opposed this proposal, arguing that the problems that lead to filing illegible workpapers are the kind that need to be dealt with by informal negotiation, rather than by added formalities in the Rule. Comments of the Postal Service, November 25, 1985, at 2-3.

We agree with Dow Jones & Co., that the burden should be on the filing party to ensure that their workpapers meet the legibility standard in the Rule. That, in fact, is what the current rule does. But we also agree with the Postal Service that noncompliance with the Rule is likely to be due to causes that are best dealt with through informal accommodation among parties. Should this appear to be inadequate in any particular proceeding, the presiding officer will fashion an appropriate special rule of practice to correct the problem. Accordingly, we have not revised Rule 54(o)(3) as Dow Jones & Co. requests.

Rule 31(k)(2) sets forth standard statistical significance tests and other documentation requirements for statistical studies on which hearing participants rely. Dow Jones & Co. proposes that these be made mandatory rather than provided "upon proper request," as the Rule now requires. In particular, Dow Jones proposes that the information concerning statistical methodology contained in paragraph 31(k)(2)(iv) of our rules become a mandatory requirement. Comments of Dow Jones & Co., filed August 9, 1985, in Docket RM85-2, at 5.

Dow Jones argues that the documentation of statistical studies that is specified in this Rule is the kind that should accompany all statistical studies as a matter of course. To require that such documentation accompany the filing of such evidence would, it contends, avoid an unnecessary round of interrogatories. We agree with Dow Jones. We note that the Postal Service has no objection to this proposal. Comments of the Postal Service, November 25, 1985, at 4. Accordingly we are revising Rule 32(k)(2) by deleting the phrase "[u]pon proper request" that currently introduces paragraph "(2)." This will make provision of the documentation specified therein mandatory at the time of filing, except for particular subparagraphs in which we retain the phrase "upon request." We are adding the phrase "upon request" at the beginning of subparagraph "(ii)(b)" because we do not believe that it is appropriate to make that item of documentation mandatory.

On our own initiative, we are making a technical correction involving paragraph 31(k)(2) that will improve the organization of Rule 31 generally. Paragraph 31(k)(2)(iv)(e) states the general principle that designating a document as a library reference in our proceedings does not confer any particular evidentiary status upon that document. This is a general statement that applies not only to the narrow category of documentation that comes within 31(k)(2)(iv), but applies with equal force to all documentary evidence governed by Rule 31. Accordingly, we revise Rule 31 by deleting paragraph 31(k)(2)(iv)(e), and placing the language of that subparagraph at the end of paragraph 31(b).

Dow Jones, Inc., proposed that we make some technical corrections elsewhere in our Rules of Practice. It suggests that Rule 54(h)(4), which currently requires the Postal Service to "identify the methodology used to attribute or assign each type of cost," should also require an explanation of how that methodology works, and set forth the calculations underlying the use of that methodology. Comments of Dow Jones & Co. filed August 9, 1985, in Docket No. RM85-2, at 8. A similar requirement that underlying calculations be provided should be added to Rule 54(o)(2)(v), according to Dow Jones, Inc. This would require that the Postal Service show, in addition to "results" of special studies used to modify, expand, project, or audit routinely collected data, the calculations underlying those results.

We note that explanations of how analytical methods were applied to achieve results offered in evidence, including underlying calculations, are requirements that are implicit in both of these rules. They are also requirements inherent in our workpaper rule. Paragraph 54(o)(4) of our workpaper rule requires the Postal Service to show the derivation of all quantitative data offered in evidence in such a way that it can be traced to primary data sources. Complying with this general rule necessarily encompasses the underlying calculation which Dow Jones seeks in the specific areas covered by Rules 54(h)(4) and (o)(2)(v). It would therefore add nothing to these rules to make the additions proposed by Dow Jones. Moreover, to explicitly require underlying calculations in some, but not all, of Rule 54 would raise a negative inference in other parts of that Rule that underlying calculations are not required. For these reasons, we will not make these revisions proposed by Dow Jones & Co.

Dow Jones, Inc., also notes that current Rule 54(f)(3)(iii)(c) requires assignment and distribution of costs "to functions set forth in f(3)(iii)(b) of this section" but that f(3)(iii)(b) contains only examples, not an exhaustive list, of functions. It suggests that the reference back to f(3)(iii)(b) be reworded to avoid the inference that the examples listed there are exhaustive. Comments of Dow Jones & Co. filed August 9, 1985, in Docket No. RM85-2, at 6-7. We note that the same criticism applies to the reference back to f(3)(iii)(a) that is made in the subparagraph. We agree that both references back can be clarified by rewording them. Accordingly, we revise the language of Rule 54(f)(iii)(c) as appears below.

Impact of Changes

The Commission finds that these rule changes do not, individually or collectively, constitute a major rule. They affect only rules of practice governing hearing procedures and their economic impact will be negligible, including their impact on the costs or prices for consumers, individual industries, federal, state, or local government agencies, or geographic regions. Additionally, these rule changes will have no measurable effect on competition, employment, investment, productivity, innovation, or on the ability of United States-based enterprises to compete with foreign-based enterprises in domestic or export markets.

The above analysis that these rule changes do not constitute a major rule applies, as well, to the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

* * * * *

* * * * *

(f) Computer simulation models offered in evidence or relied upon as support for other evidence, shall be bound by all applicable provisions of paragraph (k)(3) and the separate requirements of paragraph (k)(2), to the extent that portions of the simulation model utilize or rely upon such studies. Information that compares the simulation model output results to the actual phenomena being modelled, using data other than those from which the model was developed, shall be separately identified and submitted as evidence supporting the test and validation of the simulation model. AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Notice of delegation of authority.

SUMMARY: The State of South Carolina requested delegation of authority for the implementation and enforcement of several additional categories of National Standards of Performance for New Stationary Sources (NSPS). EPA's review of South Carolina's laws, rules, and regulations showed them to be adequate for the implementation and enforcement of these federal standards, and the Agency made the delegation as requested.

EFFECTIVE DATE: These requests for delegation of authority to South Carolina were effective March 27, 1985, and February 18, 1986.

ADDRESSES: Copies of the requests for delegation of authority and EPA's letters of delegation are available for public inspection at EPA's Region IV Office, 345 Courtland Street, NE., Atlanta, Georgia 30365.

All reports required pursuant to the newly delegated standards should not be submitted to the EPA Region IV Office, but should instead be submitted to the following address: Mr. Otto Pearson, Bureau of Air Quality Control, South Carolina Department of Health and Environmental Control, 2600 Bull Street, Columbia, South Carolina 29201.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Sections 101, 110, and 111 of the Clean Air Act authorize the Administrator to delegate his authority to implement and enforce the National Standards of Performance for New Stationary Sources (NSPS) to any State which has submitted adequate implementation and enforcement procedures.

On October 26, 1976, EPA delegated to the State of South Carolina, the authority to implement the NSPS. Subsequent NSPS delegations were made on March 17, 1982, March 28, 1982, April 28, 1983, April 9, 1984 and May 10, 1984. On February 8, 1985, March 5, 1985, and January 23, 1986, South Carolina requested that EPA delegate authority for the NSPS categories that had been promulgated since the May 10, 1984, delegation.

The NSPS categories requested are as follows:

1. Electric Arc Furnaces and Argon-Oxygen Decarburization Vessels in Steel Plants, 40 CFR Part 60, Subpart AAa, as promulgated on October 21, 1984.

2. Flexible Vinyl and Urethane Coating and Printing, 40 CFR Part 60, Subpart FFF, as promulgated on June 29, 1984.

3. Equipment Leaks of VOC in Petroleum Refineries, 40 CFR Part 60, Subpart GGG, as promulgated on May 30, 1984.

9. Wool Fiberglass Insulation Manufacturing Plants, 40 CFR Part 60, Subpart PPP, as promulgated on February 25, 1985.

ACTION: Since review of the pertinent South Carolina laws, rules, and regulations showed them to be adequate for the implementation and enforcement of the aforementioned categories of NSPS, I delegated to the State of South Carolina my authority for the source categories listed above on March 27, 1985, and February 18, 1986.

The Office of Management and Budget has exempted this regulation from the requirements of Section 3 of Executive Order 12291.

This is a summary of the Commission's Report and Order, PR Docket 83–737, adopted April 3, 1986, and released April 15, 1986.

The full text of Commission decisions are available for inspection and copying during normal business hours in the FCC Dockets branch (room 230), 1919 M Street, Northwest, Washington, DC. The complete text of this decision may also be purchased from the Commission's copy contractor, International Transcription Service (202) 857–3800, 2100 M Street, Northwest, Suite 140, Washington, DC 20037.

Summary of Report and Order

1. On October 17, 1984, the Commission adopted a Notice of Proposed Rule Making (Notice) which proposed new rules and policies to govern frequency coordination and coordinators. The Notice was premised on two fundamental concepts: (1) To use to the maximum extent possible the capabilities of private coordinating groups to provide better service to the public and (2) to allow the Commission to do more licensing with diminishing resources. The Notice proposed to have coordinators review most private land mobile applications before they are filed with the Commission. Further, the Notice proposed that only one coordinator be certified for each radio service or frequency group. Finally, the Notice proposed revised procedures designed to streamline the coordination and licensing processes.

2. This Report and Order adopts rules and procedures, as indicated in Appendix C, for applicants applying for frequencies in the private land mobile radio services. It sets forth criteria for determining which applications require or do not require coordination, and establishes requirements to which coordinators must conform. The Commission states that the rules and procedures adopted will improve the quality of frequency selections, expedite licensing, and improve spectrum efficiency, all to the benefit of private land mobile radio users. To achieve these objectives, certified frequency coordinators will be required to:

(1) Provide coordination services on a non-discriminatory basis;

(2) Review the Form 574 application for completeness and review items 1–25 for general correctness;

(3) Process applications in order of receipt;

(4) File coordinated applications with the Commission;

(5) Handle post-licensing conflicts involving frequency selection;

(6) Respond to coordination requests and applications in a timely manner;

(7) Recommend the most appropriate frequency;

(8) Handle interservice sharing requests;

(9) Maintain reasonable and uniform fees;

(10) Establish a single point of contact nationally; and

(11) Facilitate the use of new technologies.

3. The Report and Order discusses the issue of single versus multiple coordinators per radio service. The Commission indicated that certifying only one coordinator per service would obviate the need to develop a system for ensuring that the independent actions of competing coordinators would be both consistent and harmonious. It concluded that the designation of a single coordinator for each radio service would substantially simplify the coordination process and would result in more reliable frequency recommendations. Accordingly, coordinators were certified for each radio service or specialized groups of frequencies listed in Part 90 of the Commission's rules.

Final Regulatory Flexibility Analysis

4. Pursuant to the Regulatory Flexibility Act of 1980, 5 U.S.C. 604, a final regulatory flexibility analysis has been prepared. It is available for public viewing as part of the full text of this decision, which may be obtained from the Commission or its copy contractor.

Paperwork Reduction Act Statement

5. The decision contained herein has been analyzed with respect to the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980. We recognize that there are possibly some recordkeeping and reporting requirements imposed upon certified coordinators that cannot be fully defined at this time. Accordingly, when the staff fully develops the procedures for implementing the adopted coordination process, any such recordkeeping and reporting requirements that are identified will be submitted to the Office of Management and Budget for appropriate clearance.

Effective Dates

6. In order to give coordinators sufficient opportunity to meet the requirements put forth here, we are making the rules and procedures adopted effective six months from the date the summary of this item is published in the Federal Register. All applications filed after the date will have to follow the new coordination procedures as prescribed herein. This effective date will not apply, however, to the capability of the coordinator to access the Commission's data base. We will require coordinators to be able to access the Commission's data base three months after notice is given that such a service is available. We expect each of the certified coordinators to meet the functions and requirements in the time frame specified. Coordinators not meeting the terms of their certification are subject to Commission review and, if necessary, decertification as discussed above.

Ordering Clause

7. Accordingly, it is ordered, that effective October 22, 1986, Parts 0, 1, and 90 of the Commission's Rules, 47 CFR, are amended as set forth and this proceeding is terminated. Authority for this action is found in section 4(i), 303, and 331 of the Communcations Act of 1934, as amended 47 U.S.C. 154(i), 303, and 332.

8. For further information on this proceeding contact Eugene Thomson, or Herb Zeiler, Rules Branch, Land Mobile and Microwave Division, Private Radio Bureau, Federal Communcations Commission, Washington, DC 20554, telephone (202) 634–2443.

25. Section 90.159 is revised to read:

§ 90.159 Temporary permit.

An applicant for a private land mobile station license utilizing an already authorized facility may operate the radio station(s) for a period of up to 180 days under a temporary permit evidenced by a properly executed temporary license certificate (Form 572) after submitting or filing a formal application for station license in accordance with § 90.127, provided that all the antennas employed by control stations are twenty feet or less above ground or twenty feet or less above a man-made structure other than an antenna tower to which it is affixed. When required by § 90.175, applications must be accompanied by evidence of frequency coordination. The temporary operation of stations, other than mobile stations within the Canadian coordination zone is limited to stations with a maximum of 5 watts effective radiated power and a maximum antenna height of 6.1 meters (20 ft.) above average terrain.

26. Section 90.175 is revised to read as follows:

§ 90.175 Frequency coordination requirements.

Except for applications listed in paragraph (f) of this section, each application for a new frequency assignment, for a change in existing facilities as listed in § 90.135 (a), for a reinstatement of an authorization expired for more than 6 months, or for operation at temporary locations in accordance with § 90.137, must include a showing of frequency coordination as set forth below. When frequencies are shared by more than one service, concurrence must be obtained from the other applicable certified coordinators.

(a) For frequencies between 25 and 470 MHz. A statement from the applicable frequency coordinator recommending the most appropriate frequency. The coordinator's recommendation may appropriately include comments on technical factors such as power, antenna height and gain, terrain, and other factors which may serve to mitigate potential interference. Except for narrowband operations, the coordinator must not recommend any adjacent channel frequency 15 kHz removed to existing stations which would result in a separation of less than 10 miles, or 7 miles in the Taxicab Radio Service. If the frequency recommended is in the 150–170 MHz band, and is 17.5 kHz or less removed from a frequency which is available to another radio service, the coordinator's statement must show that approval has been received from the coordinator for the other service. Coordination with another service is not required, however, for narrowband assignments more than 5 kHz removed from other narrowband assignments.

(b) For frequencies between 470 and 512 MHz and 806–821/851–866 MHz. A statement from the applicable coordinator recommending specific frequencies which are available for assignment in accordance with the loading standards and mileage separations applicable to the specific radio service or category of user involved.

(c) For frequencies in the 928–960 MHz band. A statement from the coordinator recommending the most appropriate frequency.

(d) Any recommendation submitted in accordance with paragraphs (a), (b) or (c) of this section is advisory in character and is not an assurance that the Commission will grant a license for operation on that frequency. Therefore, applicants are strongly advised not to purchase radio equipment operating on specific frequencies until a valid authorization has been obtained from the Commission.

(e) Applications for facilities near the Canadian border north of line A or east of line C in Alaska may require coordination with the Canadian government. See Section 1.955 of this chapter.

(f) The following applications need not be accompanied by evidence of frequency coordination:

(1) Applications for frequencies below 25 MHz.

(2) Applications for a Federal Government frequency.

(3) Applications for frequencies in the 72–76, 216–220, and 1427–1435 MHz bands.

(4) Applications for a frequency to be used for developmental purposes.

(5) Applications in the Special Industrial Radio Service or the Business Radio Service requesting a frequency designated for itinerant operation only.

(6) Applications in the Radiolocation Service.

(7) Application for 800 MHz trunked frequencies listed in § 90.362 of this part.

(8) Applications for 800 MHz SMRS pool frequencies listed in § 90.617(d) and § 90.619.

(9) Applications indicating license assignments such as change in ownership, control or corporate structure if there is no change in technical parameters.

(10) Applications for mobile stations operating in the 470–512 and 800 MHz bands if the frequency pair is assigned to a single system on an exclusive basis in the proposed area of operation.

(11) Applications for add-on base stations in multiple licensed systems operating in the 470–512 and 800 MHz bands if the frequency pair is assigned to a single system on an exclusive basis.

(12) Applications for control stations operating below 470 or above 800 MHz and meeting the requirements of § 90.119(a)(2)(ii).

27. Section 90.178 is amended by revising paragraphs (a)(1), (a)(3), (b)(1), and (b)(3) to read as follows:

§ 90.178 Intraservice sharing of frequencies in the 150–174 and 450–470 MHz bands.

(a) * * *

(1) A determination by the applicable frequency coordinator that there are no satisfactory frequencies available within the applicant's own radio service in the area of desired operation;

* * * * *

(3) A statement from the frequency coordinator having responsibility for coordination in the radio service or group in which the frequency is assigned concurring in its assignment in the manner requested. In cases where concurrence is not given, the coordinator must provide an explanation of why the requested sharing is inappropriate.

* * * * *

(b) * * *

(1) A determination by the applicable frequency coordinator that there are no satisfactory frequencies available within the applicant's own radio service in the area of desired operation;

* * * * *

(3) A statement from the frequency coordinator having responsibility for coordination in the radio service or group in which the frequency in question is assigned concurring in its assignment in the manner proposed. In cases where concurrence cannot be given, the coordinator must provide an explanation of why sharing is inappropriate.

* * * * *

28. In § 90.237, the introductory paragraph is revised to read as follows:

§ 90.237 Interim provisions for operations of radioteleprinter and radiofacsimile devices.

These provisions authorize and govern the use of radioteleprinter and radiofacsimile devices for base station use (other than on mobile-only or paging-only frequencies) in the radio services (except in the Radiolocation and Special Emergency Radio Services) in this part.

* * * * *

29. Section 90.477 is amended by revising paragraph (a) to read as follows:

§ 90.477 Interconnected systems.

(a) Applicants for new land stations to be interconnected with the public switched telephone network must indicate on their applications (class of station code) that their stations will be interconnected. Licensees of land stations that are not interconnected may interconnect their stations with the public switched telephone network only after modifying their license. See § 90.135. In all cases a detailed description of how interconnection is accomplished must be maintained by licensees as part of their station records. See § 90.433.

* * * * *

30. Section 90.494 is amended by revising paragraph (b) to read as follows:

§ 90.494 One-way paging operations in the 928–930 MHz band.

* * * * *

(b) All applications for these frequencies must comply with the frequency coordination requirements of § 90.175(c).

* * * * *

31. Section 90.605 is revised to read as follows:

§ 90.605 Forms to be used.

Applications for conventional and trunked radio facilities must be prepared on FCC Forms 574 and 574A and must be submitted or filed in accordance with § 90.127.

32. Section 90.607 is amended by adding a new paragraph (e) to read as follows:

§ 90.607 Supplemental information to be furnished by applicants for facilities under this subpart.

* * * * *

(e) Except for applicants requesting frequencies in the SMRS category listed in § 90.617(d) and § 90.619, all applicants for frequencies governed by this subpart must comply with the frequency coordination requirements of § 90.175(b).

33. Section 90.621 is amended by revising paragraphs (a) and (c) to read as follows:

§ 90.621 Selection and assignment of frequencies.

(a) Applications in the Public Safety/Special Emergency, Industrial/Land Transportation, and Business categories and for frequencies in the conventional category must specify the frequencies on which the proposed system will operate pursuant to a recommendation by the applicable frequency coordinator. Applicants for SMRS trunked frequencies may either request specific frequencies by including in their applications justification for the frequencies requested or may request the Commission to select frequencies for the system.

* * * * *

(c) Trunked systems authorized on frequencies in the Public Safety, Industrial/Land Transportation, and Business Categories will be protected solely on the basis of predicted contours. Coordinators will attempt to provide a 40 dBu contour and to limit co-channel interference levels to 30 dBu over an applicant's requested service area. This would result in a mileage separation of 70 miles for typical system parameters. Separations will be less than 70 miles where the requested service areas, terrain or other factors warrant reduction. In the event that the separation, is less than 70 miles, the coordinator must indicate that the protection criteria have been preserved or that the affected licensees have agreed in writing to the proposed system. Only co-channel interference between base station operations will be taken into consideration. Adjacent channel and other types of possible interference will not be taken into account.

34. Section 90.657 is revised to read as follows:

§ 90.657 Temporary permit.

An applicant for a Subpart S radio station license utilizing an already authorized facility may operate the radio station(s) for a period of up to 180 days under a temporary permit evidenced by a properly executed certification of FCC Form 572 after filing a formal application for station license together with evidence of frequency coordination (when required), provided that the antenna(s) employed by the control station(s) is (are) twenty feet or less above ground or twenty feet or less above a man-made structure other than an antenna tower to which it is affixed.

[Gen. Docket No. 79-163; FCC 85-626]

Environmental Rules in Response to New Regulations Issued by the Council on Environmental Quality

AGENCY: Federal Communications Commission.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: This action amends §§ 1.1301–1.1319 of the Commission's environmental rules.

This action is taken by the Commission to conform its environmental rules to the regulations issued by the Council on Environmental Quality.

EFFECTIVE DATE: July 21, 1986.

ADDRESS: Federal Communications Commission, Washington, DC 20554.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: A. Holly Kaufman, Office of General Counsel, (202) 632-6990.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Amendment of Environmental Rules in Response to New Regulations Issued by the Council on Environmental Quality, Gen. Docket 79-163.

This is a summary of the Commission's Report and Order adopted November 25, 1985, and released March 26, 1986. Additional information is contained in the complete Commission decision which is available for viewing and copying during normal business hours in the FCC Dockets Branch (Room 239) 1919 M Street, NW., Washington DC 20554. The full text may also be purchased from the Commission's copy contractor, International Transcription Service, 2100 M St., NW., Suite 140, Washington, DC (202) 857-3800. The public should also be aware that the full text of the Commission's decision is available in the FCC Reports, Pike and Fischer Radio Regulations, as well as other commercial research and copying vendors.

Summary of Report and Order:

1. The Commission has revised its rules to conform to the regulations issued by the Council on Environmental Quality (CEQ), 40 CFR 1500–1508.28, which administers the National Environmental Policy Act, 42 U.S.C. 4321–4361.

2. Based upon the Commission's experience, we have determined that the telecommunications industry does not generally raise environmental concerns. The comments filed in this proceeding support the Commission's determination. Thus, we have categorically excluded most Commission actions from environmental processing requirements. The Commission has reduced to three general areas the types of actions that may have a significant environmental impact to include cases in which facilities: (1) Will be located in sensitive areas (e.g. wildlife preserves); (2) will involve high intensity lighting in residential areas; and/or (3) will expose workers or the general public to levels of radiofrequency radiation which would exceed the applicable health and safety standards set forth in § 1.1307(b) of our rules. Actions that may have a significant environmental impact are subject to environmental processing requirements. In addition, the rules include a "safety valve" provision, which permits the Commission to require environmental processing on a case-by-case basis. Finally, the Commission's revised rules also adopt the CEQ uniform terminology and procedural requirements.

3. The Commission's revised rules will streamline environmental processing by reducing unnecessary paperwork and burdens upon the administration and the public, as well as ensure that environmental considerations are given appropriate consideration in our decision-making.

4. Ordering Clause.

Accordingly, it is ordered, that, effective 90 days after publication in the Federal Register, that Parts 1, 23, 63, 90 and 94 of the Rules and Regulations (47 CFR Parts 1, 23, 63, 90 and 94) are amended as set forth below.

Parts 1, 21, 63, 90, and 94 of Chapter 1 of Title 47 of the Code of Federal Regulations are amended as follows:

1. The authority citation for Part 1 continues to read:

Authority: Secs. 4, 303, 48 Stat. 1066, 1082, as amended; 47 U.S.C. 154, 303.

2. Section 1.1301 is revised to read:

§ 1.1301 Basis and purpose.

The provisions of this subpart implement Subchapter I of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, as amended, 42 U.S.C. 4321–4335.

3. Section 1.1302 is added to read:

§ 1.1302 Cross-Reference; Regulations of the Council on Environmental Quality.

A further explanation regarding implementation of the National Environmental Policy Act is provided by the regulations issued by the Council on Environmental Quality, 40 CFR 1500–1508.28.

4. Section 1.1303 is revised to read:

§ 1.1303 Scope.

The provisions of this subpart shall apply to those Commission actions which may or will have a significant impact on the quality of the human environment.

5. Section 1.1304 is added to read:

§ 1.1304 Information and assistance.

For general information and assistance concerning the provisions of this subpart, the Office of General Counsel may be contacted, (202) 632–6990. For more specific information, the Bureau responsible for processing a specific application should be contacted.

6. Section 1.1305 is revised to read:

§ 1.1305 Actions which normally will have a significant impact upon the environment, for which Environmental Impact Statements must be prepared.

Any Commission action deemed to have a significant effect upon the quality of the human environment requires the preparation of a Draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS) and Final Environmental Impact Statement (FEIS) (collectively referred to as EISs) (see §§ 1.1314, 1.1315 and 1.1317). The Commission has reviewed representative actions and has found no common pattern which would enable it to specify actions that will thus automatically require EISs.

Note.—Our current application forms refer applicants to § 1.1305 to determine if their proposals are such that the submission of environmental information is required (see § 1.1311). Until the application forms are revised to reflect our new environmental rules, applicants should refer to § 1.1307. Section 1.1307 now delineates those actions for which applicants must submit environmental information.

7. Section 1.1306 is added to read:

§ 1.1306 Actions which are categorically excluded from environmental processing.

(a) Except as provided in § 1.1307 (c) and (d), Commission actions not covered by § 1.1307 (a) and (b) are deemed individually and cumulatively to have no significant effect on the quality of the human environment and are categorically excluded from environmental processing.

(b) Specifically, any Commission action with respect to any new application, or minor or major modifications of existing or authorized facilities or equipment, will be categorically excluded, provided such proposals do not:

(1) Involve a site location specified under § 1.1307(a) (1)–(5), or

(2) Involve high intensity lighting under § 1.1307(a)(6).

(3) Result in human exposure to radiofrequency radiation in excess of the applicable safety standards specified in § 1.1307(b).

Note 1.—The provisions of § 1.1307(a) do not encompass the mounting of antennas on an existing building or antenna tower, unless the antenna(s) to be mounted is (are) subject to the provisions of § 1.1307(b) and would result in human exposure to radiofrequency radiation in excess of the applicable health and safety guidelines cited in § 1.1307(b). Otherwise, the use of existing buildings and towers is an environmentally desirable alternative to the construction of new towers and is encouraged.

Note 2.—The specific height of an antenna tower or supporting structure, as well as the specific diameter of a satellite earth station, in and of itself, will not be deemed sufficient to warrant environmental processing. see §§ 1.1307 and 1.1308.

Note 3.—The construction of an antenna tower or supporting structure in an established "antenna farm": (i.e., an area in which similar antenna towers are clustered, whether or not such area has been officially designated as an antenna farm), will be categorically excluded unless one or more of the antennas to be mounted on the tower or structure are subject to the provisions of § 1.1307(b) and the additional radiofrequency radiation from the antenna(s) on the new tower or structure would cause human exposure in excess of the applicable health and safety guidelines cited in § 1.1307(b).

8. Section 1.1307 is added to read:

§ 1.1307 Actions which may have a significant environmental effect, for which environmental assessments (EAs) must be prepared.

(a) Commission actions with respect to the following types of facilities may significantly affect the environment and thus require the preparation of EAs by the applicant (see §§ 1.1308 and 1.1311) and may require further Commission environmental processing (see §§ 1.1314, 1.1315 and 1.1317):

(1) Facilities that are to be located in an officially designated wilderness area.

(2) Facilities that are to be located in an officially designated wildlife preserve.

(3) Facilities that will affect districts, sites, buildings, structures or objects, significant in American history, architecture, archeology or culture, that are listed in the National Register of Historic Places or are eligible for listing. (See 36 CFR §§ 60, 63 and 800).

Note: The National Register is updated and re-published in the Federal Register each year in February.

(4) Facilities to be located in a floodplain. (See Executive Order 11988).

(5) Facilities whose construction will involve significant change in surface features (e.g., wetland fill, deforestation or water diversion). (In the case of wetlands on Federal property, see Executive Order 11990).

(6) Antenna towers and/or supporting structures that are to be equipped with high intensity white lights which are located in residential neighborhoods, as defined by the applicable zoning law.

(b) In addition to the actions listed in paragraph (a) Commission actions granting construction permits, licenses to transmit or renewals thereof, or Commission actions authorizing modifications in existing facilities, will require the preparation of an EA if the particular facility or operation would cause exposure of workers or the general public to levels of radiofrequency radiation in excess of the "Radio Frequency Protection Guides" recommended in "American National Standard Safety Levels with Respect to Human Exposure to Radio Frequency Electromagnetic Fields, 300 kHz to 100 GHz," (ANSI C95.1–1982), issued by the American National Standards Institute (ANSI), 1430 Broadway, New York, New York 10018, Copyright 1982 by the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers, Inc., 345 East 47th Street, New York, New York 10017.

Note.—The provisions of paragraph (b) shall only apply to facilities and services licensed or authorized under Parts 5, 25, 73, and 74 (Subparts A and G only) of the FCC Rules and Regulations.

(c) If an interested person alleges that a particular action, otherwise categorically excluded, will have a significant environmental effect, the person shall submit to the Bureau responsible for processing that action a written petition setting forth in detail the reasons justifying or circumstances necessitating environmental consideration in the decision-making process. (See § 1.1313). The Bureau shall review the petition and consider the environmental concerns that have been raised. If the Bureau determines that the action may have a significant environmental impact, the Bureau will require the applicant to prepare an EA (see §§ 1.1308 and 1.1311), which will serve as the basis for the determination to proceed with or terminate environmental processing.

(d) If the Bureau responsible for processing a particular action, otherwise categorically excluded, determines that the proposal may have a significant environmental impact, the Bureau, on its own motion, shall require the applicant to submit an EA. The Bureau will review and consider the EA as in paragraph (c) of this section.

9. Section 1.1308 is added to read:

§ 1.1308 Consideration of environmental assessments (EAs); findings of No significant impact.

(a) Applicants shall prepare EAs for actions that may have a significant environmental impact (see § 1.1307). An EA is described in detail in § 1.1311 of this part of the Commission rules.

(b) The EA is a document which shall explain the environmental consequences of the proposal and set forth sufficient analysis for the Bureau or the Commission to reach a determination that the proposal will or will not have a significant environmental effect. To assist in making that determination, the Bureau or the Commission may request further information from the applicant, interested persons, and agencies and authorities which have jurisdiction by law or which have relevant expertise.

(c) If the Bureau or the Commission determines, based on an independent review of the EA, that the proposal will have a significant environmental impact upon the quality of the human environment, it will so inform the applicant. The applicant will then have an opportunity to amend its application so as to reduce, minimize or eliminate environmental problems, see § 1.1309. If the environmental problem is not eliminated, the Bureau will publish in the Federal Register a Notice of Intent (see 1§ 1.1314) that EISs will be prepared (see §§ 1.1315 and 1.1317), or

(d) If the Bureau or Commission determines, based on an independent review of the EA that the proposal would not have a significant impact, it will make a finding of no significant impact. Therefore, the application will be processed without further consideration of environmental effect. Pursuant to CEQ regulations, see 40 CFR 1501.4 and 1501.6, the applicant must provide the community notice of the Commission's finding of no significant impact.

10. Section 1.1309 is added to read:

§ 1.1309 Application amendments.

Applicants are permitted to amend their applications to reduce, minimize or eliminate potential environmental problems. As a routine matter, an applicant will be permitted to amend its application within thirty (30) days after the Commission or the Bureau informs the applicant that the proposal will have a significant impact upon the quality of the human environment (see § 1.1308(c)). The period of thirty (30) days may be extended upon a showing of good cause.

11. Section 1.1311 is revised to read:

§ 1.1311 Environmental information to be included in the environmental assessment (EA).

(a) The applicant shall submit an EA with each application that is subject to environmental processing (see § 1.1307). The EA shall contain the following information:

(1) For antenna towers and satellite earth stations, a description of the facilities as well as supporting structures and appurtenances, and a description of the site as well as the surrounding area and uses. If high intensity white lighting is proposed or utilized within a residential area, the EA must also address the impact of this lighting upon the residents.

(2) A statement as to the zoning classification of the site, and communications with, or proceedings before and determinations (if any) made by zoning, planning, environmental or other local, state or federal authorities on matters relating to environmental effect.

(3) A statement as to whether construction of the facilities has been a source of controversy on environmental grounds in the local community.

(4) A discussion of environmental and other considerations which led to the selection of the particular site and, if relevant, the particular facility; the nature and extent of any unavoidable adverse environmental effects, and any alternative sites or facilities which have been or might reasonably be considered.

(5) Any other information that may be requested by the Bureau or Commission.

(b) The information submitted in the EA shall be factual (not argumentative or conclusory) and concise with sufficient detail to explain the environmental consequences and to enable the Commission or Bureau, after an independent review of the EA, to reach a determination concerning the proposal's environmental impact, if any. The EA shall deal specifically with any feature of the site which has special environmental significance (e.g., wilderness areas, wildlife preserves, natural migration paths for birds and other wildlife, and sites of historic, architectural, or archeological value). In the case of historically significant sites, it shall specify the effect of the facilities on any district, site, building, structure or object listed in the National Register of Historic Places. 30 FR 6402 (February 19, 1974). It shall also detail any substantial change in the character of the land utilized (e.g., deforestation, water diversion, wetland fill, or other extensive change of surface features). In the case of wilderness areas, wildlife preserves, or other like areas, the statement shall discuss the effect of any continuing pattern of human intrusion into the area (e.g., necessitated by the operation and maintenance of the facilities).

(c) The EA shall also be accompanied with evidence of site approval which has been obtained from local or federal land use authorities.

(d) To the extent that such information is submitted in another part of the application, it need not be duplicated in the EA, but adequate cross-reference to such information shall be supplied.

(e) An EA need not be submitted to the Commission if another agency of the Federal Government has assumed responsibility for determining whether of the facilities in question will have a significant effect on the quality of the human environment and, if it will, for invoking the environmental impact statement process.

12. Section 1.1312 is added to read:

§ 1.1312 Facilities For which no Construction permit is required.

In the case of facilities for which no construction permit is required or for which a waiver request for a construction permit has been granted under 47 U.S.C. 319(d), the information required by § 1.1311 shall be submitted and ruled on by the Commission, and the environmental processing (if invoked) shall be completed before authorization of the facilities is granted.

13. Section 1.1313 is revised to read:

§ 1.1313 Objections.

(a) In the case of an application to which section 309(b) of the Communications Act applies, objections based on environmental considerations shall be filed as petitions to deny.

(b) Informal objections which are based on environmental considerations must be filed prior to grant of the construction permit, or prior to authorization for facilities that do not require construction permits, or pursuant to the applicable rules governing services subject to lotteries.

14. Section 1.1314 is added to read:

§ 1.1314 Environmental impact statements (EISs).

(a) Draft Environmental Impact Statements (DEISs) (§ 1.1315) and Final Environmental Impact Statements (FEISs) (referred to collectively as EISs) (§ 1.1317) shall be prepared by the Bureau responsible for processing the proposal when the Commission's or the Bureau's analysis of the EA (§ 1.1308) indicates that the proposal will have a significant effect upon the environment and the matter has not been resolved by an amendment.

(b) As soon as practically feasible, the Bureau will publish in the Federal Register a Notice of Intent to prepare EISs. The Notice shall briefly identify the proposal, concisely describe the environmental issues and concerns presented by the subject application, and generally invite participation from affected or involved agencies, authorities and other interested persons.

(c) The EISs shall not address non-environmental considerations. To safeguard against repetitive and unnecessarily lengthy documents, the Statements, where feasible, shall incorporate by reference material set forth in previous documents, with only a brief summary of its content. In preparing the EISs, the Bureau will identify and address the significant environmental issues and eliminate the insignificant issues from analysis.

(d) To assist in the preparation of the EISs, the Bureau may request further information from the applicant, interested persons and agencies and authorities, which have jurisdiction by law or which have relevant expertise. The Bureau may direct that technical studies be made by the applicant and that the applicant obtain expert opinion concerning the potential environmental problems and costs associated with the proposed action, as well as comparative analyses of alternatives. The Bureau may also consult experts in an effort to identify measures that could be taken to minimize the adverse effects and alternatives to the proposed facilities that are not, or are less, objectionable. The Bureau may also direct that objections be raised with appropriate local, state or federal land use agencies or authorities (if their views have not been previously sought).

Note.—The Advisory Council on Historic Preservation has adopted formal procedures for such consultation. See 36 CFR Part 800.

(e) The Bureau responsible for processing the particular application and, thus, preparing the EISs shall draft supplements to Statements where significant new circumstances occur or information arises relevant to environmental concerns and bearing upon the application.

(f) The Application, the EA, the DEIS, and the FEIS and all related documents, including the comments filed by the public and any agency, shall be part of the administrative record and will be routinely available for public inspection.

(g) If EISs are to be prepared, the applicant must provide the community with notice of the availability of environmental documents and the scheduling of any Commission hearings in that action.

(h) The timing of agency action with respect to applications subject to EISs is set forth in 40 CFR 1506.10. No decision shall be made until ninety (90) days after the Notice of Availability of the Draft Environmental Impact Statement is published in the Federal Register, and thirty (30) days after the Notice of Availability of the Final Environmental Impact Statement is published in the Federal Register, which time period may run concurrently. See 40 CFR § 1506.10(c); see also §§ 1.1315(b) and 1.1317(b).

(i) Guidance concerning preparation of the Draft and Final Environmental Statements is set out in 40 CFR Part 1502.

15. Section 1.1315 is revised to read:

§ 1.1315 The Draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS); Comments.

(a) The DEIS shall include:

(1) A concise description of the proposal, the nature of the area affected, its uses, and any specific feature of the area that has special environmental significance;

(2) An analysis of the proposal, and reasonable alternatives exploring the important consequent advantages and/or disadvantages of the action and indicating the direct and indirect effects and their significance in terms of the short and long-term uses of the human environment.

(b) When a DEIS and supplements, if any, are prepared, the Commission shall send five copies of the Statement, or a summary, to the Office of Federal Activities, Environmental Protection Agency. Additional copies, or summaries, will be sent to the appropriate regional office of the Environmental Protection Agency. Public Notice of the availability of the DEIS will be published in the Federal Register by the Environmental Protection Agency.

(c) When copies or summaries of the DEIS are sent to the Environmental Protection Agency, the copies or summaries will be mailed with a request for comment to federal agencies having jurisdiction by law or special expertise, to the Council on Environmental Quality, to the applicant, to individuals, groups and state and local agencies known to have an interest in the environmental consequences of a grant, and to any other person who has requested a copy.

(d) Any person or agency may comment on the DEIS and the environmental effect of the proposal described therein within 45 days after notice of the availability of the statement is published in the Federal Register. A copy of those comments shall be mailed to the applicant by the person who files them pursuant to 47 CFR 1.47. An original and one copy shall be filed with the Commission. If a person submitting comments is especially qualified in any way to comment on the environmental impact of the facilities, a statement of his or her qualifications shall be set out in the comments. In addition, comments submitted by an agency shall identify the person(s) who prepared them.

(e) The applicant may file reply comments within 15 days after the time for filing comments has expired. Reply comments shall be filed with the Commission in the same manner as comments, and shall be served by the applicant on persons or agencies which filed comments.

(f) The preparation of a DEIS and the request for comments shall not open the application to attack on other grounds.

16. Section 1.1317 is revised to read:

§ 1.1317 The Final Environmental Impact Statement (FEIS).

(a) After receipt of comments and reply comments, the Bureau will prepare a FEIS, which shall include a summary of the comments, and a response to the comments, and an analysis of the proposal in terms of its environmental consequences, and any reasonable alternatives, and recommendations, if any, and shall cite the Commission's internal appeal procedures (See 47 CFR 1.101–1.120).

(b) The FEIS and any supplements will be distributed and published in the same manner as specified in § 1.1315. Copies of the comments and reply comments, or summaries thereof where the record is voluminous, shall be attached to the FEIS.

17. Section 1.1319 is revised to read:

§ 1.1319 Consideration of the environmental impact statements.

(a) If the action is subject to a hearing:

(1) In rendering his initial decision, the Administrative Law Judge shall utilize the FEIS in considering the environmental issues, together with all other non-environmental issues. In a comparative context, the respective parties shall be afforded the opportunity to comment on the FEIS, and the Administrative Law Judge's decision shall contain an evaluation of the respective applications based on environmental and non-environmental public interest factors.

(2) Upon review of an initial decision, the Review Board and/or the Commission will consider and assess all aspects of the FEIS and will render its decision, giving due consideration to the environmental and nonenvironmental issues.

(b) In all non-hearing matters, the Commission, as part of its decision-making process, will review the FEIS, along with other relevant issues, to ensure that the environmental effects are specifically assessed and given comprehensive consideration.

Report and Order (Proceeding Terminated)

In the Matter of Amendment of § 73.202(b), Table of Allotments, FM Broadcast Stations (King City, California); MM Docket No. 85–362, RM–4922.

Adopted: April 8, 1986.
Released: April 16, 1986.

By the Chief, Policy and Rules Division

1. Before the Commission for consideration is the Notice of Proposed Rule Making, 50 FR 35576, published September 3, 1985, issued in response to a petition filed by Ralin Broadcasting Corporation ("petitioner"), licensee of Station KLFA(FM) (Channel 221A), King City, California, proposing the substitution of Channel 230B1 for Channel 221A at its present site and modification of its license accordingly. Additionally, petitioner offered that Channel 238B1 could also be allotted to King City to accommodate any other expressions of interest. Petitioner filed supporting comments reiterating its intention to apply for the channel. Comments and an expression of interest were also filed by King City Communications Corporation ("KCC"), licensee of Station KRKC(AM), King City, to which petitioner responded.

2. In its comments, KCC avers that the substitution of Channel 230B1 for Channel 221A at petitioner's present site would be an inefficient use of the frequency since Channel 230 could be utilized as a full Class B channel with a site restriction 7.8 kilometers (4.8 miles) southeast of the community. KCC contends that from such restricted site, Channel 230B could provide service to 76% more population in an area 122% greater within the 70 dBu contour, and a population 12% greater, in an area 93% larger, within the 60 dBu contour than could its implementation as a B1, as petitioner proposes.[1]

3. On the basis of the foregoing, KCC advises that it will apply for Channel 230, if allotted as a Class B channel. Accordingly, KCC adds that consistent with the Commission's Cheyenne, Wyoming policy, 62 F.C.C. 2d 63 (1976), in light of its expressed interest in Channel 230B, Station KLFA(FM) cannot be modified on Channel 230B1. In further support of its position, KCC states that KLFA's modification proposal on Channel 230B1 must also fail since petitioner has not provided another equivalent or superior channel to 230B for the benefit of other interests, citing Modification of FM and TV Station Licenses, 98 F.C.C. 2d 916 (1984). Rather, KCC asserts, Channel 230B, if allotted, must be open to competing applicants, citing Ashbacker Radio Corporation v. FCC, 326 U.S. 327 (1945).

4. However, KCC adds that petitioner's expressed desire to provide expanded coverage as a B1 facility can be fully accommodated by substituting Channel 238B1 for Channel 221A at a restricted site southeast of King City. Thus, KCC requests that the license for Station KLFA(FM) be modified to specify operation on Channel 238B1 in lieu of Channel 230B1.

5. In response, petitioner agrees with KCC that Channel 230B at a restricted site southeast of King City could provide greater service than would Channel 230B1 at its present site.[2] However, petitioner advises that because it would be difficult to achieve a full Class B1 height of 100 meters (328 feet) at its present location, it intends to relocate to a site 20.0 kilometers (12.4 miles) northeast of the community. Petitioner claims that on the basis of a study conducted similar to that of KCC, from such proposed area, Channel 230B1 could serve 77,837 more persons within the 60 dBu contour than would 230B from a restricted site 7.8 kilometers (4.8 miles) southeast of the community.

6. Further, according to petitioner's engineering statement, a study was conducted with respect to Channel 238B1 at a randomly selected site 27.7 kilometers (17.2 miles) northwest of King City. Petitioner claims that service therefrom could be provided to 172,925 more persons within the 60 dBu contour than could be served by 230B at a restricted site southeast of King City. Although petitioner adds it believes Channel 238B1 would be superior to Channel 230B at KCC's suggested site,[3] it could not be utilized at KLFA's intended site due to spacing constraints.

7. In view of the foregoing, petitioner supports its original proposal and concludes that since it believes Channel 230B1 and 238B1 could serve considerably more population than would Channel 230B at a restricted site south of King City, that it be modified to specify operation on Channel 230B1 and that Channel 238B1 or another available Class B1 channel be allotted to satisfy KCC's expression of interest.

8. Although it may be feasible that two Class B1 stations at King City, as suggested by petitioner, could be superior to KCC's proposal, we cannot so conclude on the basis of the information before us. The fact that a Class B station, operating at full values of 50 kW and an antenna height of 150 meters (492 feet), has a service radius (to the 54 dBu contour) of 64 kilometers (40 miles) versus a Class B1, operating with 25 kW at 100 meters (328 feet), having a service radius (to the 57 dBu contour) of 45 kilometers (28 miles), is persuasive on its face. Petitioner has not demonstrated whether its superior service claim is based on the ability of two B1 channels to provide any first or second aural service, or whether shadowing considerations or other restrictive factors are inherent in KCC's proposal to such an extent to derogate coverage potential of the Class B channel. Thus, absent such compelling showings, the Commission is not obligated to restrict a community to a minimum signal which constitutes service if a superior signal can be made available consistent with the requirements of section 307(b) of the Communications Act and our present modification policy, supra.

9. A staff study reveals that Channel 230 can be allotted as a Class B facility at a site 4.0 kilometers (2.5 miles) south of King City, as proposed by KCC, or as a B1 substitute for Channel 221A at petitioner's intended site 20.0 kilometers (12.4 miles) northwest of the community.[4] Further, we have determined that no Class B channel is available to accommodate petitioner's proposal. Therefore, its modification request is limited to consideration as a B1 channel only. Although Channel 238B1 could be allotted with a site restriction south of King City,[5] as suggested by KCC for other expressions of interest, it cannot be used at petitioner's present nor intended site since it would contravene the minimum spacing requirements of § 73.207 of the Commission's Rules with respect to Station KYNO(FM) (Channel 239B), Fresno, California.[6] Therefore, we believe that the substitution of Channel 230B1 for Channel 221A, as proposed by petitioner, is the best choice in this instance. Since we have no interest from any party in pursuing Channel 238B1, no further discussion as to its availability is warranted.

10. In view of the above determination, and in an effort to accommodate KCC's expressed interest in applying for a Class B channel at King City, we have determined that Channel 271B is available to that community. However, the transmitter therefor must be located in an area approximately 22.2 kilometers (13.8 miles) southeast of King City to negate a short-spacing to Station KDFC(FM) (Channel 271B), San Francisco, California, as well as Channel 272A, Mendota, California, allotted in MM Docket No. 84–231. We believe that proposed Channel 271B is justified as representing a more efficient utilization of the frequency and conforms with our present modification policy contained in § 1.420(g) of the Commission's Rules.

11. Accordingly, pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4(i), 5(c)(1), 303 (g) and (r) and 307(b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and §§ 0.61, 0.204 and 0.283 of the Commission's Rules, it is ordered, That effective May 23, 1986, the FM Table of Allotments, § 73.202(b) of the Commission's Rules, is amended with respect to the community listed below, as follows:

City	Channel No.
King City, CA	230B1, 271

12. It is further ordered, That pursuant to section 316(a) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the license of Ralin Broadcasting Corporation for Station KLFA(FM), King City, California, is modified effective May 23, 1986, to specify operation on Channel 230B1 in lieu of Channel 221A. The license modification for Station KLFA(FM) is subject to the following conditions:

(a) The licensee shall submit to the Commission a minor change application for a construction permit (Form 301), specifying the new facilities.

(b) Upon grant of the construction permit, program tests may be conducted in accordance with § 73.1620.

(c) Nothing contained herein shall be construed to authorize a change in transmitter location or to avoid the necessity of filing an environmental impact statement pursuant to § 1.1301 of the Commission's Rules.

13. It is further ordered, That the Secretary of the Commission shall send a copy of this Order by certified mail, return receipt requested, to Ralin Broadcasting Corporation, 124 N. 2d Street, King City, California 93930, and also a copy thereof, by regular mail to its counsel, Dan J. Alpert, Jr., Fletcher, Heald and Hildreth, 1225 Connecticut Avenue, NW., Suite 400, Washington, D.C. 20036.

14. It is further ordered, That this proceeding is terminated.

15. The filing window for applications on Channel 271B will open on May 27, 1986, and close on June 26, 1986.

16. For further information concerning the above, contact Nancy V. Joyner, Mass Media Bureau, (202) 634–6530.

[1] KCC advises the source of data used in its study was computed according to methods outlined in F.C.C. publication FB–269144, Field Strength Calculations for TV and FM Broadcasting, and from information contained in Elevation Data for North America as published by the Department of Commerce. Its population figures were taken from the 1980 U.S. Census.

[2] Petitioner advises that for allocation purposes, to demonstrate conformity with § 73.207 of the Commission's Rules, it used its present site. Also, petitioner acknowledges that because of the required site restriction, Channel 230B could not be used at its present site.

[3] Petitioner advises that in addition to Channel 238B1, there are several other Class B1 channels available to satisfy KCC's expressed interest in operating from an area south of King City.

[4] Channel 230B cannot be substituted at petitioner's present nor intended site due to spacing constraints to Station KHIP(FM) (Channel 229A), Hollister, California, and Channel 229A, Modesto, California, allocated in MM Docket 84–231.

[5] Petitioner also suggested that Channel 238B1 could be utilized for other interests at a site 27.7 km (17.2 miles) northwest of King City. However, the furthest distance a B1 channel can usually be located for provision of city grade coverage is 22.0 kilometers (14 miles).

[6] Channel 239B1 at petitioner's site would meet our spacing requirements to a modification application by KYNO(FM) (BMPH–760501AC). However, that application was dismissed April 23, 1986, for which reconsideration is pending.

Transportation of Hazardous Liquids; Gathering Lines in Rural Areas

AGENCY: Research and Special Programs Administration (RSPA), DOT.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Federal hazardous liquid pipeline safety standards do not apply to gathering lines in rural areas. The lack of specificity in this exception makes it difficult to apply the standards to intrastate pipeline, which include a large number of rural gathering lines. This final rule adopts new definitions for the terms "gathering line," "production facility," and "rural area" to clearly identify the gathering lines that are not subject to the standards.

EFFECTIVE DATE: This final rule takes effect August 20, 1986.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

Gathering lines in rural locations are excepted from regulation by the Hazardous Liquid Pipeline Safety Act of 1979 (HLPSA) (49 U.S.C. 2001 et seq.), the statute under which Part 195 is issued. In Part 195 the exception for rural gathering lines is provided by § 195.1(b)(4), which states that Part 195 does not apply to "[t]ransportation of a hazardous liquid in those parts of an onshore pipeline system that are located in rural areas between a production facility and an operator trunkline reception point."

In a notice of proposed rulemaking published March 26, 1984 (49 FR 11226, Docket No. PS–80), concerning the extension of Part 195 to intrastate hazardous liquid pipelines, RSPA discussed the need to make § 195.1(b)(4) easier to apply. The problem of distinguishing a gathering line from a trunkline and rural from nonrural was recognized. Comments on this issue by the public and by members of the Technical Hazardous Liquid Pipeline Safety Standards Committee led in the final rule (Amendment 195–33; 50 FR 15895, April 23, 1985) to inclusion of flow lines as part of onshore production facilities, which are also exempt from Part 195 and the HLPSA. (See § 195.1(b)(6)). However, because of the diversity of views expressed by commenters and the Committee, it became clear that further rulemaking would be needed to clarify § 195.1(b)(4).

In developing a proposed definition of "gathering line," RSPA considered the concepts expressed in comments to the March 26, 1984, notice by the Railroad Commission of Texas, the West Central Texas Oil and Gas, the Pennsylvania Oil and Gas Association, the Texas Mid-Continental Oil and Gas Association, the American Petroleum Institute and others as well as various members of the Technical Hazardous Liquid Pipeline Safety Standards Committee. Generally, the concepts represented the usage of the term by RSPA in administering § 195.1(b)(4). However, the commenters' recommended language did not adequately distinguish the downstream end of a gathering line at its junction with a trunkline, since the recommended definitions of "gathering line" and "trunkline" each referenced the other. RSPA did not believe that defining "gathering line" necessarily required use of the term "trunkline." Therefore, RSPA proposed in Notice 1 (50 FR 48811; November 27, 1985) a definition of "gathering line" that did not refer to trunkline. Under the proposed definition, a "production facility" marked one end of a gathering line and the point where a line joins a line exceeding 8 inches in nominal diameter marked the other end, as follows:

"Gathering line" means a pipeline 8 inches or less in nominal diameter that transports petroleum from a production facility.

The proposed definition was based on the concepts of size (8 inches or less) and function (transports petroleum from a production facility).

Size was selected in the belief that petroleum pipelines 8 inches or less in nominal diameter are generally considered by the industry to be gathering lines rather than trunklines. Petroleum pipelines of this size are generally those to which RSPA has applied the § 195.1(b)(4) exclusion. Further, size has the considerable advantage of being simple and easily identified.

The function concept (transports petroleum from a production facility) was selected to be consistent with the current language of § 95.1(b)(4) as well as to capture the generally understood concept of a gathering line.

At a meeting in Washington, DC, on September 18, 1985, the Technical Hazardous Liquid Pipeline Safety Standards Committee (THLPSSC) approved the proposed definition of "gathering line," as well as proposed definitions of "production facility" and "non-rural," as being technically feasible, reasonable, and practical. The Committee's report, dated October 25, 1985, is available in the docket for review.

The proposed gathering line definition required that the term "production facility" be defined. The RSPA proposed the following definition:

"Production facility" means piping or equipment used in the extraction, recovery, lifting, stabilization, separation or treating of petroleum or associated storage or measurement.

This definition was based on the concept that "production" is the process of extracting petroleum from the ground and preparing it for transportation by pipeline. Hence, production facilities are those facilities necessary to perform those tasks of extracting (extraction, lifting, recover) and preparing the petroleum for transportation by pipeline (stabilization, separation, treating, storage, measurement).

Under this definition of "production facility," a "gathering line" would begin at its connection to facilities associated with extracting petroleum from the ground and preparing it for transportation by pipeline. The preamble to the agency's proposal stated that only those facilities associated with extracting petroleum from the ground and preparing if for transportation by pipeline are "production facilities." RSPA has revised the language of the final rule to clarify this point. For example, storage and measurement facilities in use in a pipeline system are not production facilities. Further, pipelines transporting petroleum from a point of origin other than a production facility, such as a refinery or manufacturing facility, would not qualify as gathering lines.

RSPA proposed to define a "rural area" as "outside the limits of any incorporated or unincorporated city, town, or village or any other designated residential or commercial area such as a subdivision, business or shopping center, or community development." This definition was based on language in the gas pipeline regulations (i.e., 49 CFR 192.1(b)(2) (i) and (ii)) and in section 2(3) of the Natual Gas Pipeline Safety Act of 1968, which outlines a rural area. Both the gas regulations and the statute exclude from coverage gathering lines located in rural areas.

Public Comments

Only a few comments were received on Notice 1. Four pipeline companies and the American Petroleum Institute, a trade association representing operators of petroleum and natural gas gathering systems, supported the RSPA proposal without change.

The remaining comments and their disposition in the final rule are discussed according to the proposed definition to which they pertain.

Gathering Line

One pipeline company thought the proposed definition was contrary to the intent of Congress because it was arbitrarily based on size instead of the function the pipeline serves. A rather extensive presentation of the legislative history of the Natural Gas Pipeline Safety Act of 1968 was used to support this argument. In general terms, the function that Congress was said to have had in mind for gathering pipelines was their use in the field to gather gas from various wells, through pipes of various sizes, to a central point where it might be processed or transferred to the pipeline purchaser.

Putting aside the question of whether this legislative history is appropriate for use in explaining the meaning of terms under the HLPSA, RSPA does not dispute the commenter's portrayal of what Congress considered the general sense of a gathering line to be. The problem remains, however, that this general sense is not definitive enough for proper administration and application of the statute and regulations. Clear beginning and end points of a gathering line are needed. RSPA believes its proposed definition provides these needed features without straying from the general concept Congress had in mind. The definition speaks of pipelines that carry petroleum from production facilities. This concept agrees with the function Congress considered gathering lines to provide. Although the 8-inch limit admittedly is not explicitly addressed in the statute, it is a reasonable administrative compromise, given the uncertainty of where gathering ends and a trunkline begins and the need for a specific termination point. The 8-inch limit is based on RSPA's assessment of the historic size of gathering lines and the differences in size, generally speaking, between gathering lines and trunk lines. This assessment has been supported by the views of the THLPSSC and commenters.

Three commenters were concerned about the impact of the proposed definition on pipelines larger than 8-inches that some operators have in the past considered gathering lines under § 195.1(b)(4) and, thus, exempt from regulation. The number of these cases should be small because RSPA has fashioned the new definition consistent with the current application of § 195.1(b)(4), and also because pipelines that operate at 20 percent or less of specified minimum yield strength (which include most gathering lines) are excepted from Part 195 by § 195.1(b)(3). Nevertheless, RSPA addressed this potential problem in Notice 1 by indicating that such operators can seek waivers of particular rules in Part 195 that they feel are not appropriate to apply because of a pipeline's past operation as a gathering line. However, the affected operators will need time to assess the extent of compliance difficulties they may face now that a "gathering line" has been specifically defined. To allow time for operators to assess the impact of the new definition on pipelines previously considered as not subject to Part 195, and either bring the lines into compliance or, if necessary, prepare and submit a waiver request under section 203(h) of the HLPSA (49 U.S.C. 2002(h)), RSPA has delayed the effective date of the new definitions for 4 months. If this time proves insufficient on an individual basis to achieve full compliance, additional time may be sought under the same waiver provisions.

One commenter requested that the definition of gathering line be revised to include pipelines that begin at rail, truck, or barge unloading facilities in addition to production facilities. RSPA believes that this view of gathering does not fit the common understanding of the gathering process. Further, such a change would be outside the general concept of gathering now provided by § 195.1(b)(4). Thus, this comment was not adopted.

Two commenters were concerned that under the proposed gathering line definition a pipeline might lose its gathering status after it connects to an in-line surge tank or other facility (e.g., a lateral pipeline) because any pipeline downstream of that connection arguably would not be directly connected to a production facility. One of these commenters suggested that this unintended application of the definition would be avoided if the definition were amended to include a pipeline that transports petroleum from a "gathering line to another gathering line."

RSPA does not believe such a modification is needed. So long as the nominal pipe size remains 8 inches or less and the function of transporting petroleum from a production facility is maintained, an in-line surge tank, block valve, or other facility will not change the character of the downstream line from gathering.

Further, the presence of a surge tank should not cause a misapplication of the definition any more so than, for example, a pump, because both pumping units and breakout tanks, which are defined to include tanks used to relieve surges, are among the facilities included within the Part 195 definition of "pipeline." In Part 195, the term "pipeline" is defined in a generic sense to include all jurisdictional facilities through which a hazardous liquid flows. Thus, a gathering line is not interrupted upon reaching a tank or any other facility, including a lateral line, covered by the definition of "pipeline." Successive downstream connections with facilities that are "pipelines" under the Part 195 definition and that continue the transportation of petroleum which starts at a production facility are merely linkages of facilities that are each gathering lines. The only cause for a gathering line to terminate would be upon connection with a non-pipeline facility (e.g., a refinery) or a pipeline larger than 8 inches in nominal diameter. Therefore, the proposed definition is adopted without change.

Production Facility

One commenter thought RSPA should make it clear that a "production facility" includes commingled facilities, or facilities handling hydrocarbons produced on several small leases in close proximity to each other. Under the proposed definition, the number of interconnected leases from which hydrocarbons are produced is not a factor in identifying a facility as a production facility. Facilities are designated as production facilities according to their usage, not the location of wells from which hydrocarbons are being produced. Therefore, no change has been made to the final definition.

Another commenter asked that the proposed definition of "production facility" be revised to include the processes of "gas sweetening or liquids extraction from gas." RSPA believes the terms "separation" and "treating," which are included in the definition, carry a broad enough connotation to include these processes, and, thus, the final definition need not be changed.

Rural Area

Two commenters suggested that "rural area" should be defined on a population density basis (as indicated by buildings and occupancy levels) rather than the political or other subdivision basis used in the proposed definition. The main argument to support this change was that population density provides a better indication of the risk a gathering line poses along its route and, thus, the areas in which Part 195 should apply. Although RSPA does not necessarily disagree with this argument, it believes the proposed definition is more manageable than one based on population density. A similar definition has long been in effect for gas gathering lines, and many of the operators and State agencies that use the gas definition can simply apply the same concept to petroleum gathering lines. Also, monitoring a pipeline for changes in population density is a more onerous task than watching for changes in subdivision boundaries, which should occur less frequently. In addition, the proposed definition does relate to risk, considering that higher levels of population are found inside political and other subdivisions. Therefore, the proposed definition is adopted without change.

Classification. These final definitions are considered to be nonmajor under Executive Order 12291 and nonsignificant under DOT regulatory policies and procedures (44 FR 11034, February 26, 1979) because they are consistent with the manner in which RSPA now applies Part 195 to interstate and intrastate gathering lines. The economic impact of this document has been found to be so minimal that further evaluation is unnecessary. Further, because small entities do not own or operate interstate pipelines or intrastate pipelines that would be affected by this final rule, the agency certifies that this final rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

49 CFR Part 1043

[Ex Parte No. MC-178]

Investigation into Motor Carrier Insurance Rates

AGENCY: Interstate Commerce Commission.

ACTION: Interim rule and request for comments.

SUMMARY: In response to a preliminary review of the initial comments received in this proceeding, and to provide contemporary guidance to applicants who wish to apply to self-insure against bodily injury and property damage claims under 49 CFR 1043.5(a), the Commission proposes to amend § 1043.5(a) to include guidelines as to the type of information applicants for self-insurance should submit with the Form B.M.C. 40 application. These proposed changes should help provide the Commission with relevant information about a carrier-applicant's ability to indemnify claimants under insurance plans that do not rely primarily on commercial insurers. Because of the emergency nature of insurance crisis facing the motor carrier industry today, we will adopt the proposed changes as interim rules. They will be effective immediately because the rules are largely interpretive and because notice and public procedure would be impractical and contrary to the public interest in view of the need to respond as promptly as possible to the cost and availability problems facing motor carriers seeking insurance. See 5 U.S.C. 553(b) (A) and (B). The Commission will adopt final rules as expeditiously as possible after evaluating the comments received. However, carriers authorized to self-insure by us must also seek requisite authority to self-insure from the Department of Transportation.

DATES: Effective April 22, 1986. Comments are due May 21, 1986.

ADDRESSES: The original and, if possible, 15 copies of the comments should be sent to: Ex Parte No. MC-178, Case Control Branch, Office of the Secretary, Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, DC 20423.

or

Howell I. Sporn, (202) 275-7691.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Additional information is contained in the Commission's decision. To purchase a copy of the full decision, write to T.S. InfoSystems, Inc., Room 2229, Interstate Commerce Commission Building, Washington, DC 20423, or call 289-4357 (DC Metropolitan area) or toll free (800) 424-5403.

Energy and Environmental Considerations

This action does not appear to significantly affect either the quality of the human environment or conservation of energy resources. Comments are welcome on these issues.

Regulatory Flexibility Analysis

The Commission certifies that adoption of these interim rules will not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities. They do not require small entities to do anything substantially different in applications under 49 CFR 1043.5 than already is required. The interim rules suggest the types of evidence that should be presented, and clarify the approach the Commission will take in evaluating self-insurance applications. To the extent that the revised approach to reviewing self-insurance applications encourages use of this alternative security mechanism by small carriers, this proceeding may have a beneficial impact on their ability to meet the required financial security obligations.

Decided: April 9, 1986.

By the Commission, Chairman Gradison, Vice Chairman Simmons, Commissioners Sterrett, Andre, and Lamboley. Vice Chairman Simmons commented with a separate expression. Commissioner Sterrett dissented in part. Commissioner Lamboley dissented in part with a separate expression.

Appendix

Title 49 of the CFR is amended by interim rules as follows:

PART 1043—[AMENDED]

1. The authority citation for 49 CFR Part 1043 is revised to read as follows:

Authority 49 U.S.C. 10101, 10321, 11701, 10927; 5 U.S.C. 553.

2. Paragraph (a) of § 1043.5 is revised as follows:

§ 1043.5 Qualifications as a self-insurer and other securities or agreements.

(a) As a self-insurer. The Commission will give consideration to and will approve the application of a motor carrier to qualify as a self-insurer if such carrier furnishes a true and accurate statement of its final financial condition and other evidence which will establish to the satisfaction of the Commission the ability of such motor carrier to satisfy its obligation for bodily injury liability, property damage liability, or cargo liability. Applicant Guidelines: In addition to filing Form B.M.C. 40, applicants for authority to self-insure against bodily injury and property damage claims should submit evidence that will allow the Commission to determine:

(1) The adequacy of the net worth of the motor carrier in relationship to the size of operations and the extent of its request for self-insurance authority. Applicant should demonstrate that it will maintain a net worth that will ensure that it will be able to meet its statutory obligations to the public to indemnify all claimants in the event of loss.

(2) The existence of a sound self-insurance program. Applicant should demonstrate that is has established, and will maintain, an insurance program that will protect the public against all claims to the same extent as the minimum security limits applicable to applicant under § 1043.2 of this part. Such a program may include, but not be limited to, one or more of the following: reserves; sinking funds; third party financial guarantees, parent company or affiliate sureties; excess insurance coverage; or other similar arrangements.

(3) The existence of an adequate safety program. Applicant must submit evidence of a "satisfactory" safety rating by the Bureau of Motor Carrier Safety continously for the three years immediately prior to the date of its application or the date on which its initial safety rating was assigned, whichever time period is shorter.

OFFICE OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

5 CFR Part 532

Prevailing Rate Systems

AGENCY: Office of Personnel Management.

ACTION: Proposed rulemaking.

SUMMARY: The Office of Personnel Management (OPM) proposes to revise its regulations on the establishment and adjustment of appropriated and nonappropriated fund wage schedules in foreign areas and certain U.S. possessions. Specifically, we are proposing to delete the provisions which require that rates be published in the Federal Register. These revisions will eliminate procedural delays in issuing the overseas schedule.

DATE: Comments must be submitted on or before June 23, 1986.

ADDRESS: Send or deliver written comments to the Office of Personnel Management, Compensation Group, Wage Systems Division, Room 3353, 1900 E Street, NW., Washington, DC 20415.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Allan Summers, (202) 632-7830.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The regulations which administer the overseas schedule are contained in §§ 532.233 and 532.235 of Title 5, Code of Federal Regulations. We are proposing to revise our regulations to delete provisions contained in §§ 532.233 and 532.235 which require that rates for the overseas schedule be published in the Federal Register. Following the requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U.S.C. 553) has only served to delay the implementation date of the overseas schedule because there is insufficient time to publish the rates between the effective date of the last regular schedule used in its computation (December) and the normal effective date of the overseas schedule (January).

Passage of Pub. L. 99-251, "Federal Employees Benefits Improvement Act of 1986," specifically removed the requirement to follow notice-and-comment procedures when establishing any schedules or rates of basic pay when the underlying procedures, methodology, or criteria used to establish such schedules or rates were earlier codified in accordance with administrative procedures. In view of this statutory change, we are proposing to remove the cited provisions from our regulations so we can issue the overseas schedule in a timely manner.

E.O. 12291, Federal Regulation

I have determined that this is not a major rule as defined under section 1(b) of E.O. 12291, Federal Regulation.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

I certify that these regulations will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities because they are changes which will affect only employees of the Federal Government.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Farmers Home Administration

7 CFR Part 1944

Section 502 Rural Housing Loan Policies, Procedures, and Authorizations

AGENCY: Farmers Home Administration, USDA.

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) proposes to revise its regulations regarding its section 502 Rural Housing program. The action is being taken to implement provisions of the Rural Housing Amendments Act of 1983 which amends Title V of the Housing Act of 1949 and to revise certain sections to further simplify and clarify the regulations. The intended effect of this action is to more equitably provide the financial assistance to those most in need of housing and to expedite the processing of loans for such assistance.

DATE: Comments must be received within 60 days of the date of publication.

ADDRESS: Submit written comments in duplicate to the Office of the Chief, Directives Management Branch, Farmers Home Administration, USDA, Room 6348, South Agriculture Building, Washington, DC 20250. All written comments pursuant to this notice will be available for public inspection during regular hours at the above address.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Frank Colon, Chief, Homeownership Branch, Room 5342, Telephone (202) 382-1482 or Nancy Monesson, Room 5334, Telephone (202) 382-1474, at the following address: Single Family Housing Processing Division, Farmers Home Administration, USDA, South Agriculture Building; 14th and Independence Ave., SW., Washington, DC 20250.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: This proposed action has been reviewed under USDA procedures established in Departmental Regulation 1512-1 which implements Executive Order 12291 and has been determined to be "nonmajor" since the annual effect on the economy is less than $100 million and there will be no increase in cost or prices for consumers, individual industries, Federal, State, or local government agencies, or geographic regions. There will be no significant adverse effects on competition, employment, investment, productivity, innovation, or on the ability of United States-based enterprises to compete with foreign-based enterprises in domestic or export markets.

The proposed revisions are necessary to incorporate provisions of the Rural Housing Amendments of 1983 and to update and clarify several sections of the regulation.

The major changes and additions in this proposed rule are as follows:

1. The process used for rural area designation (§ 1944.10) for the program must be standardized for all field offices. The current regulation does not provide enough detail to resolve the many problems involved in the process. The revision clarifies the regulation, eliminates areas of controversy in interpreting terms such as open spaces, contiguous boundaries, etc., and adds details to the rural area designation process.

2. Rates, terms, and source of funds (§ 1944.25) is revised to increase the maturity of the regular section 502 loan, where needed, to a period not to exceed 38 years as authorized by the Rural Housing Amendments of 1983, and to itemize all other loan types funded with section 502 loan funds.

3. The section for conditional commitments is revised, to clarify construction contract requirements in § 1944.45(f)(3)(ii) and for editorial changes and to refer completion and review to the proper approval official in § 1944.45(f)(5).

This document has been reviewed in accordance with 7 CFR Part 1940, Subpart G, "Environmental Program." It is the determination of FmHA that the proposed action does not constitute a major Federal action which significantly affects the quality of the human environment and, in accordance with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969, Pub. L. 91-190, an environmental impact statement is not required.

This program/activity is listed in the Catalog of Domestic Assistance under No. 10.410. For the reasons set forth in the Final Rule related notice to 7 CFR Part 3015, Subpart V, 48 FR 29115, June 24, 1983, this program/activity is excluded from the scope of Executive Orde 12372 which requires intergovernmental consultation with State and local officials.

Home improvement, Loan programs—Housing and community development; low and moderate income housing—Rental; Mobile homes; Mortgages, Rural housing, Subsidies.

Therefore, it is proposed that Subpart A of Part 1944, Chapter XVIII of Title 7, Code of Federal Regulations be amended as follows:

PART 1944—HOUSING

1. The authority citation for Part 1944 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 42 USC 1480; 7 CFR 2.23; 7 CFR 2.70.

Subpart A—Section 502 Rural Housing Loan Policies, Procedures and Authorizations

2. In § 1944.10, paragraph (g) is redesignated as (i) and the rest of the section is revised to read as follows:

§ 1944.10 Rural area designation.

(a) For the purpose of this Subpart, a rural area is:

(1) Open country which is not part of or associated with an urban area.

(2) Any town, village, city or place, including the immediately adjacent densely settled area, which is not part of or associate with an urban area and which:

(i) Has a population not in excess of 10,000 if it is rural in character, or

(ii) Has a population in excession 10,000 but not in excess of 20,000, and

(A) Is not contained within an MSA, and

(B) Has a serious lack of mortgage credit for low-and moderate-income households as determined by the Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development.

(b) A determination that open country, or any town, village, city, or place is not part of or associated with an urban area must include a finding that any densely populated section of the area in question is separated from the densely populated section of any adjacent urban area by open spaces. Open spaces include undeveloped, agricultural, or sparsely settled areas. Other spaces such as physical barriers (e.g., rivers, canals), public parks, commercial and industrial developments, areas reserved for recreational purposes, recognized open spaces for which the existence of plans for development in the near future (3 to 5 years) are known, and similar nonresidential areas, are not considered open spaces for the purpose of this program.

(c) Two or more towns, villages, cities, and places may have contiguous boundaries, and each be considered separately if they are not otherwise assoicated with each other, and their densely populated areas are not contiguous, as determined after consideration of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.

(d) Population count in any area will be taken from the decennial U.S. Census of Population, national population updates published by the Bureau of the Census, any more recent census conducted by the local government, recent maps and aerial photographs, and the following:

(1) Significant new development on the periphery of ineligible areas which require change in boundaries, and

(2) Redesignation of corporate limits by local authorities which affect the elegibility status of an area.

(e) In determining population count for area eligibility, consideration must also be given to developed areas in counties or states which are contiguous to and, therefore, a part of developed areas in other counties or states. This determination must be made in agreement between the States Directors concerned.

(f) In order to ensure that the rural housing program is limited to eligible rural areas, the County Supervisor, in consultation with the District Director will conduct a review of all areas under his/her jurisdiction, every 5 years. More frequent reviews may be conducted as needed. The following criteria will apply:

(1) The review will be based on the considerations set forth in paragraphs (a) through (e) of this section. A report on the review with recommendations will be signed by the County Supervisor and the District Director and submitted to the State Director on or before February 28 of the review year.

(2) Based on the recommended changes provided by the County Supervisor and the District Director, the State Director will:

(i) Make the public aware that a study will be conducted for those areas that may change from rural to nonrural. The State Director should, where the State Director determines it practicable, publish in local newspapers, prenotices of the review actions for the information of interested parties, at least 180 days prior to final determination. It can be anticipated that the study may take 6 months before a decision will be made.

(ii) Limit the rural housing program in that area after the date of the decision, to the loan purposes prescribed in paragraph (f)(2)(i) of this section, if the study shows that an area is not rural.

(iii) Request authorization from the National Office (Attention: Chief Homeownership Branch, (SFH/PD) for changes, if the study shows new areas exceeding 10,000 but not exceeding 20,000 (as defined in paragraph (a)(2)(ii) of this section) that will be identified as eligible rural areas.

(iv) Upon completion of the study, and prior to September 30 of the review year, update, establish, and issue by State Supplement, lists and maps of all eligible rural areas under his/her jurisdiction.

(g) In addition to the review of eligible areas prescribed by this section, the State Director is responsible for the implementation of changes in all areas under his/her jurisdiction resulting from the decennial Census of Population (including biannual updates, if available). The State Director will take immediate action on these changes after receipt of the information from the Bureau of the Census through FmHA. These changes and other emergency changes directed by the Administrator must be implemented without delay, since advance notice to the public is impracticable.

(h) Current maps and lists of eligible areas approved by the State Director, shall be displayed in the County Supervisor's office. A State Office file also shall be maintained to include copies of the most recent maps and lists of eligible areas and the County Offices' area reviews and recommendations. The State Office will also prepare and distribute to the county offices an adequate number of copies of maps and lists of ineligible areas, to be used as handouts, as requested, to further inform the public of those areas not served by the Agency. These will be sections of maps showing only the ineligible area and the immediate eligible area surrounding the outside of the ineligible area boundary.

* * * * *

3. In § 1944.25, paragraphs (a) and (c) are revised to read as follows:

§ 1944.25 Rates, terms, and source of funds.

(a) Source of funds. All loans financed under this program will be funded from the Rural Housing Insurance Fund (RHIF).

* * * * *

(c) Amortization. Loans will be scheduled for repayment over a period that will not exceed the expected useful life of the property as a dwelling to assure the loans are adequately secured. Only one of the amortization periods listed in this paragraph may be used for a borrower. Each loan will be scheduled for repayment from the date of the promissory note, for a period not to exceed one of the following:

(1) 33 years for initial and subsequent loans; except as otherwise indicated in this section.

(2) 38 years for initial loans (subsequent loans may be made for a period not to exceed the remaining years of the initial loan) to applicants whose adjusted annual incomes do not exceed 60 percent of the median income for the area, if necessary to show repayment ability (as reflected by comparing the annual installment for repayment at 1 percent interest with the resulting repayment ability figure of a completed Form FmHA 1944–3, "Household Finance Statement and Budget"). Adjusted in come limits for eligibility for the 38-year term appear in Exhibit C of FmHA Instruction 1944–A (available in any FmHA office).

(3) 25 years for Repair and Rehabilitation loans as set forth in § 1944.34(f)(6)(iii) of this subpart.

(4) 10 years for loans not exceeding $2,500 which are not secured by a real estate mortgage.

* * * * *

4. Section 1944.45 is amended by revising paragraphs (f)(3)(ii) and (f)(5), to read as follows:

§ 1944.45 Conditional commitments.

* * * * *

(f) * * *

(3) * * *

(ii) Determine whether the dwelling and site meet the requirements of this Subpart and Subpart A of Part 1924 of this Chapter and will comply with all local codes and ordinances. The use of construction contracts with conditional commitments is optional. The property must meet the requirements of Subpart D of Part 1804 of this Chapter (FmHA Instruction 424.5).

* * * * *

(5) Conditional commitment approval. The State Director, District Director, County and Assistant County Supervisors are authorized to approve conditional commitments provided the commitment price does not exceed the loan approval authority for Section 502 RH loans as outlined in Subpart A of Part 1901 of this Chapter. If the conditional commitment is granted, the loan approval official will complete and sign Form FmHA 1944–11, "Conditional Commitment." When a qualified applicant applies for a loan to buy a dwelling on which a conditional commitment has been issued, the application file will be transferred to the conditional commitment folder.

Background

The Portland International Airport, Portland OR, Special ATA was established September 6, 1967 (32 FR 12747), under 14 CFR Part 93 93.101 and 103, and amended February 6, 1976 (41 FR 5386). Section 93.105 was added November 6, 1980 (45 FR 73653). Together these sections, organized as Subpart H of Part 93, establish certain traffic patterns to be flown for arrivals and departures operating at Pearson Airpark, Portland, OR, and establish certain communications requirements for those operations.

On December 9, 1985 (50 FR 50254), the FAA designated an ARSA at Portland International Airport, Portland, OR, which became effective January 16, 1986. The configuration of the Portland ARSA in the vicinity of Pearson Airpark coupled with the requirement for pilots to establish two-way radio communications with Portland Approach Control prior to entering designated ARSA airspace supplants the need for the special ATA.

The Proposal

In consideration of the foregoing, the FAA is confident that the provisions of the ARSA program utilized at Portland International Airport provide an adequate level of safety with respect to arrival and departure air traffic at Pearson Airpark. Therefore, the FAA proposes to delete the rules and procedures specified in Part 93, Subpart H.

Regulatory Flexibility Determination

The FAA has determined that this action: (1) Is not a major rule under Executive Order 12291; (2) is not a significant rule under DOT Regulatory Policies and Procedures (44 FR 11034; February 26, 1979); and (3) does not warrant preparation of a regulatory evaluation as the anticipated impact is so minimal. Since this is a routine matter that will only affect air traffic procedures, it is certified that this rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities under the criteria of the Regulatory Flexibility Act.

BILLING CODE 4910–13–M

VETERANS ADMINISTRATION

38 CFR Part 1

Salary Offset; Federal Claims Collection

AGENCY: Veterans Administration.

ACTION: Proposed regulations.

SUMMARY: The Veterans Administration is hereby proposing new regulations to govern the collection of debts owed to the United States from Federal employees. These regulations are intended to implement the Debt Collection Act of 1982 (Pub. L. 97–365) which permits Federal agencies to collect debts by means of offset from current Federal salaries without an employee's consent, provided the employee is properly notified and given the opportunity to exercise certain administrative rights.

DATES: Comments must be received on or before May 21, 1986.

ADDRESSES: Interested persons are invited to send written comments to:

VOL 51 ISS 77 AP 22 1986 UMI

Administrator of Veterans Affairs (271A), Veterans Administration, 810 Vermont Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20420. Comments will be available for inspection only in room 132, Veterans Services Unit, at the above address between the hours of 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday (except holidays) until June 8, 1986.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Peter Mulhern, (202) 389-2405.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Section 5 of the Debt Collection Act of 1982 amended section 5514 of Title 5, United States Code to permit Federal agencies to collect debts by means of offset from current Federal salaries without an employee's consent, provided the employee is properly notified and given the opportunity to exercise certain administrative rights. Prior to enactment of this legislation, it was not possible to deduct general debts owed by Federal employees to the United States from current salary without the employee's consent. In addition to the offset provisions at 5 U.S.C. 5514, each agency's offset regulations must be consistent with the Office of Personnel Management's salary offset regulations.

Prior to salary offset, an employee must be given the opportunity for a hearing on the existence or the amount of the debt or the terms of the repayment schedule (5 U.S.C. 5514(a)(2)). Such a hearing must be conducted by an administrative law judge or a hearing official not under the control of the creditor agency. However, 38 U.S.C. 211(a) states that the decisions of the VA providing benefits for veterans and their dependents or survivors shall be final and conclusive and no other official or any court of the U.S. shall have power or jurisdiction to review such decisions. We do not believe Congress intended its amendment of 5 U.S.C. 5514 to override this provision. Thus, if the VA renders a decision on any aspect of an indebtedness arising out of participation in a VA benefits program, such decision cannot be reviewed by an administrative law judge or an official outside of the VA. Construing the two statutes together, we believe reliance on the hearing procedures of the BVA (Board of Veterans Appeals), the functions of which are largely independent of the VA, will fully satisfy the agency's obligations under section 5 of the Debt Collection Act while preserving the finality of VA decisions. The BVA's procedures found in 38 CFR 19.1 through 19.200 will provide adequate due process protection for those employees who have debts which arise out of participation in a benefits program administered under Title 38, United States Code. For hearings on nonbenefit debts and proposed offset schedules of all debts, our salary offset regulations set forth procedures to be used for paper and oral hearings before administrative law judges and hearing officials not under the control of the VA.

The Administrator hereby certifies that these proposed rules will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities as they are defined in the Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA), because they only concern individual Federal employees indebted to the U.S. Government. Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 605(b), this proposed rule is therefore exempt from the initial and final regulatory flexibility analyses requirements of section 603 and 604.

These proposed rules have also been reviewed under E.O. 12291 and have been determined to be nonmajor because they will not have a $100 million annual effect on the economy and will not have any adverse economic impact on, or increase costs or prices for consumers, individual industries, Federal, State and local government agencies or geographic regions.

There is no Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance Number involved.

Salary Offset Provisions

§ 1.980 Scope.

(a) The provisions set forth in §§ 1.980 through 1.994 implement the VA's (Veterans Administration's) authority for the use of salary offset to satisfy certain debts owed to the government.

(b) These regulations apply to offsets by the VA from the salaries of current employees of the VA or any other agency who owe debts to the VA. Offsets by the VA from salaries of current employees of the VA who owe debts to other agencies shall be processed under 5 CFR 550.1106.

(c) These regulations do not apply to debts or claims arising under the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended, the Social Security Act, the tariff laws of the United States, or to any case where collection of a debt by salary offset is explicitly provided for (e.g. travel advances in 5 U.S.C. 5705 and employee training expenses in 5 U.S.C. 4108) or prohibited by another statute.

(d) These regulations do not preclude an employee from requesting waiver of an overpayment under 38 U.S.C. 3102, 5 U.S.C. 5584, or any other similar provision of law, or in any way questioning the amount or validity of a debt not involving benefits under the laws administered by the VA by submitting a subsequent claim to the General Accounting Office in accordance with procedures prescribed by that office.

(e) These regulations do not apply to any adjustment to pay arising out of an employee's election of coverage or a change in coverage under a Federal benefits program requiring periodic deductions from pay if the amount to be recovered was accumulated over four pay periods or less.

(g) The procedures and requirements of these regulations do not apply to salary offset used to recoup a Federal employee's debt where a judgment has been obtained against the employee for the debt.

(a) The VA will not collect a debt involving benefits under the laws administered by the VA by salary offset unless the Administrator or designee provides the employee with written notice.

(b) If the employee has not previously appealed the amount or existence of the debt under §§ 19.1 through 19.200 of this title and time for pursuing such an appeal has not expired (§ 19.129), the Administrator or designee will provide the employee with written notice of the debt. (d) If the employee has appealed the existence or amount of the debt and the Board of Veterans Appeals has not decided the appeal on the merits, collection of the debt by salary offset will be suspended until the appeal is decided or the employee ceases to pursue the appeal.

(5 U.S.C. 5514)

§ 1.983 Notice requirements before salary offsets of debts not involving benefits under the laws administered by the VA.

(a) For a debt not involving benefits under the laws administered by the VA, the Administrator or designee will review the records relating to the debt to assure that it is owed prior to providing the employee with a notice of the debt.

(b) Except as provided in § 1.980(e), salary offset of debts not involving benefits under the laws administered by the VA will not be made unless the Administrator or designee first provides the employee with a minimum of 30 calendar days written notice. This notice will state:

(1) The Administrator or designee's determination that a debt is owed;

(2) The amount of the debt owed and the facts giving rise to the debt;

(3) The Administrator or designee's intention to collect the debt by means of deduction from the employee's current disposable pay account until the debt and all accumulated interest and associated costs are paid in full;

(4) The amount, frequency, approximate beginning date, and duration of the intended deductions;

(5) An explanation of the VA's requirements concerning interest, administrative costs, and penalties;

(6) The employee's right to inspect and copy VA records relating to the debt or, if the employee or his or her representative cannot personally inspect the records, to request and receive a copy of such records;

(7) The employee's right to enter into a written agreement with the Administrator or designee for a repayment schedule differing from that proposed by the Administrator or designee, so long as the terms of the repayment schedule proposed by the employee are agreeable to the Administrator or designee;

(8) The employee's right to request an oral or paper hearing, conducted by an administrative law judge or a hearing official of the VA or another agency, on the Administrator or designee's determination of the existence of the debt, the amount of the debt, or the percentage of disposable pay to be deducted each pay period, so long as a request is filed by the employee as prescribed by the Administrator;

(9) The method and time period for requesting a hearing;

(10) That the timely filing of a request for a hearing (oral or paper) will stay the commencement of salary offset;

(11) That a final decision after the hearing will be issued at the earliest practical date, but no later than 60 calendar days after the filing of the request for the hearing, unless the employee requests and the hearing officer grants a delay in the proceedings;

(12) That any knowingly false or frivolous statements, representations, or evidence may subject the employee to:

(i) Disciplinary procedures appropriate under 5 U.S.C. ch. 75, 5 CFR Part 752, or any other applicable statutes or regulations;

(13) Any other rights and remedies available to the employee under statutes or regulations governing the program for which the collection is being made; and

(14) Unless there are applicable contractual or statutory provisions to the contrary, that amounts paid on or deducted for the debt which are later waived or found not owed to the United States will be promptly refunded to the employee.

(5 U.S.C. 5514)

§ 1.984 Request for a hearing.

(a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section and in § 1.982, an employee wishing a hearing on the existence or amount of the debt or on the proposed offset schedule must send such a request to the office which sent the notice of the debt. The employee must also specify whether an oral or paper hearing is requested. If an oral hearing is requested, the request should explain why the matter cannot be resolved by review of the documentary evidence. The request must be received by the office which sent the notice of the debt not later than 20 calendar days from the date of the notice.

(b) If the employee files a request for a hearing after the expiration of the 20 day period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, the VA may accept the request if the employee shows that the delay was because of circumstances beyond his or her control or because of failure to receive the written notice of the filing deadline (unless the employee has actual notice of the filing deadline).

§ 1.985 Form, notice of, and conduct of hearing.

(a) After an employee requests a hearing, the hearing official or administrative law judge shall notify the employee of the form of the hearing to be provided. If the hearing will be oral, the notice shall set forth the date, time, and location for the hearing. If the hearing will be paper, the employee shall be notified that he or she should submit his or her position and arguments in writing to the hearing official or administrative law judge by a specified date after which the record shall be closed. This date shall give the employee reasonable time to submit this information.

(b) An employee who requests an oral hearing shall be provided an oral hearing if the hearing official or administrative law judge determines that the matter cannot be resolved by review of documentary evidence, for example, when an issue of credibility or veracity is involved. If a determination is made to provide an oral hearing, the hearing official or administrative law judge may offer the employee the opportunity for a hearing by telephone conference call. If this offer is rejected or if the hearing official or administrative law judge declines to offer a telephone conference call hearing, the employee shall be provided an oral hearing permitting the personal appearance of the employee, his or her personal representative, and witnesses. A record or transcript of every oral hearing shall be made. Witnesses shall testify under oath or affirmation.

(c) In all other cases where an employee requests a hearing, a paper hearing shall be provided. A paper hearing shall consist of a review of the written evidence of record by the administrative law judge or hearing official.

(d) In any hearing under this section, the administrative law judge or hearing official may exclude from consideration evidence or testimony which is irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious.

(5 U.S.C. 5514)

§ 1.986 Result if employee fails to meet deadline.

An employee waives the right to a hearing, and will have his or her disposable pay offset in accordance with the offset schedule, if the employee:

(a) Fails to file a request for a hearing as prescribed in § § 1.982, 1.984, or 19.1 through 19.200, whichever is applicable, unless such failure is excused as provided in § 1.984(b); or

(b) Fails to appear at an oral hearing of which he or she had been notified unless the administrative law judge or hearing official determines that failure to appear was due to circumstances beyond the employee's control.

(5 U.S.C. 5514)

§ 1.987 Review by hearing official or administrative law judge.

(a) The hearing official or administrative law judge shall uphold the VA's determination to the existence and amount of the debt unless determined to be erroneous by preponderance of the evidence.

(b) The hearing official or administrative law judge shall uphold the VA's offset schedule unless the schedule would result in extreme hardship to the employee.

(5 U.S.C. 5514)

§ 1.988 Written decision following a hearing requested under §1.984.

(a) The hearing official or administrative law judge must issue a written decision not later than 60 days after the employee files a request for the hearing.

(b) Written decisions provided after a hearing requested under §1.984 will include:

(1) A statement of the facts presented to support the nature and origin of the alleged debt;

(2) The hearing official or administrative law judge's analysis, findings and conclusions concerning as applicable:

(i) The employee's or VA's grounds;

(ii) The amount and validity of the alleged debt; and

(iii) The repayment schedule.

(c) The decision in a case where a paper hearing was provided shall be based upon a review of the written record. The decision in a case where an oral hearing was provided shall be based upon the hearing and the written record.

(5 U.S.C. 5514)

§ 1.989 Review of VA records related to the debt.

(a) Notification by employee. An employee who intends to inspect or copy VA records related to the debt as permitted by a notice provided under §1.983 must send a letter to the office which sent the notice of the debt stating his or her intention. The letter must be received by that office within 20 calendar days of the date of the notice.

(b) VA response. In response to timely notice submitted by the debtor as described in paragraph (a) of this section, the VA will notify the employee of the location and time when the employee may inspect and copy records related to the debt.

(5 U.S.C. 5514)

§ 1.990 Written agreement to repay debt as alternative to salary offset.

(a) Notification by employee. The employee may propose, in response to a notice under §1.983, a written agreement to repay the debt as an alternative to salary offset. Any employee who wishes to do this must submit a proposed written agreement to repay the debt which is received by the office which sent the notice of the debt within 20 calendar days of the date of the notice.

(b) VA's response. In response to timely notice by the debtor as described in paragraph (a) of this section, the VA will notify the employee whether the employee's proposed written agreement for repayment is acceptable. It is within the VA's discretion to accept a repayment agreement instead of proceeding by offset. In making this determination, the VA will balance its interest in collecting the debt against the hardship to the employee. The VA will accept a repayment agreement instead of offset only if the employee is able to establish that offset would result in extreme hardship.

§ 1.991 Procedures for salary offset: when deductions may begin.

(a) Deductions to liquidate an employee's debt will be by the method and in the amount stated in the notice to collect from the employee's current pay as modified by a written decision issued under §§ 1.982, 19.1 through 19.200 or § 1.988 or by written agreement between the employee and the VA under § 1.990.

(b) If the employee filed a request for a hearing as provided by § 1.984 before the expiration of the period provided for in that section, deductions will not begin until after the hearing official or administrative law judge has provided the employee with a hearing, and has rendered a final written decision.

(c) If the employee failed to file a timely request for a hearing, deductions will begin on the date specified in the notice of intention to offset, unless a hearing is granted pursuant to § 1.984(b).

(d) If an employee retires or resigns or his or her employment ends before collection of the amount of the indebtedness is completed, the remaining indebtedness will be collected according to procedures for administrative offset (see 4 CFR 101.1 through 105.5 and 5 CFR 831.1601 through 831.1607)

(5 U.S.C. 5514)

§ 1.992 Procedures for salary offset.

(a) Types of collection. A debt will be collected in a lump-sum or in installments. Collection will be in a lump-sum unless the employee is financially unable to pay in one lump-sum, or if the amount of the debt exceeds 15 percent of the employee's disposable pay. In these cases, deduction will be by installments.

(b) Installment deductions.

(1) A debt to be collected in installments will be deducted at officially established pay intervals from an employee's curent pay account unless the employee and the Administrator agree to alternative arrangements for repayment. The alternative arrangement must be in writing and signed by both the employee and administrator or designee.

(2) Installment deductions will be made over a period not greater than the anticipated period of employment. The size and frequency of installment deductions will bear a reasonable relation to the size of the debt and the employee's ability to pay. However, the amount deducted for any period will not exceed 15 percent of the disposable pay from which the deduction is made, unless the employee has agreed in writing to the deduction of a greater amount. If posible, the installment payment will be sufficient in size and frequency to liquidate the debt in three years. Installment payments of less than $25 per pay period or $50 a month will be accepted only in the most unusual circumstances.

(c) Imposition of interest, penalties, and administrative costs. Interest, penalties, and administrative costs will be charged in accordance with § 1.919 and 4 CFR 102.13.

(5 U.S.C. 5514)

§ 1.993 Non-waiver of rights.

So long as there are not statutory or contractural provisions to the contrary, an employee's involuntary payment (of all or a portion of a debt) under these regulations will not be interpreted as a waiver of any rights that the employee may have under 5 U.S.C. 5514.

(5 U.S.C. 5514)

§ 1.994 Refunds.

The VA will refund promptly to the appropriate individual amounts offset under these regulations when:

(a) A debt is waived or otherwise found not owed the United States (unless expressly prohibited by statute or regulation); or

(b) The VA is directed by an administrative or judicial order to refund amounts deducted from the employee's current pay.

BILLING CODE 8320-01-M

[8320-01-M]

38 CFR Part 19

Appeals—General; Rules of Practice

AGENCY: Veterans Administration.

ACTION: Proposed regulations.

SUMMARY: The Board of Veterans Appeals proposes to amend its regulations dealing with tape recordings and written transcripts of personal hearings conducted before the Board. The proposal would amend provisions of the existing regulations in 38 CFR 19.168 and 38 CFR 19.170. It has been determined that instead of providing appellants and their representatives with a written copy of hearing proceedings, it would be more convenient for them and more effective for the Board to provide them with a copy of the tape recording of the hearing. Providing a copy would allow swift service when a record of a hearing proceedings held before a section of the Board is requested. The Board would continue to provide written transcripts when the case is remanded and when good cause has been shown.

DATE: Comments must be received by May 21, 1986.

ADDRESSES: Interested persons are invited to submit written comments, suggestions, or objections regarding the proposal to the Administrator of Veterans Affairs (271A), Veterans Administration, 810 Vermont Avenue NW., Washington, DC 20420. All written comments received will be available for inspection in the Veterans Services Unit, room 132, at the above address only between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday (except holidays) until June 5, 1986.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Jan Donsbach, Special (Legal) Assistant to the Chairman, Board of Veterans Appeals, Veterans Administration, 810 Vermont Avenue NW., Washington, DC 20420 (202-389-2978).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The VA is proposing to amend its existing regulation concerning providing a written transcript or a copy of the tape recording of proceedings at personal hearings without cost to the appellant or representative if requested at the time of or prior to the hearing; otherwise a charge may be made in accordance with 38 CFR 1.577. The other regulation will need to be amended because it fails to make clear that the official record of hearing proceedings may consist of either the tape recording of the hearing or the transcript of that recording made by the Board.

In essence, the revised regulations will provide that requests for a record of personal hearing proceedings before the Board will be honored by furnishing a copy of the tape recording of the proceedings under normal circumstances. A written transcript will be provided when testimony and argument is presented at the hearing concerning an issue remanded by the Board to the agency of original jurisdiction or when an appellant or his/her representative have shown good cause why a written transcript should be prepared.

The proposed amendment is necessary because it will (1) reduce the backlog of tapes awaiting transcription; (2) reduce the cost of typing hearing proceedings; and (3) provide more swift and efficient service to appellants. The Board intends to continue to provide a paper transcript where suit is filed in those cases, such as some insurance matters, which are subject to judicial review. This proposed amendment will be cost effective both in labor and copying.

The Administrator has certified that these regulations will not, if promulgated, have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities as they are defined in the Regulatory Flexibility Act (RFA), 5 U.S.C. 601–612. Pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 605(b), this regulation therefore is exempt from the initial and final regulatory flexibility analyses requirements of sections 603 and 604. It will have no significant direct impact on small entities (i.e., small businesses, small private and nonprofit organizations, and small governmental jurisdictions).

California; Final Authorization of the State Hazardous Waste Management Program

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Notice of tentative determination on the State of California's application for final authorization, public hearing, and public comment period.

SUMMARY: The State of California has applied for final authorization under the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA). EPA has made a tentative determination that the state's hazardous waste program meets the requirements to qualify for final authorization. However, before EPA issues a final decision to authorize California, California must take certain actions to demonstrate its program capability and make certain clarifying changes to its application. California's application for final authorization is available for public review and comment. Two public hearings will be held by EPA.

DATES: EPA Region 9 has scheduled its public hearings for June 3rd and 4th, 1986. The hearing on June 3rd will be held beginning at 10:00 a.m. in the Hawaii-Trust Territories Room, EPA Region 9, 215 Fremont Street, San Francisco, California. The hearing on June 4th will be held beginning at 10:00 a.m. in the auditorium, Room 1138, Depártment of Health Services, 107 South Broadway, Los Angeles, California. In addition to EPA, representatives from the California Department of Health Services will participate in the hearings. All public comments must be received by the close of business on June 4th.

ADDRESSES: Copies of California's final authorization application are available for inspection and copying from 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the following locations: California Department of Health Services, 1219 K Street, Sacramento, CA, Phone: (916) 323–0042 and 4250 Power Inn Road, Sacramento, CA, Phone: (916) 739–3145; California Department of Health Services, 5850 Shellmound Suite 360, Emeryville, CA, Phone: (415) 540–2043; California Department of Health Services, 107 South Broadway, Los Angeles, CA, Phone: (213) 620–2380; U.S. EPA Headquarters Library, 401 M Street SW., Washington, DC, Phone: (202) 382–5926; U.S. EPA Region 9 Library, 215 Fremont Street, San Francisco, CA, Phone: (415) 974–8076. Written comments should be sent to Karen Ueno, EPA Region 9, Toxics and Waste Management Division (T–2–5), 215 Fremont Street, San Francisco, CA 94105.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

A. Background

Section 3006 of the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) allows EPA to authorize state hazardous waste program to operate in lieu of the federal hazardous waste program, subject to the limitations imposed by the Hazardous and Solid Waste Amendments of 1984 (HSWA). Under section 3006, EPA may grant two types of authorization. The first type, "interim authorization," is a temporary authorization which is granted if EPA determines that the state program is substantially equivalent to the federal program (Section 3006(c), 42 U.S.C. 6926(c)). EPA's implementing regulations in 40 CFR 271.121–271.137 establishes a phased approach to interim authorization:

- Phase I, covering the EPA regulations in 40 CFR Parts 260–263, and 265 (the universe of hazardous waste and standards for hazardous waste generators, transporters and interim status facilities), and
- Phase II, covering the EPA regulations in 40 CFR Parts 124, 264, and 270 (the procedures and standards for permitting hazardous waste management facilities).

Phase II, in turn, has three components. Phase IIA covers permitting of containers and tanks. Phase IIB covers permitting of incinerator facilities. Phase IIC covers permitting of landfills, land treatment units, surface impoundments, and waste piles.

By statute, interim authorization expired on January 31, 1986. Responsibility for the hazardous waste program reverted to EPA on that date if the state did not receive final authorization, as described below.

The second type of authorization, "final authorization," is a permanent authorization which is granted if EPA determines that the state program is (1) equivalent to the federal program, (2) consistent with the federal program and other state programs, and (3) provides for adequate enforcement (Section 3006(b), 42 U.S.C. 6926(b)). States need not have obtained interim authorization in order to qualify for final authorization. EPA regulations for final authorization appear at 40 CFR 271.1–271.23.

B. California

California received Phase I interim authorization on June 4, 1981 and Phase IIA on January 11, 1983. California did not apply for Phases IIB and IIC interim authorization.

After soliciting public comments and holding a public hearing on June 6, 1985, California submitted an application for final authorization to EPA on November 7, 1985. The application reflects the federal program that was in effect one year prior to California's submission, or on November 7, 1984. At this time, California is not seeking authorization for any portion of HSWA.

As California did not receive final authorization by January 31, 1986, responsibility for the hazardous waste program reverted to EPA.

EPA has reviewed California's application and has identified a number of concerns. California has resolved these concerns by revising, and by committing to revise, the application. The major concerns with the application are as follows:

- The organization and management of the Department of Health Services' program, primarily in the areas of compliance monitoring, enforcement reporting, and enforcement at RCRA land disposal (ground water monitoring) facilities;
- The process and paper flow for approving closures and issuing permits, and
- The discussion of state statutes and regulations.

The concerns raised by EPA, and the application revisions and proposed revisions are available for public review at the locations identified in "Addresses."

EPA's tentative determination to authorize the state is based on California's commitment to incorporate the proposed revisions in the application (e.g., in the Attorney General's Statement, Program Description, Memorandum of Agreement, etc.) before EPA's final decision. California expects to make these revisions on or before the dates of the public hearings.

In addition to reviewing the application, EPA has also assessed California's capability to operate the RCRA program upon final authorization. In March 1985, as part of the mid-year grant evaluation, EPA reviewed the state's capability and identified problem areas in the state's performance. To assist the state in addressing these problem areas, EPA developed a Capability Assessment Action Plan (CAAP) in June 1985. The CAAP identified the critical capability issues, and specified the actions California needed to take to improve program performance.

The "June 1985" CAAP has allowed EPA to measure the state's performance in recent months. The state has successfully completed many of the CAAP actions. However, performance in several program areas remains of concern, particularly in compliance monitoring and enforcement reporting, and in taking timely and appropriate enforcement actions.

EPA has modified the "June 1985" CAAP to identify the remaining program areas where capability must be demonstrated before EPA can grant final authorization to California. The state is committed to completing the actions in the CAAP. The CAAP, the state's commitment to complete the CAAP actions, and EPA's concerns with the state's recent performance are available for public review at the locations identified in "Addresses."

The significant actions which the state is committed to completing, are as follows:

- Thorough, complete, consistent, and timely documentation of inspections;
- Completion of quality inspections;
- Completion of grant commitments for inspections; and
- Timely and appropriate enforcement action at facilities with Class I violations.

Based on the state's commitment to improve program capability, EPA has tentatively determined that the state should be granted final authorization. EPA expects the state to complete the CAAP actions before a final decision is issued. In accordance with Section 3006 of RCRA and 40 CFR 271.20(d), EPA will hold public hearings on California's application and the Agency's tentative determination. The public may also submit written comments.

In making its final decision to authorize California's program, EPA will consider all public comments received. Issues raised by these comments may be the basis for a decision to deny final authorization to California. EPA will give notice of its final decision in the Federal Register. The notice will include a summary of the reasons for the decision and a response to all major comments.

C. Effect of HSWA on California Authorization

Prior to the November 1984 Hazardous and Solid Waste Amendments to RCRA, a state with final authorization would have administered its hazardous waste program entirely in lieu of EPA. The federal requirements no longer applied in the authorized state, and EPA could not issue permits to any facilities the State was authorized to permit. When new, more stringent federal requirements were promulgated or enacted, the state was obligated to enact equivalent authority within specified time frames. New federal requirements did not take effect in an authorized state until the state adopted the requirements as state law.

In contrast, under section 3006(g) of RCRA, 42 U.S.C. 6926(g), new requirements and prohibitions imposed by HSWA take effect in authorized states at the same time as they take effect in nonauthorized states. EPA is directed to carry out those requirements and prohibitions in authorized states, including the issuance of full or partial federal permits, until the state is granted authorization to do so. While states must still adopt HSWA-related provisions as state law to retain full authorization, the HSWA applies in authorized states in the interim.

As a result of HSWA, there will be a dual state/federal regulatory program in California if final RCRA authorization is granted. To the extent the authorized state program is unaffected by HSWA, the state's program will operate in lieu of the federal program. Where HSWA-related requirements apply, EPA will administer and enforce those portions of HSWA in California until the state receives authorization to do do.

Any state requirement that is more stringent than a federal HSWA provision will also remain in effect; thus, the universe of the more stringent provisions in HSWA and the approved state program define the applicable Subtitle C requirements in California.

Today's tentative determination does not include authorization for any requirement implementing HSWA. Once the state is authorized to implement a HSWA requirement or prohibition, the state program in that area will operate in lieu of the federal program. Until that time, the state may assist EPA's implementation of HSWA under a Cooperative Agreement.

EPA has published a Federal Register notice that explains in detail HSWA and HSWA's effect on authorized states. That notice was published at 50 FR 28702 through 28755, July 15, 1985.

Compliance With Executive Order 12291

The Office of Management and Budget (OMB) has exempted this rule from the requirements of section 3 of Executive Order 12291.

Certification Under the Regulatory Flexibility Act

Pursuant to the provisions of 5 U.S.C. 605(b), I hereby certify that this authorization will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The authorization effectively suspends the applicability of certain federal regulations in favor of California's program, thereby eliminating duplicative requirements for handlers of hazardous waste in the state. It does not impose any new burdens on small entities. This rule, therefore, does not require a regulatory flexibility analysis.

Common Carrier Services; Reporting Requirements for Interstate Rates of Return

AGENCY: Federal Communications Commission.

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: The Commission proposes the adoption of quarterly reporting requirements for certain telephone companies. If adopted the carriers will be required to report interstate rates of return called for in Part 65 of our Rules. This proposal is made to enable the Commission to implement its decision to enforce maximum rate of return prescriptions and to monitor the carrier's actual performance on an access element-by-element basis.

DATES: Comments must be submitted on or before May 15 and reply comments on or before May 30, 1986.

ADDRESS: Federal Communications Commission, Washington, DC 20554.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Alan Feldman, Common Carrier Bureau, Industry Analysis Division, Washington, DC 20554, (202) 632-4047.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: This is a summary of the Commissions notice of proposed rulemaking, CC Docket 86-127, adopted April 8, 1986, and released April 16, 1986.

The full text of this Commission notice is available for inspection and copying during normal business hours in the FCC Dockets Branch (Room 230), 1919 M Street NW., Washington, DC. The complete text of this proposal may be purchased from the Commission's copy contractors, International Transcription Service, (202) 857-3800, 2100 M Street NW., Suite 140, Washington, DC 20037.

The collection of information requirement contained in this proposed rule has been submitted to OMB for review under section 3504(h) of the Paperwork Reduction Act. Persons wishing to comment on this collection of information requirement should direct their comments to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Office of Management and Budget, Washington, DC 20503, Attention: Desk Officer for Federal Communications Commission.

Summary of Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

The Commission is seeking public comment on a proposal to establish FCC Form 492, a quarterly rate of return report, which would be required from local exchange carriers that file individual access tariffs with the Commission. Form 492 shall consist of two parts. The first part shall contain rates of return on a cumulative basis from the start of the enforcement period to the end of the quarter being reported. The second part shall contain information only for the quarter being reported. Also, the National Exchange Carrier Association would provide a quarterly report similar to the one proposed for the local exchange carriers, for the results of the pooled tariffs that it administers. The Commission is also proposing that AT&T be required to submit quarterly filings of individual category earnings based upon the Interim Cost Allocation Manual's principles.

The rulemaking serves three purposes. The Commission is proposing to adopt rules to establish the reports that are required to implement its decision to enforce maximum rate of return prescriptions. The Commission is also proposing to establish some interim quarterly reporting requirements for the local exchange carriers to enable it to monitor carrier's actual performance on an access element-by-element basis. We believe such reports will be assistance in the tariff review process and that the reports will provide us and the carriers with an early warning system if rate adjustments are necessary to correct a significant targeting error. When the Commission's automated reporting and management information system becomes operational, it should obviate the need for the quarterly reports (interim reports) that are used for monitoring purposes. The automated system will not, however, obviate the need for the reports that are filed at the end of a review period and that will be used for rate of return enforcement purposes. Finally, the Commission is proposing to clarify and set time limits for rate base and interperiod adjustments.

The Commission believes this proposal would impose minimal burdens upon both the Commission and the carriers while still providing the agency information it needs to support its regulatory requirements.

Ordering Clauses

Accordingly, it is ordered, That pursuant to the provisions of sections 4(i), 4(j); and 205 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, 47 U.S.C. 154(i) and (j), and 205, there is hereby instituted a notice of proposed rulemaking into the foregoing matters.

It is further ordered, That interested persons may file comments on the specific proposals discussed in this Notice on or before May 15, 1986. Reply comments shall be filed on or before May 30, 1986. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.419 of the Commission's Rules and Regulations, 47 CFR 1.419, an original and five (5) copies of all comments shall be furnished to the Commission. Copies of the comments will be available for public inspection in the Commission's Docket Reference Room, 1919 M Street, NW., Washington, D.C.

It is further ordered, That the Secretary shall serve a copy of this Notice on each state commission.

Report and Order

(Proceeding Terminated)

In the matter of amendment of § 73.606(b), Table of Assignments, Television Broadcast Stations. (Fresno, California).

Adopted: April 2, 1986.

Released: April 16, 1986.

By the Chief, Policy and Rules Division.

1. The Commission has before it for consideration its Notice of Proposed Rule Making, 48 FR 14692, published April 5, 1983, which proposed the assignment of UHF TV Channel 69 to Fresno, California, at the request of Millard V. Oakley ("petitioner"). The assignment would represent the seventh commercial service to Fresno. Petitioner submitted comments reiterating his intention to apply for the channel, if assigned. Opposing comments were filed by Motorola, Inc. ("Motorola"), the National Association of Business and Educational Radio, Inc. ("NABER"), and Pappas Telecasting Incorporated ("Pappas"). Reply comments were filed by the petitioner, Pappas, and the Association of Maximum Service Telecasters ("MST").

2. Fresno (population 218,202),[1] the seat of Fresno County (population 514,621), is located in central California, approximately 260 kilometers (160 miles) northeast of San Francisco.

3. Motorola is an equipment supplier and systems designer of private land mobile radio systems. NABER is a national association which represents licensees in the Business Radio Service and other private land mobile radio services. Both groups base their opposition to the use of Channel 69 at Fresno on the adverse impact they state the assignment would have on area licensees in the private land mobile services. Motorola states that there are approximately 350 mobile units currently operating on channels adjacent to Channel 69 (800-806 MHz) within 35 miles of the transmitter coordinates used by Oakley, and half of those are mobile units which operate on systems located within 20 miles of that site. In order to avoid the serious interference problems which Motorola and NABER state are unavoidable if Channel 69 is used, they request that another, lower, television channel be allocated.

4. It is noted by MST that the land mobile interests were fully aware when they applied for use of the frequencies adjacent to 806 MHz that Channel 69 would remain available for television broadcasting.

5. On March 1, 1982, the Commission issued a Public Notice, Channel 14 and 69 Television Permittees' Obligation to Protect Existing Land Mobile Facilities on Adjacent Frequencies from Objectionable Interference, Mimeo No. 2526. In that release, the Commission has advised all potential applicants for those channels that the grant of their construction permits would be conditioned to provide that, prior to being granted program test authority, they would be required to take adequate measures to provide protection against objectionable interference to existing land mobile radio facilities in the adjacent bands. The ultimate permittee for Channel 69 at Fresno would be required to comply with the interference
